HOLDS OWN WITH HECKLERS

TURNS LAUGH ON HARDING

Candidate Charges Senator Has Confessed 'Stupendous Conspiracy' to Hold Up Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Sept. 28.—Campaigning today through South Dakota, where he entered into debates on the League of Nations issue with citizens in a dozen communities where many of the voters are of German origin, Governor James M. Cox charged that Senator Harding, by admitting in his address at Baltimore that he had "no constructive plan with reference to a new relationship of the nations of the world," had made a "plea of guilty" on behalf of himself and his associates "for the most stupendous conspiracy the world has ever seen."

Governor Cox spent the day in a State which has always gone heavily Republican and which was one of the two Western States—Oregon was the other—carried by Hughes in 1916. He kept up a continuous attack on Senator Harding for the latter's statement in Baltimore, when heckled about his position on the League, that he had been visited with a discourtesy.

Before the day was over Governor Cox had his audiences laughing at the picture he drew of Senator Harding as a man who knew not his own mind in regard to the League of Nations issue, who was trying to satisfy every faction, and therefore feared to be drawn out or questioned as to his attitude. On the other hand, Governor Cox told his audiences—there were sixteen of them in all—that he invited questions on the League or any other issue and was prepared to answer them.

Senator Harding, he said, had discarded the plan to end war, which represented the work of the best minds of the world, and said to the people, "I ask you to go with me. I don't know where I am going, but I am on my way."

"Never in the history of the country," added Governor Cox, "has a campaign developed a situation so deplorable and so pitiable."

Thinks Harding Dangerous to Himself.

The news dispatches concerning Senator Harding's address at Baltimore and his refusal to answer the heckler, on the ground that a discourtesy had been offered him, have led Governor Cox and the members of his party to feel that Harding, off the front porch, has begun to prove more dangerous to himself than if he had remained at home.

Governor Cox was greeted by big crowds all along the line today. At Sioux City, Iowa, at least 3,000 persons were out at 7 o'clock in the morning, and in the fifteen communities in which he appeared in South Dakota his reception was in the nature of a surprise, for he had been led to believe he was entering territory where he would meet with little else than opposition.

At some of the towns where the percentage of population of German origin was large Governor Cox faced frank opposition. The town of Tripp provided one instance of his ability to convince his hearers or, at least, to put down open opposition. It was at this town, also, that an incident occurred which caused much laughter. Two dogs started a fight and interrupted the Governor's address.

"That's the way with the countries in Europe; they are quarreling among themselves," said the Governor.

Verbal Tilt Over League.

Governor Cox asked if any person in the audience objected to the League of Nations.

"I object to the whole thing," exclaimed a man.

"Why do you object?" the Governor asked.

"America should take care of herself," was the answer.

"What was the song they sang in Germany before the war?" asked Governor Cox. "Deutschland uber Alles? What was the meaning of that? 'Germany first, above all things,' wasn't it? What happened to Germany? She attempted to be selfish, she was selfish, she created a great military machine. As a result she developed the hatred of the rest of the world, and what happened to her?"

"Isn't England just at the same point if she is keeping on with her militarism?" asked the man in the audience.

"My friend," the Governor replied, "the purpose of the League of Nations is to bring about disarmament. I have no disposition to be disagreeable. You have been reading George Viereck's stuff, haven't you? He said he was going to deliver 6,000,000 votes to Senator Harding because Senator Harding favored a German-American alliance."

The man in the audience with a strong German accent exclaimed, "We don't want any hyphenated citizens. We want all to be Americans. Just what

To Test Coast Defense Guns On the Old Massachusetts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — Destructive effect of the nation's coast defense guns against an armored warship will be tested for the first time in an experimental bombardment of the old battleship Massachusetts. The Massachusetts will be turned over to the War Department about Nov. 1 to be used as a target for the 12-inch coast guns and mortars of Pensacola, Fla.

Although the Massachusetts was constructed nearly twenty years ago, her 18-inch armor approximates that of the latest battleships, being exceptionally heavy for ships of that period, and thus affording a good subject for the test. The ship will be anchored in shallow water at a range of about three miles, it was said.

WILSON BEGINS PART IN CAMPAIGN

Letter Issued at His Direction by Tumulty Points Irish to League.

REPEATS ARTICLE XI. STAND

Answer to Los Angeles Inquiry Is First of Series of White House Statements.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — President Wilson intends to take an active part in the last month's work of the national campaign according to those who have consulted with Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President. His activities will be confined largely to the writing of letters and the issuance of statements dealing with the League of Nations.

In conformity with this plan a letter was issued from the White House today, dealing with one aspect of the League of Nations controversy. It was in reply to one written by E. M. Swartz of Los Angeles, Cal., and was prepared by Secretary Tumulty at President Wilson's directitotn.

In his letter Mr. Swartz asked whether, if the League of Nations Covenant were ratified with Article X. unchanged, "the United States would be bound to support England in holding Ireland under subjection." Secretary Tumulty, by direction of the President, quoted a series of questions which the President had answered on Article X. and the Irish question in the course of his Western trip last year. The Irish question, the President then said, could be referred to the League as provided in Article XI., which reads:

"Any war or threat of war, whether immediately affecting any of the members of the League or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the whole League, and the League shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations. In case any such emergency should arise, the Secretary General shall, on the request of any member of the League, forthwith summon a meeting of the Council.

"It is also declared to be the friendly right of each member of the League to bring to the attention of the Assembly or of the Council any circumstance whatever affecting international relations which threatens to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends."

Text of White House Letter.

The letter which Mr. Tumulty, by direction of the President, wrote to Mr. Swartz, reads:

"The White House,

"Mr. Edwin M. Swartz, 515 Hollingsworth Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

"My Dear Mr. Swartz:

"In reply to your letter of the 20th of September, I beg to say that the identical questions contained in your letter, with reference to Article X and the right of self-determination, found in the covenant of the League of Nations, were placed before the President while he was on his Western trip last year and fully answered by him. The President directs me to call your attention to the following questions and answers given by him to the press at that time, which I think satisfactorily answer your inquiries. The questions and answers are as follows:

Q. Under the covenant does the nation obligate itself to assist any member of the League in putting down rebellion of its subjects or conquered peoples? A. It does not.

Q. Under the covenant can this nation independently recognize a Government whose people seek to achieve or have achieved their independence from a member of the League? A. The independent action of the Government of the United States in a matter of this kind is in no way limited or affected by the covenant of the League of Nations.

Q. Under the covenant are those subject nations or peoples only that are mentioned in the Peace Treaty entitled to the right of self-determination or does the League possess the right to accord a similar privilege to other subject nations or people? A. It was not possible for the Peace Conference to act with regard to the self-determination of any territories except those which had belonged to the defeated empires, but in the covenant of the League of Nations it has set up for the first time in Article XI. a forum to which all claims of self-determination which are likely to disturb the peace of the world, or the good understanding between nations upon which the peace of the world depends, can be brought.

Q. Why was the case of Ireland not heard at the Peace Conference? And

CRITICISE SIR ERIC GEDDES

DEPARTMENT WAS COSTLY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Much interest has been aroused by a report that the Ministry of Transport, which was re-created only a short while ago, is to be scrapped. The inference is drawn that the Government has definitely abandoned the idea of the nationalization of railways, which Winston Churchill in an indiscreet speech at Dundee indicated had been under favorable consideration.

The Ministry of Transport has had an inglorious career. It was inaugurated with a great flourish of trumpets. Its first head, Sir Eric Geddes, brother of the British Ambassador at Washington, was one of the big business men—in the course of time some of them came to be sardonically termed supermen—was put in charge of Government departments during the war. A number of them, like Lord Ashfield, returned to their original vocations later, but others remained in the Government service, Sir Eric Geddes being prominent among the latter.

Under his direction the Ministry of Transport was to solve all railway problems, and particularly to initiate a great scheme for the distribution of electric power to the railways all over the country, which was to make Great Britain a land fit for heroes to live in by increasing general prosperity and reducing the running costs of the railways.

The Ministry was to exercise control of the railways, and although it was declared that nationalization was not yet intended, it was pointed out that the machinery for nationalization was being set up and would be available once that policy should be determined upon.

Sir Eric organized his new Ministry on a scale which the Parliamentary committee appointed to report upon it described as grandiose. His estimates of the cost of running the Ministry provided for the expenditure of nearly £500,000; thirty-two officials were to receive salaries of more than £1,000 per year. In view of the criticisms passed in Parliament and outside, Sir Eric revised his estimates and reduced them by £85,000.

It was argued in his favor that his Ministry would, by its grouping of the railways, bring about economies all to the advantage of the community. The public, however, instead of seeing the reduction of the 50 per cent. promised, found that passenger and freight rates were increased, and it was asked where was the advantage of a plan whereby a super-directorate of the railways was created at a great cost merely to supervise the existing railway Directors and officials, who continued to draw their salaries and, incidentally, strongly disliked being supervised by a body of men largely recruited from the particular railway with which the Minister of Transportation had been identified before he joined the public service.

Radical advocates of nationalization of the railways claim that the disappearance of the Ministry of Transport will not affect the principle of nationalization. The Star, for instance, says:

"Nationalism is one thing; private management is another. Geddesism is neither fish, flesh nor good herring. It irritates the interests without rallying the public."

On the other hand, as already mentioned, it is generally surmised that dissolution of the Ministry of Transport has been decided upon as a preliminary step to the removal of that larger measure of Government control which was placed upon the railways during the war, and a return to the old condition when a mere department, the Board of Trade, sufficed to do the work that the Ministry of Transport took up.

In other words, the trend is in the direction of further denationalization rather than nationalization.

With regard to Sir Eric Geddes personally, The Westminster Gazette hopes that "the Government has been taught a lesson that super-business men had better be left out of politics. They have, with few exceptions, proved a failure in Whitehall and the House of Commons, and because a man has grandiose ideas and is a great hustler, it does not necessarily follow he will successfully control a Government department where economy should be the watchword."

As was to be expected, an official denial has been given to the report that the Ministry is to be wound up.

Shipping Board's Payroll Cut $5,530,000 This Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — A cut in its personnel of 3,234 employes, resulting in a decrease in the payroll of $5,530,372 during the fiscal year of 1920, was announced tonight by the Shipping Board.

On July 1, 1919, the board stated its employes all over the country numbered 11,706 with an annual payroll of $22,299,676, and on July 1, 1920, there were 8,482 employes with a payroll of $16,769,304.

IRISH TOWN BURNING; KILL TWO IN BELFAST

FOLLOWS SINN FEIN RAID

They Had Invaded Military Barracks and Seized Arms—London Denounces Reprisals.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Dublin says the town of Mallow, County Cork, is on fire in several places and that the fire brigade is unable to turn out on account of the curfew order.

The creamery, the Town Hall, mills and many houses have been burned. The damage amounts to several thousand pounds.

An earlier dispatch from Mallow said the military barracks were raided this morning, the raiders escaping with arms. One soldier was shot dead.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Sept. 28.—Sinn Feiners achieved what is probably their biggest and most daring coup this morning, when a party of 120 armed men attacked the military barracks at Mallow, overpowered a guard of 12 men and seized a big quantity of ammunition, stores and rifles. One non-commissioned officer was shot dead.

After laying their hands on everything they could find, including at least one machine gun, they made an unsuccessful attempt to burn down the building.

The barracks was occupied by a small number of lancers. When the Sinn Feiners arrived the troops were out at exercise, leaving only a guard in charge.

Another account states that Sergeant Gibbs opposed the entry of the raiders and was shot down.

There were few other soldiers in barracks at the time and they were covered with revolvers and held prisoner while the main body of the raiders ransacked the building and made almost a clean sweep of rifles, revolvers and stores of ammunition. They also took away some horse collars.

Having collected all the available war material, with great audacity they systematically took it out to a waiting motor car, and then drove off.

While the raid was in progress a neighboring police barracks was kept under close observation by a separate section of the raiders.

Renew Belfast Riots.

BELFAST, Sept. 28.—Two civilians were shot dead and a number of persons were wounded during a clash between soldiers and a crowd on the Falls Road late today.

There was a recurrence of rioting and shooting on Monday night in the Old Lodge Road district, where shipyard workers were attacked by armed men. Seven persons were wounded by revolver bullets. The soldiers dispersed the rioters by bayonet charges.

Seventeen arrests were made for violations of the curfew order.

Denounce Police Reprisals.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Serious anxiety over the recurrence of the "Black and Tan" reprisals in Ireland is reflected by English newspapers, which sharply call for the Government to halt what is described by The London Times as "semi-official lynch law."

Earlier occurrences in Ireland passed without much notice here, but recent raids, especially those on Balbriggan and Trim, and the lukewarm criticism of the "Black and Tan" police forces by General Sir Cecil F. Neville Macready, military commander in Ireland, are causing considerable disquiet.

Condemnation of recent disorders is not confined to newspapers which are avowedly sympathizers with the Irish nationalist movement, the conservative Graphic, which is an unsparing critic of the Sinn Feiners, declaring:

"This is not calm and orderly justice and punishment according to British ideas. It must be stopped."

Charges that the Government is following the methods of its opponents are made by The Times, which continues:

"Presumably there is a hope that Ireland will be ground to docility between the upper and nether millstones. The Government should be warned of the harvest it may reap."

These are only samples of the sort of criticism appearing in the press of various shades of opinion.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has issued an appeal to Christians to make national troubles the subject of prayer. "Endeavors on either side in Ireland," he declares, "have been thwarted by prejudice, inflamed by passion, flouted or made powerless, and liberty travestied, while capable men are striving eagerly but vainly to find a reasonable pathway through the darkening turmoil."

FIND MRS. BERGDOLL AND OTHERS GUILTY OF BLOCKING DRAFT

SHE FACES 32-YEAR TERM

Judge Declares That Grover and Erwin Had Been Inducted Into the Army.

SEES EXCUSE FOR MOTHER

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28. — Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll and her co-defendants are guilty. A jury in Federal court tonight brought in a verdict to that effect against the mother of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll and Edwin Bergdoll; Charles A. Braun, a third son of the brewer's widow; James E. Romig, former Magistrate; Albert S. Mitchell and Henry Schuh, friends of the Bergdolls. Clemency was recommended for the last two, who were acquitted on the individual charges of conspiracy.

The defendants were convicted of conspiring to aid the two slackers in their spectacular flight to evade military service during the European war. The indictments were drawn up jointly and singly by Charles D. McAvoy, United States District Attorney for Eastern Pennsylvania. On the joint indictment all were convicted. On the individual indictment all but Mitchell and Schuh were convicted.

Mrs. Bergdoll faces a term of thirty-two years in Federal prison and a fine of $30,000 as the maximum penalty that the court might fix. For Romig, the extreme punishment might be eight years' imprisonment and $14,000 fine. Braun, who changed his name from Bergdoll after his brothers attained their notoriety, may go to prison for seven years and pay $10,000 fine. The last two defendants, Mitchell and Schuh, might be fined $10,000 and go to prison for two years each. The indictments for the quintet include fifty-six counts in nine bills.

Move for a New Trial.

Counsel for the defendants moved at once for a new trial. The court immediately adjourned, and no date was fixed for the time of sentencing the conspirators. Mr. McAvoy, before adjournment, suggested that the bail be increased for each one, but when he learned that the defendants were under $10,000 bail each he declared the amount sufficient.

Mrs. Bergdoll signed all the bail bonds except that of Braun. His was signed by a bonding company.

All the defendants were in court. Mrs. Bergdoll, for the first time in her varied experience as a litigant and defendant, showed outward signs of nervousness when the jury filed in at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

When the foreman of the jury, Thomas Manley, arose he almost seemed nervous. His voice was low and he found considerable difficulty in expressing himself. Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, who had been presiding ever since the trial began, on Sept. 20, urged Mr. Manley to speak up.

"Guilty," answered the foreman as the Clerk of the Court read the several indictments.

When Mrs. Bergdoll's name was mentioned and the foreman spoke the verdict the woman slumped down in her chair. She was stunned. Romig's smile disappeared. His face turned ashen. But the defendant who took the verdict hardest was Braun. He stared straight ahead and seemed to be dazed. For several minutes he sat thus, then pulling himself together walked out of the courtroom with the other defendants. They went into an anteroom, where the bail bonds were signed.

The demeanor of the defendants was in striking contrast to their conduct earlier in the day. Mrs. Bergdoll had dressed herself in a white summery costume, with a white and black hat and a fashionable green parasol. Romig's face showed evidences of a brand new "store shave" and face massage. He told the newspaper men, however, that he had not slept a wink the night before.

Jury One on Mrs. Bergdoll's Guilt.

One of the jurors, George W. Hensel, said he and his colleagues had no doubt as to the guilt of Mrs. Bergdoll, Braun and Romig. The lengthy deliberations, he said, were due to the perplexities the jurors had concerning the guilt of Mitchell and Schuh.

"When the jury first went out we spent two hours in discussing the evidence," Mr. Hensel said. "We sounded the sentiment of the talesmen, but there was no question from the first of the guilt of Mrs. Bergdoll, Braun and Romig. We found some difficulty, however, in determining the guilt of Schuh and Mitchell and sent instructions to the Judge asking him to read us the testimony in which Schuh and Mitchell figured."

Mr. McAvoy was plainly elated.

"The verdict was exactly right," he exclaimed. "No other conclusion could have been reached."

The formalities of the bonds completed, the defendants strode down the corridors of the Federal Building to the elevator at the north end. Newspaper men sought Mrs. Bergdoll for a statement.

"No statement," Mrs. Bergdoll exclaimed. "No statement," she repeated

EIGHT WHITE SOX PLAYERS ARE INDICTED ON CHARGE OF FIXING 1919 WORLD SERIES; CICOTTE GOT $10,000 AND JACKSON $5,000

Yankee Owners Give Praise to Comiskey And Offer Him Use of Their Whole Team

Following the announcement from Chicago yesterday that Owner Charles A. Comiskey had suspended two star pitchers, two regular infielders, his two leading outfielders and one utility player, Colonels Jacob Ruppert and T. L. Huston, owners of the New York Club, put at Comiskey's disposal the entire New York American League Club.

It is not likely, however, that the offer will be accepted. The reason advanced for the unusual offer is that such a grave and unforeseen emergency requires an unusual remedy. An American League rule prevents the transfer of a player from one club to another after July 1 without the asking of waivers, which would give any club in the league an opportunity to get the player. This is the technicality referred to in the message.

The telegram from the Yankee owners to Comiskey read as follows:

Mr. Charles A. Comiskey, Chicago, Ill.:

Your action in suspending players under suspicion, although it wrecks your entire organization and perhaps your cherished lifework, not only challenges our admiration but excites our sympathy and demands our practical assistance. You are making a terrible sacrifice to preserve the integrity of the game. So grave and unforseen an emergency requires unusual remedies.

Therefore, in order that you may play out your schedule and, if necessary the world's series, our entire club is placed at your disposal. We are confident that Cleveland sportsmanship will not permit you to lose by default and will welcome the arrangement. We are equally certain that any technicality in carrying it out can be readily overcome by action on the part of the National Commission.

BIG BUILDING BOOM SEEN IN RENT LAWS

Construction Takes Big Jump, Says Moore—5,000 Tenants' Cases Heard by Committee.

Optimistic predictions concerning housing relief as a result of the new rent laws were made yesterday by experts who have given the new laws careful study. Chairman Arthur J. W. Hilly of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering pointed out that one of the laws provides for the exemption of local taxes for ten years on all new dwellings begun within the next eighteen months.

"This feature alone ought to make it very attractive for a man to build his own home," said Mr. Hilly. "Remission of taxes for ten years means that he is saving 30 per cent. of the cost of construction. This, with the reports of reductions in the price of lumber and the possibility of drastic cuts in the prices of other building materials, leads me to believe that an era of building ought to be with us in a short time.

"One of the things that has hitherto deterred men from building homes and has forced them to pay outrageous rentals has been the excessive cost of materials. With that factor out of the way the own-your-own-home idea ought to make rapid strides."

Effect Already Felt in Queens.

John W. Moore, Building Commissioner of Queens, said that the new laws and the reduction in the price of lumber had already had a beneficial effect in Queens. In the last two days there has been unexpected activity in the filing of permits. On Tuesday applications were filed for forty-five detached frame dwellings of a total cost of $104,000. These were located in the Woodhaven and Richmond Hill districts.

"This is the largest number of applications filed for buildings of this character in any one day for a long time," said Commissioner Moore.

The Jackson Heights Apartment Corporation filed plans for the erection of eight four-story, eight family tenements at a total cost of $479,000. They will accomodate sixty-four families and will be erected on Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth Streets, south of Polk Avenue, Elmhurst.

"I have not issued a tenement house certificate from this office with but one exception since 1918," said Commissioner Moore. "I was told by the representatives of this company that the new legislation had prompted them to undertake operations."

Doyle Predicts Housing Boom.

Edward P. Doyle of the Mayor's Housing Conference Committee, said the price reductions in lumber would stimulate building. Mr. Doyle predicted a housing boom to begin in a short time. It was his opinion that the building program would be so extensive as to relieve apartment congestion in six months.

Increased building would not only provide homes for those who have been forced to "double up" with relatives or live in hotels, he said, but it would also tend to bring down rents, as the law of supply and demand would operate.

"Another way the reduced cost of materials will affect the housing situation will be to make loans on mortgages more easily obtainable," he continued. "Banking concerns have not been inclined to lend the full value on contemplated apartments because, with a prospective fall in the price of materials

GOVERNOR EXPOSES $5,000 PARDON PLOT

CONVICT'S KIN DECEIVED

Paid Money to Men Who Represented It Was for "Somebody Close to Governor."

Maurice L. Rosenberg, an insurance broker at 154 Nassau Street, and an unnamed physician were indicted yesterday on a charge of grand larceny by the Grand Jury shortly after Governor Alfred E. Smith had told the jurors of a plot whereby the commutation of sentence of Jacob Smith, a milk dealer, convicted of attempted arson, was made to appear as purchased by the payment of $5,000 to "somebody close to the Governor."

Immediately after the Grand Jury had handed the indictments to Judge William H. Wadhams bench warrants were issued for Rosenberg and the physician. Detective John Kilroy arrested Rosenberg at his office. He was locked up last night in Police Headquarters, and today will be arraigned before Judge Wadhams in General Sessions. Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley said he would ask that bail be fixed at $10,000. The unnamed doctor was still at liberty last night, although Detectives Cunniff and Russo were seeking him.

Reports that an organized group of east siders were working a new scheme of "shake down" were discounted at the Criminal Court Building. It was said that a group, fortified by knowledge that convicts' sentences were to be commuted or that the prisoners were to be pardoned, had made a practice of going to the men's relatives, and, by representing on the eve of the commutation that they could "fix it" for a certain sum, obtaining sums of money. Both Mr. Swann and Mr. Talley said they had no evidence that such a ring was operating.

Charge Against Jacob Smith.

Recounting the events that led up to the indictments Mr. Talley last night said:

"Jacob Smith was convicted in Cayuga County, N. Y., of attempted arson. He was sentenced on June 16, 1919, to Auburn Prison for from five to ten years. It was charged that he attempted to burn the creamery operated by the Smith Bros.-Suffern Milk and Cream Company at Cato, N. Y. Jacob Smith is a member of the milk company, together with his brother, Louis Smith. Their local office is at 818 East Eleventh Street.

"The matter which resulted in the indictment of Rosenberg and the unnamed defendant was brought to the attention of this office on Sept. 7, when Governor Smith telephoned me and asked that I come to Albany. The Governor said that rumors had reached him that persons were saying the commutation of Jacob Smith's sentence had been paid for. The Governor was emphatic in desiring that I go to the bottom of the matter at once.

"The report was that Rosenberg and the other defendant had obtained $5,000 from Jacob Smith's wife, Rebecca Smith, and from his brother, Louis Smith, on the ground that this sum was necessary to fix up the commutation.

"We investigated and found that the money was put up in the Corn Exchange Bank, Eleventh Ward Branch, Avenue D and East Tenth Street. The representations were that Rosenberg and the other man would reach somebody close to the Governor and obtain a commutation of the sentence of Jacob Smith.

"The fact was, the Governor had already determined upon the commutation,

COMISKEY SUSPENDS THEM

Promises to Run Them Out of Baseball if Found Guilty

TWO OF PLAYERS CONFESS

BOTH ARE HELD IN CUSTODY

Prosecutor Says More Players Will Be Indicted and Gamblers Brought to Task.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Seven star players of the Chicago White Sox and one former player were indicted late this afternoon, charged with complicity in a conspiracy with gamblers to "fix" the 1919 world's series. The indictments were based on evidence obtained for the Cook County Grand Jury by Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, and after confessions by two of the players told how the world's championship was thrown to Cincinnati and how they had received money or were "double-crossed" by the gamblers.

The eight players indicted are:

OSCAR "HAP" FELSCH, centre fielder.
CHARLES "SWEDE" RISBERG, shortstop.
GEORGE "BUCK" WEAVER, third baseman.
ARNOLD GANDIL, former first baseman.
CLAUDE WILLIAMS, pitcher.
FRED McMULLIN, utility player.

The specific charge against the eight players is "conspiracy to commit an illegal act," which is punishable by five years' imprisonment or a fine up to $10,000, but this charge may be changed when the full indictments are drawn by the Grand Jury.

No sooner had the news of the indictments become public than Comiskey suspended the seven players, wrecking the team he had given years to build up and almost certainly forfeiting his chances to beat out Cleveland for the American League pennant.

Would Run Them Out of Baseball.

Chicago, Sept. 26.

You and each of you are hereby notified of your indefinite suspension as a member of the Chicago American League Baseball Club.

Your suspension is brought about by information which has just come to me directly involving you and each of you in the baseball scandal resulting from the world's series of 1919.

If you are innocent of any wrongdoing you and each of you will be reinstated; if you are guilty you will be retired from organized baseball for the rest of your lives if I can accomplish it.

Until there is a finality to this investigation it is due to the public that I take this action, even though it costs Chicago the pennant.

CHICAGO AMERICAN BASEBALL CLUB.
By CHARLES A. COMISKEY.

Officials of the Grand Jury lifted the curtain on the proceedings and declared that Cicotte and Jackson made open confessions, Cicotte admitting receiving $10,000 and throwing two games, and Jackson admitting receiving $5,000 of $20,000 promised him by the gamblers and telling of his efforts to defeat his own team.

Cicotte Breaks Down and Weeps.

Cicotte's confession came after he and Alfred S. Austrian, counsel for the White Sox management, had conferred with Judge Charles A. McDonald in the latter's chambers.

Toward the end of this conference they were joined by Assistant State Attorney Hartley Replogle. A few moments later he and Cicotte proceeded to the Grand Jury room.

There the great baseball pitcher broke down and wept.

"My God! think of my children," he cried. Cicotte has two small children.

"I never did anything I regretted so much in my life," he continued. "I would give anything in the world if I could undo my acts in the last world's series. I've played a crooked game and I have lost, and I am here to tell the whole truth.

"I've lived a thousand years in the last year."

Describing how two games were thrown to Cincinnati, Cicotte, according to court officials, said:

"In the first game at Cincinnati I was knocked out of the box. I wasn't putting a thing on the ball. You could have read the trade mark on it when I lobbed the ball up to the plate.

"In the fourth game, played at Chicago, which I also lost, I deliberately intercepted a throw from the outfield to the plate which might have cut off a run. I muffed the ball on purpose.

"At another time in the same game I purposely made a wild throw. All the runs scored against me were due to my own deliberate errors. I did not try to win."

Cicotte, it was learned late tonight, confessed first to Comiskey. He went to the latter's office early in the morning.

"I don't know what you'll think of me," he said, "but I got to tell you how I double-crossed you. Mr. Comiskey, I did double-cross you. I'm a crook, and I got $10,000 for being a crook."

"Don't tell it to me," replied Comiskey, "tell it to the Judge."

Cicotte told it to the Judge in tears and shame, slowly, haltingly, hanging his head, now and then pausing to wipe his streaming eyes.

"Risberg and Gandil and McMullin were at me for a week before the world's series started," he said. "They wanted me to go crooked. I didn't know—I needed the money. I had the wife and the kids. The wife and kids don't know this. I don't know what they'll think.

Says He Needed It to Pay Mortgage.

"I bought a farm. There was a $4,000 mortgage on it. There isn't any mortgage on it now. I paid it off with the crooked money.

"The eight of us [the eight under indictment] got together in my room three or four days before the games started. Gandil was the master of ceremonies. We talked about throwing the series. Decided we could get away with it. We agreed to do it.

"I was thinking of the wife and kids and how I needed the money. I told them I had to have the cash in advance. I didn't want any checks. I didn't want any promise, as I wanted the money in bills. I wanted it before I pitched a ball.

"We all talked quite a while about it, I and the seven others. Yes, all of us decided to do our best to throw the games to Cincinnati.

"When Gandil and McMullin took us all, one by one, away from the others, and we talked 'turkey,' they asked me my price. I told them $10,000. And I told them that $10,000 was to be paid in advance.

"'Cash in advance,' I said. 'Cash in advance, and nothing else.'

"It was Gandil I was talking to. He wanted to give me some money at the time, the rest after the games were played and lost. But it didn't go with me.

"'I said cash,' I reminded him. 'Cash in advance, and not C. O. D. If you can't trust me, I can't trust you. Pay or I play ball.'

"Well, the arguments went on for days—the arguments for 'some now and some later.' But I stood pat. I wanted the $10,000 and got it.

"And how I wish that I didn't!

"The day before I went to Cincinnati I put it up to them squarely for the last time, that there would be nothing doing unless I had the money.

"That night I found the money under my pillow. There was $10,000. I counted it. I don't know who put it there, but it was there. It was my price. I had sold out 'Commy'; I had sold out the other boys: sold them for $10,000 to pay off a mortgage on a farm, and for the wife and kids.

"If I had reasoned what that meant to me, the taking of that dirty crooked money—the hours of mental torture, the days and nights of living with an unclean mind; the weeks and months of going along with six of the seven crooked players and holding a guilty secret, and of going along with the boys who had stayed straight and clean and honest—boys who had nothing to trouble them—say, it was hell.

"I got the $10,000 cash in advance, that's all."

Jackson Only "Tapped" Ball.

Cicotte after his testimony was taken from the courtroom by a back door, and shortly afterward Austrian appeared with Joe Jackson. There was another conference in the chambers of Judge McDonald and a meeting with Assistant State Attorney Replogle, and then Jackson ran the gantlet of newspaper cameramen to the Grand Jury room.

Jackson hung his head and covered his face with his hands. Replogle tried to keep the cameramen away. They refused and there was a volley of flashes. Jackson cursed newspapermen, gamblers and baseball and fled to the security of the jury room.

His story, it was learned, was a confirmation of Cicotte's. It was the story of a slow "feeling out" of the cupidity of players by Gandil, McMullin and Risberg.

Joe Jackson, in his confession, said he went into the deal through the influence of Gandil and Risberg. He was promised $20,000—and got $5,000, which was handed to him in Cincinnati by "Lefty" Williams. When he threatened to talk about it, Williams, Gandil and Risberg said, "You poor simp, go ahead and squawk. Where do you get off if you do? We'll all say you're a liar, and every honest baseball player in the world will say you're a liar. You're out of luck. Some of the boys were promised a lot more than you, and got a lot less."

"And that's why I went down and told Judge McDonald and told the Grand Jury what I knew about the frame-up," said Jackson tonight. "And I'm giving you a tip. A lot of these sporting writers who have been roasting me have been talking about the third game of the World's Series being square. Let me tell you something. The eight of us did our best to kick it and little Dick Kerr won the game by his pitching. And because he won it these gamblers 'double-crossed' us for 'double-crossing' them.

"They've hung it on me. They ruined me when I went to the shipyards. But I don't care what happens now. I guess I'm through with baseball. I wasn't wise enough, like Chick, to beat them to it. But some of them will sweat before the show is over.

"Who gave me the money? Lefty Williams slipped it to me the night before I left for Cincinnati and told me I'd get the other $15,000 after I delivered the goods. I took Lefty's word for it. Now Risberg threatens to bump me off if I squak. That's why I had all the bailiffs with me when I left the Grand Jury room this afternoon.

"I'm not under arrest yet and I've got the idea that after what I told them old Joe Jackson isn't going to jail. But I'm not going to get far from my protectors until this blows over. Swede is a hard guy."

Jackson testified, according to the officials, that throughout the series he either struck out or hit easy balls when hits would mean runs.

Jackson also testified, it is said, that Claude Williams received $10,000.

Jackson Comes Out Smiling.

Jackson was before the Grand Jury nearly two hours, and he came out walking erect and smiling.

"I got a big load off my chest," he told a friend who accosted him. "I'm feeling better."

"Don't ask Joe any questions," Replogle cautioned the newspaper men. "He's gone through beautifully and we don't want him bothered."

Joe intimated he was "willing to tell the world now, if they'll let me."

The crowd outside the Criminal Court buildings cheered and jeered as he rode off in the custody of bailiffs.

Cicotte is also in the custody of officers from the State Attorney's office.

"We are taking no chances on anything," was the only explanation Mr. Replogle offered of this.

Mrs. Henrietta Kelley, owner of an apartment house on Grand Boulevard, with whom many of the players and their families lived, gave testimony in the morning, which Mr. Replogle declared was "extremely important."

Mrs. Kelley herself denied that she had given any important evidence.

President Heydler Testifies.

President Heydler of the National League also was a witness. No hint of the nature of his testimony could be obtained from the prosecutors. Mr. Replogle dismissed questioners with his stock statement, "It is of great importance."

Mr. Austrian, attorney for the White Sox, said:

"Mr. Comiskey and myself, as his counsel, have been working on this for a year. We have spent a great deal of Mr. Comiskey's money to ferret it out. It is because of our investigation the lid has been blown off this scandal."

"Mr. Heydler is also testifying," he said; "Mr. McGraw will appear also—of their own volition, of course."

The significance of Heydler's testimony appeared when it was announced that two National League players would be summoned by the Grand Jury, Olsen, shortston, of Brooklyn, and Rawlings, second baseman, of Philadelphia. Each is said to have won $2,000 on the first two games of the 1919 world's series.

The announcement of the calling of these players was followed by the intimation from the State Attorney's office that the investigation would soon reach far beyond Bill Maharg, former pugilist, Bill Burns, a retired ball player, now interested in the oil industry of Texas, and Abe Attell who so far have been named in the investigation as connected with the gamblers' end.

The Grand Jury recessed for the day with the conclusion of Jackson's testimony, but there was promise of more fireworks tomorrow.

"It'll be hotter, and there'll be more of it," Mr. Replogle promised. He declined to say whether immunity had been promised Jackson and Cicotte or whether it would be promised any others.

Two witnesses, Dr. Raymond B. Prettyman, a friend of Buck Weaver and John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, who appeared to testify today, were told they could not be heard until tomorrow.

Claude "Lefty" Williams, the man who handed Joe Jackson $5,000, will be the central figure in the baseball investigation tomorrow.

Williams will be asked who handed him the money. He also may be asked as to his career in the Coast League, and he may be asked as to his knowledge of a scandal regarding fixed games after Salt Lake City entered the league.

Williams was questioned tonight as to his part in the conspiracy, but was noncommittal.

Comiskey Commends Court.

Mr. Comiskey tonight made the following statement:

"The consideration which the Grand Jury gave to this case should be greatly appreciated by the general public. Charles A. McDonald, Chief Justice, and the foreman of the Grand Jury, Harry Brigham, and his associates, who so diligently strived to save and make America's great game the clean sport which it is, are to be commended in no uncertain terms by all sport followers, in spite of wnat happened today.

"Thank God it did happen. Forty-four years of baseball endeavor have convinced me more than ever that it is a wonderful game and a game worth keeping clean.

"I would rather close my ball park than send nine men on the field with one of them holding a dishonest thought toward clean baseball—the game which John McGraw and I went around the world with to show to the people on the other side.

"We are far from through yet. We have the nucleus of another championship team with the remainder of the old world's championship team."

He named the veterans, Eddie and John Collins, Ray Schalk, Urban Faber, Dick Kerr, Eddie Murphy, Nemo Leibold and Amos Strunk and declared that, with the addition of Hodge, Falk, Jordan and McClellan, "I guess we can go along and win the championship yet."

Buck Weaver, when seen just after receiving notice of his suspension, declared he never received any of the money said to have been distributed and denied all knowledge of the deal to throw games in the world's series. He said his own record in the series of 1919, in which he batted .333 and made only four errors out of thirty chances, ought to exonerate him.

"Any man who bats .333 is bound to make trouble for the other team in a ball game," he said. "The best team cannot win a world's championship without getting the breaks."

How Chicago Lost Championship.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28 (Associated Press).—Last year's world series records show that in the first inning of the first game Cicotte started by hitting Rath, the first Cincinnati batter, in the back. Daubert followed with a single over second base that sent Rath to third, and he scored when Groh flied to Jackson, Rath beating Jackson's throw to the plate.

Chicago tied this run in the next inning, Kopf putting Jackson on second with a wild throw. Felsch sacrificed him to third and Gandil dropped a little fly safely in centre, scoring Jackson.

The end of Cicotte's pitching and the runs that ultimately won the game were scored by Cincinnati in the fourth inning. All the damage was done with two out. With Kopf on first, Neale and Wingo singled and Reuther, the hard-hitting Cincinnati pitcher, drove a three-base hit to the centre field bleachers. Rath doubled and Daubert singled, the combination resulting in five runs.

Wilkinson took Cicotte's place after Daubert's single and Groh flied to Felsch. The final score of this game was 9 to 1.

The fourth game, played at Chicago, was won by the Reds by a score of 2 to 0, Ring pitching for Cincinnati, holding the American League champions to three hits. Both Cincinnati runs were made in the fifth inning, when two of Cincinnati's hits were bunched with a wild throw to first by Cicotte and a bad throw to the plate by Jackson, which the pitcher intercepted and muffed. The play of this inning was sent over the Associated Press as follows:

"Roush was out, Schalk to Gandil, the ball rolling half way to the pitcher's box. Duncan was safe when Cicotte threw his drive wide to first, the ball going to the stand and Duncan reaching second. Kopf singled to left and Duncan stopped at third, but scored when Jackson threw wild to the plate. Kopf reached second. Correction: The official scorer gives Cicotte the error for muffing Jackson's throw. Neale sent one over Jackson's head and Kopf scored. Neale reached second. It was a two-base hit. Wingo, out, Ed. Collins to Gandil, Neale going to third. Ring drove a vicious grounder that Ed. Collins got and threw him out at first. Two runs. Two hits. Two errors."

The rest of the game was played sharply and, so far as the records show, cleanly. Cicotte pitched through the nine inhings.

Cicotte Won the Sixth Game.

Cicotte's next appearance in the series was in the sixth game, when Cincinnati had four victories to its credit against one defeat, Richard Kerr, the diminutive left-handed pitcher, having shut out the National League champions in the third game. The veteran twirler, who today confessed the big gambling deal, went through nine innings and held his opponents to seven hits. Chicago won the game 4 to 1, hitting Sailee hard in the first five innings. Jackson and Felsch each got two hits and between them drove in all of Chicago's runs.

Billy Maharg, Philadelphia prize fighter, who last night in Philadelphia, issued a statement connecting Cicotte with the gambling deal and charging Abe Attell, former fighter, headed the gambling clique, asserted that the Sox were "double-crossed" by Attell and never received $100,000 which had been promised them. It was late in the series before they found this out, Maharg asserted, as Attell kept postponing the day of settlement, saying he needed the money to bet.

Besides the two defeats registered against Cicotte in the series, three others were chalked up against Claude Williams. The latter, a "side arm" left-hander, was wild in the second and fifth games, which went to the Reds, 4 to 2 and 5 to 0. In the eighth and last game of the series he was found for four solid hits in the first inning, and that game and the title of world champions went to Cincinnati, 10 to 5. Williams's lack of control was generally recorded as the cause of his defeats, the record of the second game saying:

"While Cincinnati obtained only four hits, these came at opportune times when they had been preceded by bases on balls off Williams."

The fifth game of the series was a shut-out triumph for Hod Eller, the big "shine ball" expert of the Cincinnati pitching staff. Only three hits were made off him and he established a world series record by striking out the side in two successive innings. All told, Eller had nine strikeouts that day.

Four of Cincinnati's five runs were grouped in the sixth inning. Eller doubled, Rath scored him with a single and moved to second on Daubert's "bunt perfectly laid," as the report of the game said. Williams walked Groh. Roush drove a three-base hit to Felsch's territory, scoring two runners, and himself tallied after Duncan filed to Jackson.

In Custody, but Not Arrested.

Both Cicotte and Jackson were closeted with the Grand Jury for a considerable time today, and later court officials reported that they told their stories in substantial detail. As they left the room they were taken in custody by detectives of the State's Attorney's office. Their detention was not in the nature of an arrest, and it was announced that they would be released later.

Cicotte, who earlier in the day had vehemently denied any part in the alleged plot, as described by Maharg at Philadelphia yesterday, admitted on the stand, officials of the courts said, that the Philadelphian's story was substantially correct.

The court officials also quoted Cicotte as saying that the players had believed that "Chick" Gandil, who, he said, was interested in the dealings with the gamblers, had "double-crossed" them, and that Maharg's story was the first intimation they had had that Attell had "held out" on the $100,000 which had been promised them.

The investigation by the Grand Jury will continue until all phases of baseball gambling have been bared, it was said by officials. The investigation started two weeks ago following reports that a game played here Aug. 31 by the Cubs and the Philadelphia Nationals was "fixed" and the inquiry into last year's world series came up only as an incident to the other inquiry.

Assistant State's Attorney Hartley Replogle, in charge of the case, said tonight that indictments to be drawn up tomorrow on today's true bills may contain several counts. The true bills themselves specified but one alleged offense, "conspiracy to commit an illegal act." The penalty provided upon conviction on this count would be one to five years in the penitentiary, and a fine of not more than $10,000.

"This is just the beginning" Mr. Replogle said tonight. "We will have more indictments within a few days and before we get through we will have purged organized baseball of everything that is crooked and dishonest.

"We are going after the gamblers now. There will be indictments within a few days against men in Philadelphia, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Des Moines, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and other cities. More baseball players also will be indicted. We've got the goods on these men and we are going the limit."

Harry Grabiner, Secretary of the White Sox, announced that the club would play out the schedule to the end if it had to "employ Chinamen" to fill the vacancies in the team.

He was purchased for the White Sox in 1917 and was suspended last Spring for failure to report. He is married and lives in Los Angeles.

COMISKEY GRATEFUL.

But Says League Rules Forbid Him Using Other Teams.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—"It's a splendid offer and one I appreciate from the bottom of my heart, but I'm afraid there is no way I can accept it," said Charles A. Comiskey when informed that Jacob Ruppert and T. L. Huston, owners of the New York Yankees, had offered to place their entire team at the disposal of the Chicagoan to replace the men he suspended.

"The league rules definitely say that no trades or transfers can be made after July 1," he explained, "so I know that such an act would not be sanctioned by the league. But it was a wonderful thing for them to do."

President Ban Johnson of the American League could not be reached. When Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, was killed, Owen Bush of Detroit offered to transfer to Cleveland. Mr. Johnson said then that it could not be done because of the league rules cited by Mr. Comiskey tonight.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—H. H. Frazee, President of the Boston American League Club, said tonight that he believed it to be the duty of each club in the league to give one of its players to the Chicago Club, in order to assist in its rehabilitation, in case the Chicago players indicted by the Grand Jury are found guilty. He announced that he would make such an offer on behalf of his own club immediately.

LODGE SAYS WILSON THREATENS FREEDOM

SEES TWO LEADING ISSUES

Senator Holds They Are "the Change in Our System" and the League.

BY WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD.

Special to The New York Times.

NAHANT, Mass., Sept. 27.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge discussed today his views upon the leading issues of the campaign, which he says are two, the "change in our system of government" and the League of Nations.

He says that the President has usurped the power of the Senate; that his actions would convert Congress merely into a body to record laws made by the Executive; that former Presidents have often consulted the Senate before and during treaty negotiations, and, while Mr. Wilson was not bound under the Constitution to do this, precedent was in favor of such a course; that this method is dangerous, and that the adoption of the League of Nations is equally dangerous to our government; that Mr. Wilson's policy threatens the principles of free representative democracy.

Senator Lodge intimated that unless the Republicans were restored to power our free institutions would be destroyed.

"The two great issues of this campaign which overshadow all others," he said, "are the question of the change in our system of government and the League of Nations. The second is closely related to the first because it involves the most important alteration in our system of government which Mr. Wilson has attempted, nothing less than the nullification in practice of the constitutional powers of the Senate. Let me state briefly the two issues in the order in which I have mentioned them.

"Our constitutional government rests for its operation on three co-ordinate and equal branches—the executive, the legislative and the judicial. The framers of the Constitution provided and intended that these three branches of government should be co-ordinate and independent. This principle would of course be invaded and impaired if one branch was permitted or attempted to usurp the powers and functions of either of the other two branches.

"From the time of his accession to the Presidency Mr. Wilson has steadily sought to take over or to suppress powers which were given by the Constitution to the legislative branch—that is, to Congress. Long before he was thought of for the Presidency Mr. Wilson said in one of his books:

> The President has really no voice at all in the conclusions of the Senate with reference to his diplomatic transactions. His only power of compelling compliance on the part of the Senate lies in his initiative in negotiation, which affords him a chance to get the country into such scrapes, so pledged in the view of the world, that the Senate hesitates to bring about the appearance of dishonor which would follow its refusal to ratify rash promises.

"This throws an interesting light on his attitude toward the Senate in regard to our foreign relations, but his general scheme or course of action since he has been President has gone far beyond what he said about the powers of the Senate in relation to treaties.

"The Constitution provides that the President shall from time to time give information to Congress on the state of the Union and, of course, recommend general legislation or policies which he may think desirable, but there is nothing in the Constitution which gives him any power to legislate directly or indirectly. Mr. Wilson, however, has undertaken to control the actual making of laws.

"Having succeeded in establishing a hold over the members of his own party in both branches of Congress, the like of which never has been seen in our history, he has not only caused bills to be framed by his Cabinet officers and others and sent to Congress for introduction and passage just as they had been framed by his orders, but he has interfered in all sorts of details in regard to pending legislation by passing upon amendments and giving directions as to their adoption or rejection.

Compared to Mexico Under Diaz.

"Such a policy as this if carried out would convert Congress in time into merely a body to record laws made by the Executive, as was the case in Mexico in the time of Diaz. Nothing could be more dangerous to our form of government than the establishment and existence of such a system as this.

"In regard to the treaty-making power Mr. Wilson has gone even further. The power of initiating and negotiating treaties belongs to the Executive alone, but a treaty can never become law under the Constitution without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate. This provision makes the Senate equally responsible with the President for any treaty which is duly ratified.

"The purpose of the constitutional provision is very clear. Without the representation of the States in the Senate and the reservation in that body of certain sovereign powers which then belonged to the States, and which the States were modifying, or, in some cases, surrendering for the benefit of the Union, the Constitution could never have been formed or adopted. The equality of representation in the Senate was to protect the rights of the smaller States and prevent the control of the Government by the large States represented in the Executive and in the House on the basis of population.

"Relations with foreign powers are one of the highest rights of sovereignty, and these relations were exclusively in the possession of the States when the Constitution was formed. It was to protect those sovereign rights of the States in the new Government that it was made impossible to ratify a treaty without the consent of two-thirds of the Senate.

"Mr. Wilson's plan to avoid this constitutional provision was easily understood. He wished to ratify the covenant of the League of Nations. He thought that far more important than the treaty of peace with Germany. He knew that the Congress and the country were all extremely anxious to conclude peace with Germany. By attaching the covenant of the League with the treaty with Germany and imbedding it in the provision relating to the German peace, he presented to the Senate the alternative of accepting the League of Nations just as it stood or holding up the entire treaty.

"Many Presidents, including Washington, Jackson, Polk, Lincoln and Grant, had consulted the Senate before or during treaty negotiations. Mr. Wilson was not bound to do this under the Constitution, but he had the entire right to do it and in a matter of such moment as the peace with Germany it was his duty to have done it. Instead of that he tried, as has just been said, to force through the covenant of the League of Nations, to which there was deep-seated antagonism, by obliging Senators to bolt up the treaty of peace with Germany if they were unwilling to accept the League of Nations just as he brought it back from Paris. There could be no more dangerous invasion of constitutional Government than this.

"Then Mr. Wilson also adopted the system in our foreign relations of transacting business with other nations through personal agents. There had been occasions, rare occasions, like the appointment of Ambrose Dudley Mann to investigate conditions in Hungary, where the President had sent a personal representative to examine and report on some foreign question, but this had been done very seldom and in a very limited way.

"Mr. Wilson undertook to conduct our relations with foreign nations in this manner and any one who has followed the course of events with care must have noticed how very little he made use of the Ambassadors whom he had himself apointed and among whom were some very able and competent men.

"The objection to using Ambassadors and Ministers in anything in which Mr. Wilson was personally deeply interested was that they were to a certain extent independent. They were officers of the United States, confirmed by the Senate, responsible both to the President and to Congress, while those whom he desired were men responsible to him alone and whom he could control absolutely. For example, he sent John Lind and William Bayard Hale, and perhaps some lesser men, to carry on negotiations with the Mexican Government and to report to him exclusively. During the war he sent Colonel House to Europe to go over the heads of his Ambassadors and Ministers and hold private conversations with the heads of other Governments. Colonel House was simply the President's personal representative and was responsible to the President alone.

"In a similar way, but in more limited fields, he used in Europe other men, like Mr. Creel, Mr. Herron and Mr. Lullitt. Instead of employing for the great and responsible work of drafting provisions of the treaty lawyers from the Department of Justice or from the State Department, he put this grave responsibility in the hands of Mr. Auchincloss and Mr. Miller, Mr. Auchincloss being the son-in-law of Colonel House. They were the men who met the official representatives of other powers and undertook the great work of passing upon the elaborate provisions of the Treaty of Versailles.

"It would be possible to cite other examples of this practice, but it is not necessary to do so. Mr. Wilson in these most vital matters undertook to carry on the Government through personal agents, responsible only to him and absolutely at his bidding. This is the method of an autocrat and illustrates very sharply what is meant when Senator Harding and other Republicans say that our first duty is to bring the Government of the United States back to the constitutional methods which have existed for 130 years and under which the country has grown great and prospered.

Aim to Curb League Appointments.

"The issue of the League of Nations is, as I have said, closely linked with the question of restoring popular government. The covenant of the League as submitted by Mr. Wilson created a system under which the President of the United States was to be all-powerful and where the country would find itself involved in an alliance—a very different thing from an association of the nations for the promotion of peace—where the President, with some personal agent as his representative, could have involved the country in war and subjected it to a super-government controlled by foreign powers.

"A study of the League on this point, which has been much omitted in the popular discussion, is very illuminating. There was no provision in the covenant of the League as to the appointment of the representatives of the United States in the Assembly and Council and on the many commissions in whose work we were to participate. As the League stood these representatives could have been appointed by the President without confirmation by the Senate and the system of personal agents would have been given great impetus and would have become really dominant in all that concerned the country in its relations with the rest of the world.

"One of the reservations adopted by a majority of the Senate provided against this danger and although it has not been much discussed in the campaign it is perhaps as important a reservation as any that was made because it would have rendered it impossible, by requiring confirmation by the Senate of all officers under the League, for the President to have controlled the action of the United States in connection with the League.

"Thus it will be seen from this brief outline that the demand that we should return to constitutional government is far from being merely a general proposition. It is absolutely vital and if there were no other objection to the League this single peril, which would have so advanced the cause of autocratic government in this country, should have been sufficient to prevent its ratification without the strongest possible reservation of the powers of Congress in regard to the representatives of the United States under the League.

"The American people instinctively realize that Mr. Wilson's whole policy threatens the principles of free representative democracy under which we have lived and by which we have been guided, but I fear that they do not fully appreciate how very real this danger is and what a long distance Mr. Wilson has gone in breaking down by indirection the system of constitutional government founded by Washington, preserved by Lincoln and defended and sustained by Roosevelt."

WILSON BEGINS PART IN CAMPAIGN

what is your position on the subject of self-determination of Ireland? A. The case of Ireland was not heard at the Peace Conference because the Peace Conference had no jurisdiction over any question of that sort which did not affect territories which belonged to the defeated empires. My position on the subject of self-determination for Ireland is expressed in Article XI. of the covenant in which, I may say, I was particularly interested, because it seemed to me necessary for the peace and freedom of the world that a forum should be created to which all peoples could bring any matter which was likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world.

"I sincerely hope that the above questions and answers satisfactorily meet your inquiry.

"Sincerely yours,

"JOSEPH P. TUMULTY, Secretary to the President."

Mr. Swartz's Inquiry of Mr. Wilson.

The letter from Mr. Swartz to President Wilson read:

"Los Angeles, Sept. 20, 1920.

"My Dear Mr. President: The forces supporting the Republican ticket are contending that if we ratify Article X. of the covenant of the League of Nations we would be bound to support England in holding Ireland under subjection.

"Is it not a fact, and so understood by the high contracting parties at the time the covenant was drawn and approved, that Article X. was to prohibit one nation from grabbing any territory of another nation.

"And, also, is it not true that when you said Article X. was the heart of the covenant you meant by that that the European wars had nearly all been caused by national landgrabbers, and that this article would cure that evil?

"Yours very truly,

"E. M. SWARTZ."

HARDING DEMANDS FEDERAL ECONOMY

Denounces Democratic "Financial Orgy" and Promises a Business Government.

CALLS FOR BUDGET SYSTEM

Special to The New York Times.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 28.—Senator Harding carried his campaign into West Virginia today with five rear platform speeches at way stations, ending with a plea for a national budget system and business methods in government before 6,000 persons from Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia in the Wheeling Auditorium tonight.

Despite a bitter factional fight that has developed in the State campaign, Senator Harding received noisy greetings whenever he showed himself. The special train was greeted at every road crossing by shouting men, women and children. The whistles of mines and mills along the route were tied down and there was a continuous din throughout the last few miles to Wheeling.

Senators Howard Sutherland and Davis Elkins of West Virginia accompanied Senator Harding from Baltimore here. Showing no ill effect from a wearing experience in Baltimore yesterday, when he was heckled on the League of Nations, which threw a meeting of 20,000 persons in the 5th Regiment Armory into an uproar, Senator Harding addressed a crowd of railroad men at Grafton early this morning and praised the Cummins-Esch Railroad act. As in all previous talks to railroad men, he held that the time would come when they would acknowledge the act as "one of the most forward pieces of legislation of our generation."

"When I got off the train," Senator Harding concluded, "somebody suggested that he looked to me for assurance that we do not intend to go into the Wilson League of Nations. He is right about it, and that is one reason why we are not going in. The covenant negotiated at Paris was not the will of the American people; it was the will of one man assuming to speak for the American people. When the Republican Party comes into power we are going to take our place among the nations of the earth and do our full part, but not under the dictates of one man assuming to speak for America, but under the dictates of American conscience expressed by your representatives in Congress as well as by your President."

Continues Attacks on League.

At other stops along the road to Wheeling Senator Harding continued his attacks on the League of Nations and "one-man Government." At Fairmont, noticing a glass factory under construction near the tracks, he brought up the question of a protective tariff.

In most of his speeches today the Senator spoke only of his own candidacy, and not in behalf of the Republican State ticket. The Republican Party in West Virginia is confronted with a factional fight that has given worry to party managers about the success of the national ticket. Opposing Judge E. F. Morgan, candidate for Governor, who introduced Senator Harding at tonight's meeting, is Samuel B. Montgomery, State Commissioner of Labor, who, since his unsuccessful fight for the Republican nomination, has been entered as an independent candidate by labor interests in the State. Whatever the fortune of the State ticket, Republicans here believe Senator Harding's presence in the State and his enthusiastic greetings will unite all Republican elements to vote the national ticket.

Streets Jammed with Visitors.

There didn't seem to be enough streets in the downtown section of Wheeling for the thousands of paraders to march or for the spectators to see them march. Part of the parade broke up and mixed with the crowd in front of the McClure Hotel and the Auditorium.

Senator and Mrs. Harding, in separate automobiles, had difficulty in getting through the dense throngs on the streets, taking a circuitous route. Mrs. Harding's party arrived at the hall ten minutes before the Senator.

Before reaching his prepared address Senator Harding reminded his Auditorium audience of what he termed a "coincidence" in his visit to Wheeling and his last speech in the same building in April, 1917, just before America entered into the world conflict.

"We were talking then about the welfare of our common country," said the Senator, "and as I talked to you of preserved nationality the President summoned Congress. You remember we were not talking that night about making the world safe for democracy.

"We didn't go to war to make the world safe for democracy, or for humanity. We declared war in solemn obligation to protect American rights against assault, and so I come to you again today to cry out for preserved nationality as against parlyzing internationality.

"And now I'm going to take you into my confidence. I'm going to tell you why I like the front porch campaign.

"I chose it for one of the reasons I have encountered here in Wheeling. I'm the last man who would willingly disappoint anybody. If there is one thing that I'll pray for as President it is that I'll not be a disappointment to any section in the country.

"Here in Wheeling today there have been 30,000 people wanting to hear the Republican gospel as I like to preach it. There is room for only 5,000 of you here in this building and I want you 5,000 to repeat my message.

"That is one reason why I liked the front porch. I could talk to all America through the modern American press. I think America has heard. You know they heard up in Maine. In the five weeks yet remaining in the campaign we must become aroused to first put our own house in order in the United States and then to tell the world we're big enough to run our own affairs."

Senator Harding began his speech to Wheeling voters this evening with the

"It is carried on by methods so statement that, while Government was a political and not a business agency, nevertheless "it does a good deal of business." Concerning the business of the American Government he said:

crude, so wanting in plan and system, that if it were a private business of equal magnitude with fixed resources, instead of public business with well-nigh unlimited resources, we should have gone into liquidation and closed our doors long ago. No private business can possibly survive without keeping its expenditures within the limits of its income, but the Government goes on, year after year, with no real effort to maintain the balance between income and outgo. No business can be carried on successfully without a strict application of business methods, and Government business presents no exception to the rule. Hence it is that this Government of ours, in its financial and business operations, would long ago have proved a colossal failure were it not for the power which it possesses to take from the pockets of the people unlimited moneys to renew the lavish stream which flows from its Treasury.

Senator Harding cited the Secretary of the Treasury's recent proposal to put out a new loan of $400,000,000 in Treasury certificates at 5¾ and 6 per cent. interest, and declared that in July and August this year the Government's expenditures exceeded its receipts by $125,000,000, a rate of approximately $1,000,000,000 a year.

"But for a Republican Congress," the Senator asserted, "the deficit would be more nearly $3,000,000,000 than $1,000,000,000."

Quoting estimates submitted by the Administration for appropriations for this year and the amounts allowed by Congress, the Senator claimed that the Republican Congress "saved" for the taxpayers more than $1,312,000,000.

Senator Harding dwelt upon the proposal to issue Treasury certificates at 5¾ and 6 per cent. and said:

"By offering these rates, with tax-free privileges attached thereto, the Government is not only drawing out of the banks of the country large sums which otherwise would serve to supply the insistent needs of industry, but is also contributing to the already alarming depreciation of its own Liberty bonds purchased at par by a patriotic people for the winning of the war. Industrial reports from one end of the country to the other indicate a falling off in business, an increase in the interest rate charged to business men for legitimate commercial and industrial loans, a stringency in the money market, a dearth in building, while many in the country find it impossible to get homes suitable for their accommodation.

"These conditions are due, either directly or indirectly, to the gigantic failure of the present Democratic Administration to function as a business organization. It has drawn the very life blood from the channels of business to keep itself alive—a process which, if continued, will inevitably produce a collapse of our industrial system.

"The reason for this is simple. The Administration went into the World War without any workable plan of finance. It came out of the war without such a plan. It still is without such a plan. Only last June, through its directing head, the President of the United States, it rejected such a plan when Congress sought to furnish it with one."

Senator Harding told of the appointment by Senate and House of special committees to consider the creation of a budget system and of the passage of the bill for that purpose by Congress. This measure was sent to the White House, he said, and added:

"There it lay for days—until the closing hours of the session of Congress—when it came back with the Presidential veto—a veto which did not relate to its great constructive features, but to a small detail of partisan politics. In the short time left for them to act before Congress adjourned the committees revised the bill in this slight particular, submitted it to their respective houses, only to have it killed in the Senate by a filibuster conducted by three Democratic Senators.

Tells of "Financial Orgy."

Senator Harding spoke of the steadily mounting expenditures of the Government in the years before the war, and of the "forty-billion-dollar Congress" following America's entrance into the war, and continued:

"I need not enter into a detail description of the financial orgy which was staged in Washington during the war. The necessities of the war are past. But we must find means to pay the expenses of our Government and reduce our great national debt, without undue or improper burdens of taxation, and we must increase the business efficiency of our Government."

The Senator asserted that the President had blocked efforts by Congress to establish a proper relation between increase in population and wealth and cost of government, and said:

Senator Harding then went over in detail the features of the "Republican" budget bill, which he declared would have placed our Government on "a sounder business basis than any other Government in the world today enjoys." He told of "chaotic conditions" in the various departments of the Government, and said:

"With the creation of a budget system such as was worked out in the measure which Congress passed and the President vetoed, there would be set up in Washington an establishment which would have full and complete knowledge of every activity of the Government and, which would always be at the service of Congress, and of the people, when either desired information concerning the actual fiscal activities of the administration as a whole or of any particular bureau or department."

The Senator pointed out that in 1916 there were 296,926 civil employes on the national payroll, while now, two years after the war, the Civil Service Commission conceded there were 657,744, and the exact number was unknown.

"The Democratic Administration has made no real effort to reduce this enormous number to the limits of necessity," said Senator Harding. "The places are filled with 'deserving Democrats' and the Democratic Party will continue to care for its own, so long as it shall retain the power to do so; but if I am elected I promise you now that this outrageous payroll will be pruned of its superabundant material and a good many thousands of your fellow citizens restored to the farms and industries of the country, where their services are so badly needed."

In conclusion the Senator said:

"I believe in a national budget. I believe that the President and his Cabinet advisers, before the opening of each fiscal year, should meet and plan the business of the Government for that year. I believe they should give consideration to the relative value of specific services; that they should use every effort to eliminate waste and duplication in these services; and bring the Government to the performance of the fullest possible service to the people at the least possible cost. I would place our Government on the soundest business basis. I would summon to my assistance in this work the ablest men in the country. I would insist that they plan for us a practicable business policy, and I would see to it that such a policy was carried out.

"There are those who insist that our Government is so strong financially it cannot be wrecked. This is not true, but the way is open to us to give it that strength. It is for us, who are called to service, if we are called, to follow that road, and for my part, I promise to point the way."

Grateful for Protective Tariff.

When Senator Harding concluded his prepared speech the crowd shouted "Go on!" and he smiled and launched into "the gospel of protection for American industry."

"Some say it isn't an issue," he said. "Even if it were not, I'd cling to it out of gratitude, for it made us what we are today."

Discussing the high cost of living, Senator Harding said it could be reduced by the practice of thrift.

"The first nation to get back after the war will be the one that first practices thrift, and you won't need to be surprised if Germany is one of the first nations to get on its feet."

"Time up, boss?" he asked, turning to Mrs. Harding, who was seated beside him, and Mrs. Harding shook her head as the crowd laughed and cheered.

Turning to the Cummins-Esch Railroad act, Senator Harding praised the bill as a "piece of forward legislation," and a man on the platform asked:

"Will you please explain why, in spite of the Cummins-Esch bill's promise of prompt distribution of cars, we are still being held up in West Virginia for cars?"

"Seeking to do justice," the Senator answered, "the Cummins-Esch act provided that the Interstate Commerce Commission should order cars distributed to the mines pro rata. Since the war there has been a shortage of cars and they must be distributed to the mines in proportion. But the Administration and the Interstate Commerce Commission ignored the law. I introduced a resolution in Congress inquiring why?"

Senator Albert Fall of New Mexico joined the Harding special train at Baltimore last night, and will go to Marion with the candidate. A conference of party leaders, in which Senator Harding, Harry M. Daugherty and Charles D. Hilles took part, was held in the Senator's car this morning, following which it was announced that Mr. Harding would speak in Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 21. This speech will be part of a four-day Eastern trip, taking in New York City, one city in Connecticut—New Haven; under the present plan—and one or two cities in New Jersey.

The date of his appearance in New York has not been given to Senator Harding by the Republican speakers' bureau. It is understood that there has been some hitch in engaging Madison Square Garden on a date that would fit into the Harding program.

REPEATS QUERY TO HARDING.

Lawyer Who Heckled Senator Insists on Demand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Edward A. Ryan, an attorney of Washington, who was placed under arrest in Baltimore last night when, during the address by Senator Harding, he sought to ascertain whether Mr. Harding was in favor of throwing the League of Nations overboard, sent a telegram tonight to Senator Harding repeating the question:

"Are you in favor of scrapping the League of Nations?"

Mr. Ryan, who is well known in Washington and in Worcester, Mass., states in his telegram that he demands on behalf of himself and the American people that "you answer this pertinent question," and adds: "If you do not, my self-respect and my duty as a voter impel me to follow you throughout this campaign until you answer the question."

Mr. Ryan said tonight that he had no intention of creating any disturbance at the meeting at Baltimore and had not sought to do so while there. In the Baltimore Court today the charge against Mr. Ryan for disturbing the Harding meeting was dismissed.

FIND MRS. BERGDOLL AND OTHERS GUILTY

as she swung a satchel in one hand and the green parasol in the other, both menacingly.

It was a long afternoon and night of suspense for the defendants. The hope that the jury might reach a verdict caused the newspaper offices to be fairly besieged for information, and a curious feature was that many calls came from men and women who are reckoned socially prominent in Philadelphia.

The jury went out at noon. From that time until 4 o'clock the men deliberated. Then they requested that the court read them notes of the testimony by the witnesses Furey, Mitchell, Schuh and Morris Swartley, a contractor. That reading lasted until six. Judge Dickinson suggested the jury have their supper, the first meal for them for the day.

Most difficult of all for the jurors seemed to be the verdict concerning Schuh and Mitchell. The jurors asked Judge Dickinson if they had the right to convict some and to acquit others of the defendants. The court replied that the jury had the entire and absolute control of the verdicts.

Earlier in the day the interest of the spectators was divided between Judge Dickinson's charge and Mrs. Bergdoll. Judge Dickinson's charge to the jury was profound and exhaustive. He went into the intricacies of the crime of conspiracy, the weighing of evidence and, particularly, the duty of jurors in forming a judgment for 100,000,000 who form the public.

"It is too much to expect any mother to surrender her own son," the court declared, while Mrs. Bergdoll beamed. The question the Judge stressed was whether the defendants had conspired to block the recruiting of an American army by keeping Grover and Erwin out of uniform.

Judge Dickinson declared that he would accept the responsibility of informing the jury that the evidence showed unequivocally that Grover and Erwin were soldiers because of their induction into the military service.

COX BACKS LEAGUE IN VERBAL DUELS

you said, Sir, was extra good. We see the nations can't pay their debts. We ought to be something. We ought to have a heart for every nation."

"We ought to have a good feeling toward every nation in the world," said Governor Cox. "The probability is that Germany will be a member of the League of Nations before this year is over. What is good for one nation ought to be good for all nations. I agree with you as to that. The salvation of Germany, the salvation of France, the salvation of humanity itself is to be conserved by the League of Nations. The time has come for civilization to have some common sense and to stop wasting its resources for the purpose of creating the means of human destruction. That is what your conscience tells you. What your prejudices tell you I do not know. I leave you with this message to 'end war.'"

Promised the Women's Votes.

After the passage at arms at Tripp Governor Cox asked: "Are you all going to vote for me?"

"All of us women are," came back the reply.

"And I am sure they are in all parts of the country," replied the Governor.

When he entered the State Governor Cox was asked by one of the local leaders not to discus the League of Nations, as he believed it was not a popular issue with the people of German origin.

"I have no issue for one part of the country which I won't discuss with any other part of the country," replied Governor Cox, and he went ahead with his fight for the League, and the local committees in the so-called strong pro-German communities were amazed by the generous responses he received.

There was plenty of noise and cheering all along the line, at any rate. Every town had its band out to give the Governor a welcome. At some of the towns they were what are known in the East as the "little German band," but they played with no less fervor for all that. Governor Cox was asked in one town by a former service man about the War Risk Insurance Bureau.

"The Bureau of War Risk Insurance," the Governor replied, "I am very frank to say, in my judgment at least, needs reorganization, and it will be reorganized the first week I get to Washington."

Charges Harding with Conspiracy.

At the Sioux Falls meeting tonight Governor Cox made the charge that Harding had pleaded guilty to having engaged in a conspiracy to add to the woes of the world for the purpose of political success in November.

"The candidate of the Senate oligarchy," he said, "by his statement that he has no constructive plan to offer as a substitute for the League of Nations, which he has said he would scrap, enters a plea of guilty on behalf of himself and his associates of the most stupendous conspiracy the world has ever seen. This statement is a confession of the charge I have made that this group has deliberately held up the peace of the world and outraged a suffering civilization for selfish partisan purposes, and has wilfully obstructed the reconstruction processes in the United States that they might win a Presidential election for themselves in a resentment that might be aroused at the Administration in power.

"Let me call your attention to the fact that at the successful conclusion of the war the present Administration, mindful of the requirements for readjustment, put forward a definite and sufficient program for reconstruction which was rejected by the Congress under the whip of partisan leadership for the deliberate purpose of continuing a condition of chaos and inducing the people to cry for a change.

Says No Peace Advocate Can Favor Harding.

"No friend of peace in the world and of progress and industrial peace in the United States can find justification for voting for the reactionary candidate of the Senatorial oligarchy. Senator Johnson, an avowed and honest enemy of the League, finds one reason; William Howard Taft, friend of the League and a well-meaning gentleman, finds another reason. The Republican platform in the State of South Dakota indorses the League. Other State Republican platforms oppose or are silent.

"The candidate himself has occupied all positions, and now admits he has no thought to express when on the platform facing the people, where he must think and speak for himself, and where he is not in a position to hear his master's voice."

Of Senator Harding's refusal to answer a heckler, Governor Cox said:

"Yesterday when the front porch campaign came to an end and the Senatorial candidate appeared in Baltimore, a citizen of America arose in his place and said, 'I should like to ask you, Sir, whether you are going to scrap the League of Nations,' the Senatorial candidate replied, 'I did not believe when I came into the State of Maryland that I would be visited with a discourtesy.'

"Think of it! I can understand how a member of the Senatorial oligarchy that has defied public will and wish so long develops a habit of thought that the Senatorial mind must never be questioned, but men and women, there is no difference between citizen and candidate. There is no distinction in America. We are all made of the same flesh and blood, and we live in a country thank God! where we recognize no aristocracy save that of brains, of good character, of industry and integrity.

"Then he made this further statement—and I use his words, 'very frankly,' he said, 'I have no constructive plan with reference to a new delationship of the nations of the world.' Our best scholars, our ecclesiastical thinkers, our great lawyers, after having worked for a long time, evolved a plan. All of that is to be discarded, and the candidate says, 'I ask you to go with me. I don't know where I am going, but I am on my way.' Never in the history of this country has a campaign developed a situation so deplorable and so pitiable."

Cox States Stand on Volstead Act.

MITCHELL, S. D., Sept. 26.—Governor Cox, while speaking here today, was asked by a member of his audience to state his attitude toward the Volstead act. His reply was:

"I shall oppose any measure that is in conflict with the Constitution of the United States and the Eighteenth Amendment as interpreted by the Supreme Court."

When questioned later by newspaper representatives the Governor declined to amplify his statement, declaring it stood as given.

While he was talking in Yankton some one in the audience shouted, "What about Senator Harding's brewery stock?"

The Governor replied that he owned no brewery stock himself, and that the question had been answered by Senator Harding's private secretary in a letter admitting that the Republican candidate had owned such stock.

Other questions asked the Governor at Yankton referred to Irish independence and whether the League of Nations would prevent war. The candidate answered them as on previous occasions.

THREE MORE MATCH PRESIDENT'S $500

WOMAN SENDS "WAR FUND"

Wants Savings Used to Further the Success of the League of Nations.

Three additional contributions to the Democratic "Match the President" campaign fund were announced yesterday by Wilbur W. Marsh, Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby and Mrs. Colby each sending a check for $500. The third contributor of $500 to the fund was Charles C. Jackson of Boston.

Mr. Marsh said there had been several other contributions, some coming from the Far West, which would be listed and names of the donors made public within a day or two. The President's $500 gift, Mr. Marsh said, had inspired a great deal of giving among persons who could not afford to match his contribution of $500 but who sent smaller amounts, which in the aggregate formed a respectable total.

One such contributor was a Washington woman who signed herself "M. W. F." and said she was in Garden City spending her vacation. In a letter which came with her check she said she was contributing all she could afford "to help the Democratic Party win the election and to carry out the pledge to ratify the League of Nations treaty."

"This sum," she added, "represents part of my sacrifices to help our brave boys to win the war that was to liberate the world from war and I think it is only right that I should give it to the party pledged to that cause. The Republican Party has repudiated the League and turned its back on humanity. The cause of the League is as holy as that of winning the war, and I hope and pray for the success of the party that upholds it."

JEWELRY FOR MODISTE CHARGED TO D. G. REID

Further Evidence Heard in Action to Reopen Divorce and Decision Is Reserved.

Supreme Court Justice McAvoy continued hearings yesterday in the application by Mme. Georgette de la Plante to reopen Mrs. Margaret C. Reid's divorce from Daniel G. Reid, capitalist, in which Mme. Georgette was named as corespondent. The court reserved decision after giving the attorneys a month in which to file papers.

Testimony showed that a valuable pearl necklace had been sent from Cartier's to Mme. Georgette, with other articles of jewelry, and that she had bought $6,000 worth of trinkets and charged them to Mr. Reid. An attorney representing Cartier objected to the testimony on the ground that it was a "fishing expedition." The court ordered the attorney from the room, stating that he "would not permit such language to be used where a woman's honor was at stake."

Mme. Georgette testified that she was married to her second husband, Louis J. F. de la Plante, in 1911, seven months after she got a separation from her first husband, James Barclay Moore, who she believed to be dead. Asked why she continued to call herself Mme. Georgette de la Plante after her second husband had annulled his marriage, she said she was in business as a modiste under that name, and to have taken another would have required her to file a new certificate of doing business.

Francisque Verpilleux, an interior decorator, testified that at the order of Mr. Reid he carried out work in the Reid department at Fifth Avenue and Seventy-second Street under the direction of Mme. Georgette. The decorator said that Mr. Reid's daughter, Mrs. Topping, heard her father give these instructions, and also heard him say, "I have a great deal of respect for her (Mme. Georgette's) opinions and regard her as a daughter."

When an effort was made to call Mrs. Carriere, mother of Mrs. Reid, as a witness for the modiste, Mr. Mooney objected, and it was intimated that the relations between Mrs. Reid and her mother are not most cordial. Justice McAvoy rejected the testimony.

PROGRESSIVES BACK DEMOCRATIC TICKET

John M. Parker and Judge Lindsey Among Those Who Urge Bull Moose Support.

CALL HARDING REACTIONARY

Republican Candidate Has Fought Colonel Roosevelt's Doctrines, They Assert.

Fifteen former Progressives have joined in an appeal to men and women who left the Republican Party in 1912 with Theodore Roosevelt in which they are urged to support Governor Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic candidates for President and Vice President. They assert that Senator Harding, the Republican nominee for President, has fought the doctrines of Colonel Roosevelt as "revolutionary and socialistic" and denounced their author as "a modern Aaron Burr."

Among the signatories to this document, which was made public yesterday by the Democratic National Committee, are many charter members of Colonel Roosevelt's late Bull Moose organization. Among them is one former Progressive candidate for Vice President and the man who was head of the National Progressive organization when Colonel Roosevelt quit it in 1916.

The list of the signatories follows: Matthew Hale of Massachusetts, ex-Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Progressive National Committee; John M. Parker of Louisiana, Progressive nominee for Vice President in 1916; Francis J. Heney of California, Progressive candidate for United States Senator in 1912; Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, Col., originator of the Children's Court idea; Harold L. Ickes, former Progressive leader of Illinois; Elias D. Saulsbury, Chairman of the Progressive State Committee of Indiana in 1916; Joseph Misbach, Chairman of the Progressive State Committee of Iowa; Roscoe Fertich, ex-Secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of Indiana; Antoinette Funk of Chicago, H. H. Hollman, former Progressive National Committeeman from Missouri; Edwin M. Lee, Chairman of the Progressive State Committee of Indiana in 1912; A. A. Andridge, delegate to the Progressive National Convention from Ohio both in 1912 and 1916; Charles W. Reynolds of Covington, Ky.; George C. Rublee of New Hampshire, W. H. Nichols, ex-Progressive National Committeeman from Vermont.

Ickes Started Movement.

The movement was started by Mr. Ickes. He followed Colonel Roosevelt back into the Republican Party in 1916 and was an active worker for Charles E. Hughes in the national campaign four years ago. Mr. Ickes, as a delegate to the Republican National Convention this year, took the floor and entered a vehement protest against letting the Old Guard element "put over" Senator Harding. Soon after the convention he announced his intention to support the Democratic candidates and made public his views in a pamphlet which he sent broadcast to former Progressives throughout the country. In this he declared his belief that Colonel Roosevelt, if alive today, would be supporting Governor Cox and his kinsman, the running mate of Governor Cox.

The text of the appeal in part follows:

"The Progressive vote in 1912 came largely from Republican men and women. Some of these voters returned to the party in 1916, not 'on their knees,' as Senator Harding prophesied they would come back, but responding to the call to help the Republican Party overthrow its reactionary leadership.

"In the primaries of 1920 the Progressives sought to clean the Republican house from within. But the national convention repudiated every candidate who commanded any appreciable Progressive support, or for that matter any popular support. The convention rejected Johnson and Wood and Lowden—the candidates favored by 90 per cent. of the pre-convention voting.

Fought Roosevelt Policies.

"Today the independent voter is the hope of our nation and the protector of civilization. Let those who revere the memory of Roosevelt remember particularly that, in the time when a Democratic administration under Wilson was adopting and writing into law the domestic policies of Theodore Roosevelt, Senator Harding was combating those policies as revolutionary and socialistic, denouncing the author as a modern Aaron Burr. Today Governor Cox is openly espousing as his ideal of progressivism the man who led the progressive party in 1912 and Senator Harding stands, as always, opposed to all those things for which Roosevelt lived and fought.

After reviewing the record of Senator Harding in Congress, the promulgators of the appeal pronounce the Republican nominee for President "a confirmed and hopeless reactionary; not a leader, but one who relies wholly upon the Penrose-Lodge-Smoot leadership."

A review of the Congressional record of Governor Cox who served four years in the House of Representatives (1909-1913) concludes with a declaration that "his whole record in Congress, as indicated by his votes and utterances has been progressive rather than stand-pat, favorable to Government economy, but at the same time liberal in pensions and like matters."

The appeal was formulated at a conference of the former Progressives held in Washington last week. At this meeting it was decided to open headquarters in this city and Chicago. The New York City headquarters will be established at the Murray Hill Hotel, with Edwin M. Lee, who before he became the Progressive leader of Indiana, was Chairman of the Republican State Committee in the Hoosier State, in charge. The Chicago headquarters and the work in the Far and Middle West will be conducted under the leadership of Mr. Ickes.

WAISTS PAYING PARTY TOLL.

Democratic Women Contribute Five Cents an Inch Around.

A "waist measure" contest, which it is hoped to extend to most of the 7,266 election districts in the State, has been started by Miss Elisabeth Marbury, Democratic National Committeewoman from New York, to obtain money for the not over-filled Democratic national campaign chest, it was announced yesterday. Each woman entering the contest will pay at the rate of five cents an inch for her waist measure. Prizes, both State and local, will be given to the women having the largest waists and those having the smallest.

Thus far the leaders in the two classes are Miss Marbury herself, whose waist measures 49 inches, and Miss Adelaide Baylis, whose waist measures 18 inches. At the Democratic Women's State Headquarters in the Waldorf-Astoria, where details of the contest can be obtained, it was said that boys and young men might participate in the contest as checkers at the rate of 25 cents for each girl measured.

Galli-Curci Answers Suit.

Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci filed an answer in the Supreme Court yesterday in the suit of Charles L. Wagner, her former manager, to recover damages for breach of contract. She admits that she collected $60,000 last season and that she refused to pay Mr. Wagner $36,000 demanded.

TAFT ORGANIZATION UPHOLDS LEAGUE

DENIES POLITICAL BIAS

Must Build on Present Foundation, with Possible Reservations, It Is Declared.

The Executive Committee of the League to Enforce Peace yesterday announced its position on the League of Nations issue in a statement framed at a recent meeting here, but held to await the approval of William H. Taft, President of the organization. Mr. Taft's "O. K." was received yesterday by wire. The statement follows:

"The League to Enforce Peace is a non-partisan organization founded to secure an association of nations to minimize war. Both parties have confirmed the necessity and given assurance of the formation of such an association. It is not our function to cast our influence on the side of any political party.

"The committee has accurate information as to the functioning of the existing League of Nations which it is proper for it to state.

"The League of Nations has formed its Council and has called its Assembly togethmer to meet in November.

"It has established successful administrative commissions in the Sarre Valley and at Danzig.

"It has begun, through a committee of experts, a survey of armaments, to the end that plans shall be devised for their gradual reduction.

"It has brought together conferences to consider the economic, financial and labor problems which perplex the world.

"It has made arrangements for the registration and publications of all treaties, to avoid secret diplomacy.

"It has taken up the task of arbitrating the dispute between Sweden and Finland concerning the possession of the Aland Islands, to avoid threatened war between those countries.

"It has, acting in accord with one of its articles, formulated through its advisory committee of jurists, of which the Hon. Elihu Root was a leading member, a plan for a permanent court of international justice, which the committee has recommended should be given ultimate mandatory jurisdiction in justiciable questions.

"The league has not functioned in the present war between Poland and Russia because, being an unfinished part of the great war, it has not been taken out of the hands of the Supreme Council of the allied powers.

"In view of these facts this committee reaffirms its position that the only practicable method of framing and securing an association to minimize war by either party which may come into office lies in building upon the foundation of the existing League of Nations, with such reservations or amendments, if any, as may be required and approved by the President and two-thirds of the Senate, and as may be acceptable to the present members of the League of Nations."

Members of the Executive Committee who attended the meeting and approved the statement are:

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, William F. Cochran, William Jay Schieffelin, William H. Short, Henry S. Drinker, Glenn Frank, Edward W. Frost, Philip H. Gadsden, Hamilton Holt, Herbert S. Houston, Sam A. Lewisohn, A Lawrence Lowell, Fred J. Miller, William L. Saunders, Franz Sigel, William F. Slocum, Oscar S. Straus, Isaac M. Ullman, John A. Voll, William H. Wadhams, Thomas Raeburn White, George W. ITALIAN KING'S ESTATE IS SEIZED BY WORKERS

Two Big Plants Are Destroyed by Fire—Evacuation of Works Continues.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Estates owned by King Victor Emmanuel of Italy at Santa Maria di Capua Vetre, near Naples, have been seized by members of local agricultural societies, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Rome. No opposition was offered to the persons seizing the property, it is said.

Two serious fires occurring in Italian manufacturing plants which had been occupied by the workers are reported. One of the outbreaks occurred in the Ottiano munition factory in Naples. The belief exists that this fire was the work of extremists who refused to evacuate the plants. The red flag floated over the flames, but eventually the blaze was conquered and the Tricolor was substituted.

The other fire, in a Turin lace factory, causing a loss of 2,000,000 lire, is also suspected of being due to foul play. It occurred, the advices state, in a factory which the workers were to have evacuated on the day the blaze broke out.

TURIN, Italy, Sept. 27.—Industrial plants which had been occupied by workmen were returned to the owners today. Before evacuating the works, the men filled trenches which had been dug around them, removed barbed wire entanglements, filled up loop-holes dug in the walls, and when they left carried with them their arms and ammunition, which were concealed in their homes.

AMERICAN WARNS FINANCE CONGRESS

STARTLES SOME HEARERS

Tells Europeans to End Quarreling If They Wish to Enlist American Support.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 28 (Associated Press).—The session of the World Financial Conference today, which had promised to be colorless, developed two unexpected features in the appearance before the delegates of Roland W. Boyden, the American representative, and Herr Bergmann of Germany, whose speeches commanded keenest attention and applause of equal fervor. The American and German had the honor of filling the galleries for the first time during the conference.

When the afternoon proceedings began President Ador said that some of the delegates had expressed a desire that the American representative should be heard out of turn. Word of this spread quickly through the lobbies of the auditorium, and the galleries were filled in a few minutes as Mr. Boyden walked to the speaker's stand.

His remarks were awaited with the greatest curiosity by all the delegates, who listened with the closest attention, especially to the passages in which he reminded them of the bad features of the European situation today.

Mr. Boyden explained why Europe could not, under present conditions, be considered by the United States a good business risk. He referred the delegates to the letter of former Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass to Homer L. Ferguson, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in which Mr. Glass declared, in effect, that the United States could not undertake to finance further the requirements of Europe. The letter, Mr. Boyden said, represented the attitude of President Wilson.

Startled expressions were seen on the faces of some of the delegates as Mr. Boyden made it clear that no further Government help should be expected from the United States. He said it was not easy for the United States to participate in the conference because it was difficult for the Administration to make known its attitude on the questions involved in the midst of a Presidential campaign.

"I have been particularly cautioned with respect to expressions of opinion, and I want it to be understood I am giving my own personal views without in any sense representing my Government," asserted Mr. Boyden. He then declared that he had been asked whether the conference would have any definite results. The question, he thought might be answered in the affirmative.

Reports relative to the financial position of various nations were received by the International Financial Conference, in session today. It is the plan of the conference to secure a broad view of the whole situation before attempting to make recommendations, or dealing with problems which are presented by any particular country. It is expected the reports will be completed by tonight so that questions of currency and exchange may be taken up tomorrow.

Drafting of resolutions, which will mark the first step toward reaching conclusions in the conference, has been placed in the hands of a committee. These resolutions will set forth the view of the conference on questions relating to public finance, which will be classified in four categories. These categories, as outlined by R. H. Brand, British Vice President of the conference, are:

First—Equilibrium of budgets, reduction of expenditures, limitation of governmental functions, reduction of armaments, elimination of subsidies, and selection between direct and indirect taxation on capital.

Second—Necessity of limiting loans to real productive purposes.

Third—Funding of external debts, with a fixed date of redemption.

Fourth—Advisability of internal and international trade restrictions.

The real work of the assembly was begun this morning by the Committee on Public Finance, on which Roland W. Boyden represents the United States as unofficial observer.

HYLAN REPLIES TO MILLER.

Resents 'Drifting Policy' Remark—Cites Candidate's Record.

Mayor Hylan, in a letter yesterday to ex-Judge Nathan L. Miller, Republican candidate for Governor, protested vigorously against a remark made by the candidate regarding the "drifting policy" of the present city administration, and his statement that "the trouble lies somewhere between Governor Smith's Public Service Commission and the City Hall."

The Mayor in his letter cites ex-Judge Miller's record as an attorney representing railroad interests, and recalls that he argued for an increased fare before the legislative committee last Winter. The Mayor's letter continued:

"If you had been successful in your argument it would have resulted in taking from the pockets of the taxpayers of this city at least $180,000 daily, or over $65,000,000 yearly. This same condition would apply all over the State. Are you still in favor of such legislation? All the people got out of the dual subway contracts was a five-cent fare, and the traction interests have been trying to take that from them. While I am Mayor of the City of New York I shall oppose to the bitter end the traction crowd putting over on the taxpayers of this city their milked-dry surface lines."

Of Unusual Interest—

of Exquisite Design

The final chapter in the romance of watch history seems to have been written in the fashioning of these incomparably beautiful wrist and ring watches.

It is a romance which begins hundreds of years ago, when savages first devised rude calculations from the sun—progresses through various stages of sand and water instruments, to ever finer adjustments in watchmaking, and now, finally, to artistic perfection of workmanship in these inconceivably small wrist and ring watches.

All the delicacy and rare artistry of a perfect miniature mark an all platinum wrist watch which may be worn with extension bracelet or with a ribbon. It is set with 73 fine diamonds in a conventional oval design. Closed it is a bracelet of unusual and beautiful design; opened by means of a safety lock, the watch itself is disclosed, small, but of dependable workmanship. 18 jewels; lever movement; 6 ligne. $1,689

The same design is cleverly adapted to a ring watch of all platinum, a treatment which enhances the miniature effect to a remarkable degree. The ring watch is set with 57 fine diamonds; 18 jewels; lever movement; 6 ligne..... $1,089

The chaste effect of Oriental pearls with rock crystal characterizes a bracelet watch of unusual charm. The bracelet is of genuine Oriental pearls strung on platinum wire and has a diamond and platinum clasp. The watch dial is set in against a rock crystal background edged with two rows of diamonds. 18 jewels; lever movement; 8 ligne..... $894.00

MANY WOMEN VOTE IN JERSEY PRIMARY

CONGRESS FIGHTS CLOSE

Newly Enfranchised Citizens Cast About Twenty Ballots in Wrong Districts.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 28.—Women voted for the first time in New Jersey at the primary election today to choose candidates for Congress, the Legislature and municipal and county offices. Despite the comparative unimportance of the primary election—for the Governor and other State officers were elected last year—women turned out in large numbers in some sections, particularly where the prohibition issue was injected in any candidacy.

Because of the failure of the Legislature to increase the number of election district official after ratification of the woman suffrage amendment, the election machinery became clogged in some parts of the State and the count was delayed. The results, where there are serious contests, will not be known in most intaances until tomorrow.

Women generally put off voting until the afternoon, when they came in with a rush in most of the cities. The request of Mayor Hague of Jersey City that every courtesy be shown to women voters was observed generally and the men refrained from smoking at the polling places.

About twenty women inadvertently voted in wrong election districts in Jersey City, and an application was made to Justice Swayze of the Supreme Court to have these errors corrected. The Justice said he could do nothing to correct the vote.

Incomplete returns in the Fourth Congressional District indicate Congressman Elijah C. Hutchinson, a "dry" of Trenton, has been renominated on the Republican ticket. He was opposed by three "wet" Republicans.

[illegible], a "wet" Democrat of Princeton, apparently has won the nomination.

In Mercer County the Republicans have probably nominated Gutherie and Moore, "wets," and Blackwell, "dry," for the Assembly. The Democrats, had no contests for Assembly. Connelly, Hayden and Konover all being "wets."

More than 200 women voted in Cape May. The county of that name is expected to give 1,000 majority for State Senator William H. Bright, who is opposing Congressman Isaac Bacharach of Atlantic City for renomination on the Republican ticket.

Early returns from precincts in Jersey City this morning indicated that the regular Republican organization candidates were leading their opponents in the city by 2 to 1, with a slightly diminished showing in the rest of Hudson County.

The first returns disclosed that Hudson County's only woman candidate, Miss Sarah T. Bowers, who is running for the Assembly, was defeated by Melville Reid, backed by the machine. The vote was 148 to 52. Reid also triumphed over Miss Bowers for County Committee member by 87 to 36.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 28.—The organization Republican ticket, both Congress and Assembly, won in the primaries in Atlantic County today. Congressman Isaac Bacharach was opposed by State Senator William H. Bright for the nomintion. Early returns indicate Bacharach's nomination by a vote of 4 to 1.

he being in receipt of over 100 letters from prominent citizens of Cayuga County and of a letter from Judge Adelbert G. Rich of the Appelate Division, strongly recommending executive clemency.

"The commutation was granted on Aug. 21. The reasons given by the Governor were Jacob Smith's good conduct in Auburn, that he was suffering from diabetes and that the Warden of the Auburn Prison had been among those who said that his sentence should be cut down. The commutation was to have been effective Sept. 20, but since this inquiry was inaugurated its operation has been stayed and Jacob Smith is still in Auburn.

"On the day before the commutation was granted, two men, Rosenberg and the other defendant, accompanied Mrs. Rebecca Smith to Albany. There she gave them $4,500, having previously given them $500 for expenses.

"The unnamed defendant," continued Assistant District Attorney Talley, "took a portion of the money and told Mrs. Smith that he had 'to see somebody.' Shortly afterward he returned and announced that it was 'all right.' He exhibited a letter stating that the commutation had been granted, which was true. The unnamed defendant intimated to Mrs. Smith that he had obtained only $1,200 of the sum handed over and that the 'man higher up' got the rest.

Letter Obtained from Clerk.

"The unnamed defendant actually got the letter stating that Jacob Smith's sentence had been commuted by representing to a clerk in the executive offices that he, the defendant, was a relative of Jacob Smith and that he wanted the letter with the good news to show to Smith's mother.

"Now, one of the defendants is entirely unknown to the Governor. The Governor did know the unnamed defendant but only in the same way that 'Al' Smith knows thousands of others. This unnamed defendant called on the Governor and briefly discusserd the case of Jacob Smith and the Governor said that he would refer all inquirers to the proper authorities.

"This man had no connection with the Governor, socially or politically. The two defendants were introduced to Jacob Smith's family by Charles Stenberg, a lawyer in the Dispatch Building, Union Hill, N. J. Stenberg has made a statement to this office about his part in the matter. In it he claims that he was 'fooled' by the defendants. He said that he knew some of Jacob Smith's relatives in Union Hill and that he happened to mention to Rosenberg that he would like to get Smith out of jail. Rosenberg told him, the lawyer said, that he knew a lot of prominent people in the city and State and thereupon introduced Stenberg to the unnamed defendant, who was introduced as 'Governor Smith's family physician,' which was false.

"In investigating the matter I called Mrs. Rebecca Smith to my office. She finally admitted that she had paid the money over to the defendants. Then I sent for Mr. Stenberg and he told me of his part in the matter. Louis Smith, the brother, also admitted that the money had been paid over. Their testimony was presented to the Grand Jury."

After his appearance before the Grand Jury Governor Smith referred all reporters to Mr. Talley. He said that he had been requested not to discuss his evidence outside of the Grand Jury room.

A Third Off the Prices of $400,000 Furniture

NEW furniture---bought for regular stocks---pieces and suites for every room

"What a pity!" said the manufacturer of one of the bedroom suites reduced, as he walked through the furniture stocks yesterday. "You know I cannot sell you that suite again to sell even at its REGULAR price."

Well, if he can't, perhaps some other manufacturer can. In any event, that suite is going to somebody at $1 600 under its regular price.

This manufacturer—and a number of others—delayed in the filling of our orders placed months ago. And then, quite suddenly, all got ready to deliver about the same time. We cannot properly house and display all this new furniture. So $400,000 of our stocks—including a large part of the new arrivals—has been priced a third less.

are miles and miles apart.

There is as much difference as there is between Winter and Summer.

There are few cities or homes or churches that would not be better off if it were not for jealousies and friendships broken off for some undefined and unknown reason.

One or the other made a mistake, and the two men or women who could have helped each other drifted apart and both are poorer and unhappier for it.

A Specialized Service of the Wanamaker Store

"I'm a hard man to fit"

OF course.....Strange, is it not, that almost every man you meet believes that he is hard to fit? Perhaps it's because he takes a theoretical measurement of himself compared with exaggerated fashion plates. But fashion plates exist chiefly as fashion plates. Clothing is made for men.

It stands to reason —that a suit made for a short, stout man will not fit a tall, slim man. But the point is this: There are suits for both types, correctly fashioned, and made to fit. And, likewise, there are suits for other men who are neither stout nor slim, short nor tall. $50 to $95.

It is good to know —that somewhere in New York adequate attention is given to these important clothing details. Satisfaction has long been an attribute of the Wanamaker Shops for men.

PILING UP UNCERTAINTIES.

Senator HARDING'S speech at Baltimore shows that he is like the mediæval teacher who was good at making dogmatic assertions, but was very bad at answering questions. It was said of ANSELM of Laon that, "if any one went to him being uncertain, he returned more uncertain still." Mr. HARDING was asked straight out whether he stood with Senator JOHNSON in proposing to "scrap the League." After a little sparring the Republican candidate replied: "I'm perfectly frank to say to you that I am at present without a specific program about an association of nations."

This, be it noted, was a mere interlude in a speech which was chiefly devoted to an attack upon the Democratic Administration for not having been "prepared" for peace. Yet, after that horrible example, and with two years to get ready in, the Republican leader confesses that he is still less prepared. He has no "specific" plan. He merely asks the voters to trust him to evolve one after he is elected. And whenever he undertakes to give a vague description of the kind of international association which he favors he describes it as something almost indistinguishable from the League of Nations. Yet that League—the only real association of nations now existing and at work—he declares to be anathema and vows that he will never consent to enter it. This is simply uncertainty piled on uncertainty. Senator HARDING asks the country to be good enough—and credulous enough—to sign him a blank check.

However, the plain questions which he declines to answer will continue to be put. They are being put daily by disturbed Republicans. The Portland Press, owned by Senator HALE of Maine, is not at all satisfied with Mr. HARDING'S attempt to ride two horses going in opposite directions. It quotes Senator JOHNSON'S statement that the Republican nominee has "scrapped the League of Nations," and demands: "Where does Senator JOHNSON get this stuff?" Possibly from the letter which Governor COX has been informed that HARDING sent to the California Senator. If there is any such letter it would be better for all concerned to have it made public before the election. After it, HIRAM JOHNSON might bring it out with deadly effect, drawing it, or threatening to draw it, from his pocket much as if it were a dagger.

MORE LIGHT ON THE KAISER.

Herr ERZBERGER is the latest of the Germans prominent in the war to publish a book. His "Experiences," of which he declares that he cannot yet make public the full story, relate mainly to his work in the Government and in the Reichstag. He had frequent occasion to observe the Kaiser and was most struck with his "extraordinary levity." When WILLIAM II. met the Socialist members, on July 20, 1917, he told them that he thought a peace by agreement would be an excellent plan; for, said he, the agreement would be to take from the pockets of the enemy money, cotton, minerals, oil, and put them all in German pockets. These remarks, writes ERZBERGER, together with the Kaiser's flighty talk about a settlement with France and then leading the entire Continent in a war upon England, left the Socialist Deputies confused and amazed at his flippancy and ignorance.

Further testimony to a similar effect has just been published by Sir VALENTINE CHIROL in two articles in The London Times. He relates that the German Foreign Office showed him in Berlin the Kaiser's report of an interview which he had with Lord SALISBURY in 1895. In it he ascribed sentiments to the British Prime Minister which seemed incredible. When the matter was brought to SALISBURY'S attention he remarked that it would be hereafter desirable to have a third person present when he conversed with the Kaiser, so that the latter might not put into his interlocutor's mouth "proposals which emanated from himself." It is now clear that the Kaiser, in his reckless irresponsibility, led his diplomats a sad life. One of them, Baron HOLSTEIN, said to Sir VALENTINE CHIROL in 1908: "This miserable Emperor of ours will either end in a madhouse or destroy our German Empire."

THE SOLDIER AND THE LEAGUE.

Talking about the League of Nations from the military point of view, Secretary BAKER says that he knows the army that went abroad and the spirit that animated the American soldiers. "They fought," he declares, "to put an end to war, and the men who lived in the trenches, under shell fire, who saw high explosives and were bombarded from the clouds, want an end put to war." Who that has persuaded soldiers to talk about their experiences can doubt it? Many have been silent since their return from the shambles in France. No one else really knows the horrors of the war, which seamed their souls and left them wondering how they survived the blast of machine gun fire and the noxious gas attack. It is too terrible for most of the home-coming soldiers to talk about. They went through the hell of it, and could never make a non-combatant understand what it meant. The memory of the war holds no romance for them; it was an ugly, sordid, diabolical business. No veteran who retains his wits wants any more of it.

Although no American division was in an active sector more than ninety-three days and most of the divisions served in a battle area less than thirty days, 50,327 soldiers were killed on the field or died of wounds. The total of deaths from all causes in the war was 116,492, disease accounting for 58,073. Including advances to our Allies, the war cost the United States $32,080,266,968. No producer of wealth, from the highest to the humblest, wants another war, but it is the veteran soldier who abhors it most. About 2,000,000 soldiers sailed for France, and more than half of them fought from Cantigny to the day of the armistice. Poll them and not one would declare himself against the prevention of war by any human means conceivable. The League of Nations was planned by representatives of the Allies lately in arms to avert war and to bring any conflict that might break out to a quick conclusion. No one has stated the consequences of the agreement of the United States to join the League and of its refusal to do so better than Secretary BAKER:

> If we stay out of the League, which now exists, and it fails for want of our help, Europe will redivide into alliances seeking to establish a balance of power, and the next explosion there will scatter its fragments on our shores, just as this one did, and finally draw us in. On the other hand, if we go into the League we help to erect a unanimous opinion of mankind on international questions, and no nation would be strong enough or foolhardy enough to embark in a war against the unanimous judgment of mankind.

Can there be doubt that another great conflict in Europe would draw us in? Consider France alone. Her independence would surely be threatened, and could Americans hold aloof? They have saved France once, and the memory of a comradeship in arms would bring America to her side again. To enter the League with our great prestige and inexhaustible resources would be to make it paramount and invincible. Can there be a doubt of that? Thirty-nine nations now form the formidable phalanx of the League, each under its own flag and none other. There was nothing heedless about their entering in. The risks were well weighed, the duties involved were duly considered. It is not too late for the United States to join them and lend her powerful aid in return for theirs if this country should be threatened by a great military nation. Strong as the United States is, it cannot stand alone in a conceivable crisis. It is the solemn duty of all American citizens in this national campaign to read and understand the Covenant, both in letter an spirit, so that they shall not be misled by false logic. No body of Americans should have a greater influence in deciding the issue right than the veterans of the great war.

A PENNANT IN BROOKLYN.

So we are to have a baseball championship in town after all. Those of us who pinned our hopes on one or both of the alternating attractions at the Polo Grounds may perhaps forget our domestic infelicities and help cheer for Brooklyn if the residents of Brooklyn Borough are willing to concede that Manhattan is part of New York and admit the inhabitants of this inconsiderable suburb to a humble share in their triumph. The wise men say that the achievement of Mr. ROBINSON'S Brooklyn ball club is most creditable. Nobody regarded it very highly; it was not spectacular, like some of its neighbors; it raised no great hopes in youth only to disappoint them in maturer years. It kept ticking along like a well-regulated watch; while, to continue the horological figure, our domestic Yankees ran down at the end of the season like an eight-day clock on the ninth day, and the Giants, in their belated rush, gave a good imitation of a commuter whose alarm clock went off twenty minutes late. It is one more illustration of the superiority of true merit and native worth over unstable brilliancy, and doubtless a great moral lesson could be drawn from it by anybody who wanted to take hold and pull.

It is the misfortune of professional baseball at present that it suggests little opportunity for moral edification. Eight of the Chicago White Sox, including all but one or two of the great magnificos of the team, have just been indicted for throwing last year's world's series to the Cincinnati Reds. Their guilt should not be hastily assumed in any case, and least of all on such evidence as has so far been produced. Most of the witnesses who have talked to the Grand Jury appear to have been persons who were outguessed by men a little more adept in crookedness and are now trying to get even for the loss of their money. The brain reels at contemplation of the double, triple and quadruple crossing which may or may not have taken place. At any rate, the scandal has besmudged an art most of whose practitioners are undoubtedly honest. It is to their interest to stay honest, for the average ball player who gets five, ten or fifteen thousand dollars for six months' work would be lucky to make $5 a day at anything else.

The suspension of the indicted Chicago players will presumably give the American League pennant to Cleveland, and with this almost everybody will be satisfied. Cleveland has played in hard luck almost as long as Cincinnati. It is fitting that this last stigma should be removed from the honor of Ohio in the year when the nation listens in admiration to the rival wisdom of HARDING and COX. Moreover, everybody admired the Cleveland club for its recovery from the shock caused by the killing of RAY CHAPMAN; Manager SPEAKER, one is tempted to say the least verbose and most pleasing speaker in Ohio public life, appears to deserve his success. Brooklyn and Cleveland are untouched by scandalous rumor, and for this as well as other reasons it is fair to assume that the 1920 world's series will be decided on its merits.

MR. COOLIDGE'S LAY SERMON.

It used to be the custom, and may be now, for a New England congregation, after listening to a good, long, fervent discourse rebuking sin, to file out and begin to discuss the persons whom "the cap fits." It never adjusts itself, of course, to the head of any critic. If avarice was the theme, he rejoices to think how Deacon Tinker, notoriously "near," must have squirmed in his pew. If backbiting and scandalmongering had been attacked, he wouldn't have liked to be in 'Mandy Gosnold's shoes during that sermon, and so on.

Governor COOLIDGE has just preached an admirable lay sermon on the "all too prevalent" spirit of vindictiveness in American public life. "There is nothing this nation so needs today," he said, "as the cultivation of a charitable spirit. We must have done with intolerance." Of the personal and individual application of this sermon against political intolerance and vindictiveness there can be no doubt. It was plainly and particularly addressed. It was delivered before the Sovereign Grand LODGE of Massachusetts. The three sites and capitals of the Sovereign Grand LODGE of Massachusetts are Nahant, Boston and Washington. He that converteth the sinner shall save a soul. It is to be hoped, if not expected, that the Sovereign Grand LODGE will not err by refusing the Governor's reproof, but that, by his own conscience convicted, he will repent him and bring forth fruits meet for repentance.

THE DISINTEGRATING PARTY PRIMARY.

In two States the Democratic Party has lost itself in so-called Democratic primaries invaded and conquered by a non-Democratic organization, alien and hostile to Democratic principles. In Colorado the Non-Partisan League, the Labor League and miscellaneous, motley radicalism carried the primaries, stole the nominations. Virtually, there is no Democratic Party in Colorado so far as State matters are concerned. Taking advantage of the easy hospitality of the direct primary system, the enemies of the Democratic Party have seized it. Its organization is broken. Its members are dispirited and disgusted. What calls itself the Democratic Party of Colorado is a delusion and a fraud, a substitute that has nothing in common with Democracy but the name. So successfully was "the will of the people" ascertained by that infallible and heaven-sent oracle, the direct primary.

In Montana the case is the same, or worse. There, again, the Democratic primaries were thronged by Non-Partisan Leaguers, Socialists, radicals, revolutionaries. Senator MYERS, a Democrat now nearing the end of his second term, who knows, as he says, that his denunciation of this political burglary "may sign his political death warrant," manfully rejects the spurious Democratic ticket for State officers, with a single exception, and will support none of the "hybrid radicals" nominated for Representatives in Congress. The genuine Democrats were beaten at the primaries. In their places were named men "preaching revolution," whose election would be dangerous to the country. He calls on "all loyal Democrats" to support the Republican State ticket and the Republican Congressional nominees.

Senator MYERS will make speeches for the Democratic national ticket. He is steady in his adherence to Democratic principles. He shows it by his opposition to "the men who are masquerading as Democrats," but who "are actually a hybrid combination of radicals and revolutionists." The Democratic Party of Montana has passed into the hands of the bitterest foes of Democratic policies. It is little more than a name and a phantom. It has been ousted from its rightful place, which has been usurped by a combination of non-Democrats, anti-Democrats, opponents, some of them, of our whole scheme of Government and social order. Another glorious monument to the purifying and redeeming virtues of the direct primary.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED MILES OF SUBWAY.

The proposal to add 813 miles of subway, including 21 interborough tunnels, to the existing 616 miles of dual subway is a challenge to the imagination of the boldest seer of the future of the world's greatest city. Yet it comes from an official in charge of construction, on the strength of studies of his engineer. Already the dual subway dwarfs the Panama Canal, which was thought a feat of finance and construction for the National Government. To add $350,000,000 to the $600,000,000 already spent on the existing subways is to provide facilities costing a billion dollars.

The financing is more difficult than the engineering of the proposal, and yet an undoubted urgency prompted the studies. The capacity of the present system is overtaxed before its completion, and if the city is to keep its citizens at home it must carry them between their places of work and living both comfortably and cheaply, or they will drift into States and cities which are accustomed to thrive on our overflow of workers and taxpayers. Few words are necessary to prove that the city cannot find that $350,000,000 under any administration, and under the present administration less than any other. The administration which prides itself on its hostility to the dual subway plan is a fatal obstacle to the financing of its enlargement by its own resources, asking nothing from the city in the way of money or credit. The dual subways were started only in 1913, and in an incomplete condition have added 513,000,000 nickels to their income. That fact is more remarkable than the expectation of five billion passengers on the enlarged system. Experience shows that they increase faster than residents, but there is connection enough between them to be sure that the population made possible will strengthen the city in the future as in the past. The dual subway already enables more than a billion people a year to ride between home and office for one fare instead of two or more. For them there has been a substitution at least of one nickel for two, but at the cost of the embarrassment of the carriers.

It appears to be the ambition of the city administration to drive its partners out of the business, which the city would then seek to take over for itself. If that unwise design should succeed, the new and old dual subway schemes would perish together. The city would be unable to operate the single fare system, and would be compelled to fasten upon the taxpayers the deficit which now it claims credit for fastening upon the corporations. The system of one interborough fare instead of two is inseparable from the credit of the carriers. If they are made self-supporting their bonds are not a city burden, and the credit of the city improves with that of the corporations. The realization of the new scheme, and perhaps even the survival of the dual subway system, may be found to depend upon the adding of a cent or two to present fares until the war crisis is passed.

It is not an agreeable alternative, but hundreds of cities have found it better than crippling the carriers. Before the dual subway scheme was devised many travelers between boroughs paid two nickels to each of two carriers—four nickels a day, for inferior service. If the people prefer the administration's plan of disrupting the dual system they make its enlargement impossible and will add to their taxes more than they will save in fares. The dual system was begun ten years too late, and it has been delayed in construction by war conditions. But that system can finance itself and help the city's credit if it is allowed to do so.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Light on a Legal Mystery.

Already the task of "interpreting" the absentee-voter law has begun, and doubtless one interpretation after another will continue to follow in rapid succession as long as that thoroughly ill-advised, because inevitably harmful, example of class legislation remains on the statute book.

For it there was no audible demand except from the commercial travelers, sometimes less respectfully called "drummers," and it was they alone who finally half persuaded, half coerced weak legislators into passing it against the protest of everybody seriously interested in preserving the purity of the ballot. Nobody, indeed, either charges or thinks that the commercial travelers themselves, and as a group, will plan or countenance election frauds of any kind. They are quite as honest and patriotic as is any other group of good citizens, and it is to their credit that they considered it a hardship that so often the requirements of their trade or art prevented them from registering and voting like other people. They are to be criticised only because their own interests as voters loomed so large in their eyes that they could not see how wide a door for the entrance of many evils would be opened by a modification of the requirement that the franchise privilege always shall be exercised in person.

That requirement occasionally does inflict hardships, unquestionably. So does many another good law—all good laws to some extent, perhaps. But that fact is not a sufficient reason either for repealing the good laws or for making in them holes through which can be driven the proverbial coach and six—today one should say a seven-passenger touring car, with the top up.

Absenteeism Really Unrestricted.

It is Attorney General NEWTON who makes the first formal or official attempt to tell what the absentee-voter law means and by whom advantage of its provisions can be taken. An absentee voter, he says, "is a qualified voter who is unavoidably absent from his country or is elsewhere by reason of his duties, occupation or business."

A definition with more of "weasel words" in it than one was rarely made. Whether or not an absence is "avoidable" is obviously a matter of opinion—of many opinions that honestly can differ widely. In the next place, who is to decide what a man's "duties" are except himself, as morals as well as laws are involved, and both "occupation" and "business" are terms covering as much or as little ground as the individual user chooses to demand for them.

The Attorney General, and later the courts, will have to do better than this, or next to anybody who doesn't want to take the trouble to go to the polling place on Election Day will be able to send in his or her vote by mail—will, that is, if his or her Election Board is inclined to be kind instead of harsh.

But there:—the law is in the book, and for this year, at least, we must make a poor best of it. Probably it can be repealed before all of its invitations to fraud have been heard and accepted.

Providing Leases with Teeth.

Among the new rent laws just signed by Governor SMITH none is more interesting, and few, it may turn out, are of more practical importance to tenants in possession, than is the one placing upon superintendents and janitors a responsibility equaling the owner's for any failure to supply, as the lease promises, such facilities as hot and cold water, heat, light, power and elevator and telephone services.

Such failures, if willful, are now misdemeanors, and though it is about as hard to prove that any act of omission or commission is "willful" as it is to prove it done "knowingly," still it is evident that the visible superintendent or janitor will not be able, as in the past, always to refer a complaining tenant to the invisible owner, and that the latter, in the comparatively few cases when he can be reached, will be more hesitant than formerly to charge his subordinates with a negligence that now has a legal penalty.

Just what effect this new law will have on the relation between tenants and superintendents, and especially janitors, cannot be predicted safely. Tenants have been trained by long experience not to offend these minor powers—have learned so well that in mysterious ways they can make the tenant's life intolerable if they choose—that there will be wise hesitation to invoke a remedy the efficacy of which is still to be demonstrated.

This Fact Often Forgotten.

Friends of the late JACOB H. SCHIFF, valuing his judgment of conditions present and future, not infrequently asked his opinion as to general financial prospects. One such inquiry by one such friend was made when Mr. SCHIFF was on the eve of sailing for Europe, and it took the form of the question, "Doesn't it seem to you that this is a good time to buy American securities?"

The answer was characteristic: "I have never seen a time when I could not get securities for my money, but I have often seen times when I could not get money for my securities."

That was not exactly advice not to buy at that particular time, but it was more than an intimation that caution, then as always, was necessary. That Mr. SCHIFF as a financier had courage as well as caution he demonstrated many times in the course of his remarkable career, but these two qualities were always in the combination that is the foundation of success in business as in war.

Prohibition Enforcement.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The prohibition or Eighteenth amendment has been in effect since Jan. 16, 1920, or only eight months. The other amendments have been in effect many years, while the original articles of the Federal Constitution have been the fundamental law of the land for more than one hundred and thirty years. Can any one point out one single clause of the Federal Constitution that has been the cause of so much trouble, contempt for law and various kinds of lawlessness, graft and murder as has the Eighteenth Amendment?

THOMAS R. ADAMS.

IN THE SUBWAY.

Oblivious of the crowd within the train,
The swaying subway mob, the fretful cries
Of weary guards in shrill and raucous strain,
Absorbed she read with wonder-glowing eyes
Of South Sea islands, brilliant southern stars
And silver sands beside far silver seas,
Loud pounding surf on distant coral bars,
And winds perfumed that played strange melodies.

She saw herself go singing down the sands
With blossoms in her free untrammeled hair,
Exotic blossoms garlanding her hands.
Her bosom heaved with passionate delight,
A sense of sweetness o'er her being stole,
As there within the subway tomb of night
Some atavistic call surged through her soul.

Her fingers plucked her poor frock nervously,
Her eyes illumined with the vision shone . . .
And then her station came! The ecstasy
Died out. The door was closed, and she was gone
Reluctantly into the surging stream
Of people. Listlessly she climbed the stairs
To leave behind her lovely world of dream,
To greet with heavy heart the world of cares.

LEAGUE'S SHORTCOMINGS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I hope I may have space for a brief rejoinder to Mr. Miller's letter in your issue of the 17th.

(1) Mr. Fosdick's list of various commissions created by the League and of their activities is very interesting, but its pertinence to the League's viability is, it seems to me, doubtful. It is the League as an organization of power, the members of which are pledged to the use of military force in certain contingencies, which is today up for approval or rejection by the American people, and in this respect it failed completely in the Russo-Polish crisis, and for very fundamental reasons. Not only were the principal Governments unable to agree upon a course of action, but some of them incapable of controlling their peoples for the purpose of military action.

(2) I did not attempt to "explain" Mr. Lloyd George's language, as Mr. Miller asserts I did. I cited it because of its obvious repudiation of this outstanding feature of the League, as further evidence of the precarious condition of the League.

(3) Nor did I say that the League and the International Labor Conference need not hereafter be connected with each other "because of the fact" that they are separated from each other in the Peace Treaty. I mentioned this circumstance as indicative of what is the fact, that the two organizations, though having the same membership, exist for distinct purposes and are essentially independent of each other. However, I would not have it understood that I consider it desirable for the United States to enter the Labor Conference, for I do not.

(4) I quite agree with Mr. Miller that a decree which is "enforceable" must be "enforceable" against any defendant. It is equally true that what is enforceable in law should be enforceable in fact. It follows that if a certain method of enforcement would work badly against such powerful defendants as the United States such method ought at least not be thrust forward as indispensable to the idea of enforceability.

(5) Whether a proposition to make the decrees of an international court enforceable by military means would go further than Article X. would, of course, depend upon the scope of the court's jurisdiction.

As to Mr. Swenson's communication in criticism of my earlier letter, I have simply this to say: That if Article X. does not purport to create an obligation which the United States, having accepted the article as it stands, would be bound to meet by the exercise of its full constitutional powers when a casus foederis arose, then it ought to be stricken from the covenant as useless language.

EDWARD S. CORWIN.

The Whole Truth.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article "Why Not Tell the Whole Truth" is timely and forcible. Your correspondent in Thursday's paper, is right in his criticism of your tenderness toward Justice Hughes. It has always been the crying evil, productive of wrong and perverting justice in the trial of cases and administration of law, that lawyers will use all their powers not to enlighten but to blind and obscure, and in order to win verdicts or decisions throw strong light on some one point, and so dazzle and becloud the mind as to hide the real issue and the evidence supporting it.

Justice Hughes, were he now occupying the position he once did and were he called on to construe the covenant, would scorn to do what he has done in the speech you criticise. He would not have omitted to call attention to the points you raise and to the purpose expressed in the first clause of the League. He would have pointed out the eleven chances against war to one remote one in favor of permitting war.

With Article X. in force there is a chance that war might occur and the "teeth" which the artful dodger wants extracted from the League and put into the jaws of "an international court" might be required to enforce the decree of Council and certainly will be required if the court decree is to be of any force. But there are eleven chances to one that with the covenant in force Congress will never be called on to declare war, draft our boys or furnish money to fight any foreign foe, and the covenant will stop the lavish expenditure of our nation in preparing for war.

The text of the covenant should be printed and given the widest possible circulation. Many minds are being awakened, especially among the women, but gross darkness covers the land. With the text should go your convincing, awakening editorial article. The eyes that have been focused on the last clause of Article X should be told to "lift them up," to see the mountain peaks that are around the covenant, and behold "the feet of Him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace."

FRANK DAVIS.

A Search for the Covenant.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Last week I drove to the Town Hall of the Connecticut town in which I live to be made a voter, taking with me three other women, my neighbors and farmers' wives, for the same purpose.

It developed on the way that two of us were for the League, two against. Both of those against said they wouldn't vote for anything they didn't understand and that they didn't understand the League—had never seen a copy and were only confused by newspaper comments on Article X.

Realizing that I didn't understand it myself, I wished greatly to get some copies of the covenant for myself and for them, but had no idea where to apply for such. Being in town today, I read with pleasure your editorial article "Where to Find the Covenant" and turned into the nearest bookstore—Putnam's—to get my copies. They had none. I tried news stands in the G. C. T. and on the street, Brentano's and the Public Library at Forty-second Street with no success. Finally at Woolworth's 10 cent store on Twenty-third Street I found neat copies at 10 cents. They are not quite so available as you intimate.

Bringing the Issue Home.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your articles on the League of Nations issue are all very well stated, and especially the one on "Why Not the Whole Truth?" but it seems to me we ought to get away from the discussion of the various articles in the covenant for the benefit of the understanding of the average voter.

What does the average voter know about the wording of the Constitution? Why, he does not even know the clauses in his lease or insurance policies. He simply takes it for granted that they must be all right or other people would not have signed them. Why not, then, present the matter in this way: If we had not gone into the war it would be all right to stay out of any league, but as we did go into it we become a party to the peace settlement, and we are in honor bound to stand by our associates, especially as the war was terminated on our terms.

Now, inasmuch as twenty-nine or more nations have entered the League, where does it become us to hesitate and argue over the legal meaning of this or that article?

The mere fact of the Republicans dwelling on the meaning of Article X. indicates they expect to win on the presumption that the voters in the United States are a nation of cowards, and if they do win we will be convicted in the eyes of the world of just that very thing.

4 STATES LAG IN GROWTH.

Illinois, Montana, New Mexico and Louisiana Behind 1910 Rate.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — Four States, the 1920 populations of which were announced today by the Census Bureau, showed gradual declines in their respective relative increases over preceding decades.

Illinois has a population of 6,485,098, an increase of 846,507, or 15 per cent. over 1910. It is expected to retain its rank as the third most populous State, although its 1920 population shows the lowest relative increase in its history, falling short of the 1910 percentage increase by 1.9.

Montana, with a population of 547,593, showed an increase of 171,540, or 45.6 per cent. over 1910. This was the State's largest numerical increase, but its percentage increase was the lowest, falling short of its previous lowest relative increase of 1910 by 8.9. The State ranked fortieth in 1910, but has passed New Hampshire in the 1920 rank.

New Mexico's 1920 population was announced as 360,247, an increase of 32,946, or 10.1 per cent. over 1910. The figures show the State to have made the lowest numerical increase since 1880, when the growth was 27,691, and the second lowest relative increase in its history. New Mexico ranked as forty-fourth State in 1910, but passed Vermont in this census.

Louisiana, with a population of 1,797,798, increased 141,410, or 8.5 per cent. over 1910. The State showed both its smallest numerical and relative increases since 1870. Its 1920 rank cannot be determined until other States which ranked directly above or beneath it in 1910 have been announced.

Other population figures announced were:

Rochester, N. Y. (revised), 295,750; previously announced, 295,850.

Cook County, Ill., containing Chicago, 3,053,017, an increase of 647,314, or 26.9 per cent.

Lucas County, Ohio, containing Toledo, 275,721, an increase of 82,993, or 43.1 per cent.

Monroe County, N. Y., containing Rochester, 352,034, an increase of 68,822, or 24.3 per cent.

Galesburg, Ill. (revised), 23,834, an increase of 1,745, or 7.9 per cent.; previously announced, 23,785.

Hattiesburg, Miss., 13,270, an increase of 1,537, or 13.1 per cent.

Toledo, Ohio (revised), 243,164; previously announced, 243,109.

CORRECTION BUDGET RISES.

Department Asks $5,368,077, or $2,338,294 More Than 1920.

Estimates for the Department of Correction for 1920 made public yesterday show an increase over this year of $2,338,294.20. The amount requested for this department for next year is $5,368,077.64. Increases in salaries to employes of the department account for $883,783. Commissioner James A. Hamilton is satisfied with his own salary, having left his compensation at $7,500, but he asks $500 more for his deputy, raising his salary to $6,000 and an increase for his secretary.

The Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity has asked for $12,573,677, an increase of $3,539,876 over the budget allowance for 1920.

Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel for the Citizens Union, issued a statement last night placing the blame for increased budget requests upon the Mayor, who, he said, should direct the heads of departments under him to withdraw all requests for further general salary increases, inasmuch as only last month the salaries of nearly all city employes were increased from 20 to 22 per cent.

"Mayor Hylan is himself responsible," said Mr. Wallstein, "for a very large part of the 'wild scramble for unlimited appropriations' which he denounced a few days ago. He then made a touching appeal to his colleagues on the Board of Estimate to assist him 'in an effort to put a check upon the demands for tremendous increases in the 1921 budget.' That appeal was an attempt betimes to 'pass the buck' in relation to a budget that threatens to reach a staggering total."

WOULD REPLACE ASIATICS.

Negroes Ready to Go to California Farms, Says Representative.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—The possibility of negroes taking the places of Asiatics as farm workers in California was discussed today at the national convention of the Industrial and Commercial Council of People of African Descent.

W. H. Sanders, a Los Angeles delegate, said he was in direct touch with at least 5,000 negroes who would come to California to take up truck gardening in case persons of Oriental race were barred from further colonization in this State. He said the workers would be headed by graduates of the agricultural department of Tuskegee Institute.

Capital was subscribed for a co-operative company to market products of negro farmers through grocery stores to be established in negro communities.

An "address of safety from the American people" was issued in which the convention declared labor to be the greatest asset of people of African descent and that "brain, brawn, a few acres, a mill wheel and a smokestack, with uncompromising faith in God Almighty, will make any race of people happy and comfortable."

COFFEE DRINKING GAINS.

Increase in First Year of Prohibition Estimated at 16,000,000,000 Cups.

More coffee was drunk in the United States during the year ended June 30, 1920, than in any previous year on record, according to figures made public yesterday, received by the National Coffee Roasters' Association from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce. The period covered coincides with the first year of prohibition.

The total coffee consumption in continental United States for this period was 1,358,000,000 pounds and the per capita consumption 12.7 pounds. TESTS OF AN EDUCATED MAN

There Are Six, Says Dr. Butler—First Is Correct Use of English.

Six traits distinguish an educated man from an uneducated one, according to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, speaking yesterday afternoon in the gymnasium at the first university assembly held this term.

"The first trait," said Dr. Butler, "is correctness and precision in the use of the mother tongue, gained only by association with good English. The second is noted by those refined and gentle manners which are the expression of fixed habits of thought and conduct."

Sound standards of feeling and appreciation he ranked third in the list, with the power of reflection next and the power of growth fifth. The ability to do efficiently, without nervous agitation, which he found rarest of the six, was Dr. Butler's last test of the educated man.

NATIONAL ISSUES FIRST, SAYS MILLER

Republican Nominee for Governor Takes Smith to Task for Ignoring His Ticket.

MAKES ECONOMY PLEDGE

Says He Will Not Wait for Reorganization—To be Union League Guest.

National issues are paramount in this campaign, Nathan L. Miller, Republican nominee for Governor, declared last evening in a speech to the New York County Republican Committee, at the Palm Garden, Lexington Avenue and East Fifty-eighth Street, in reply to the expressed desire of Governor Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic opponent, to make his fight on State issues. Mr. Miller took Governor Smith to task for failing to discuss national issues in his speech of acceptance and said that neither he nor any other Democratic nominee could escape responsibility for the Democratic National ticket and platform.

"The Governor apparently wants to play a lone hand," said Mr. Miller. "I never have known any candidate for Governor, either Democrat or Republican, to succeed who sought to subordinate national issues to State issues. I am very glad to discuss State issues with Governor Smith, but national issues are paramount. The thing I intend to do in this campaign, first of all, is to fight for the election of Harding and Coolidge. I do not think a candidate for Governor can throw his national ticket overboard and expect to win.

"Governor Smith is apparently standing upon a platform of what he would have done if it had not been for a Republican Legislature. I propose to stand upon what I intend to do rather than upon what Governor Smith failed to do.

"I propose to set myself to the task of reducing the cost of the State government without waiting to reorganize the government, as Governor Smith proposes to do. He wants a reorganization of the State government and an executive budget. It is a good alibi. It would take two years to get a constitutional amendment to put such a scheme into effect. In the meantime the cost of the State government will have mounted from $140,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year."

Mr. Miller said the Legislature had taken Governor Smith at his word in one of his reorganization schemes and had passed precisely the legislation he desired to reorganize the Public Service Commission of the First District. Despite Governor Smith's pre-election promises, Mr. Miller said the transit situation in new York was now worse than ever. Mr. Miller said he expected to deal with this matter in detail later in the campaign.

Mr. Miller criticized the national administration for extravagance and accused it of failing to check expenditures after the armistice. "Eight months after the war was over," he said, "the Government departments asked for appropriations aggregating $11,000,000,000 for no reason except that they had the habit of extravagant spending. The only way to cure them of that habit is to vote them out of office."

In closing Mr. Miller said that this was his personal platform: "To treat everybody on the level and to deal with every problem that arises on its merits."

Ogden L. Mills, candidate for Congress in the Seventeenth Congressional District, attacked the national administration for incompetency and extravagance and the audience gave him the unusual compliment of long continued applause. Samuel S. Koenig, County Chairman, predicted that the Republican State and national tickets would carry New York City. Nearly 2,000 men and women attended the meeting.

Mr. Miller, Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and all the other nominees on the Republican State ticket have been invited to attend a reception at the Union League Club this evening in honor of Mr. Miller. He will address the members of the club. Elihu Root and Chauncey M. Depew also have been invited to address the meeting. Charles E. Hughes, ex-President of the club, will make the introductory speech.

FIREPROOF AIRPLANE NOW.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 28.—Heat so intense that it melted eight-inch aluminium and yet failed even to blister the cloth and wood of an airplane flying at a height of 3,000 feet satisfied Glenn Curtiss and other aeronautical engineers who witnessed a private test here yesterday afternoon that with the adoption of fireproofing methods invented by Parker H. Bradley air pilots would be assured of safety from fire when flying. Mr. Curtiss expressed his enthusiasm over the demonstration and congratulated Mr. Bradley.

The test, which took place at Hazelhurst Field, consisted of a flight of a Curtiss airplane which had been built according to Mr. Bradley's methods. The demonstration was witnessed by Air service officials. The machine carried a display of fireworks, and on the axle of the land

BROKAW BROTHERS

SEEKS TO DECLINE BEQUEST.

Broker Wants $5,000 Trust Fund to Go to Hospital Instead of to Son.

An unusual application was made in the Surrogate's Court yesterday when Warren Leslie as special guardian for Lee S. Oppenheimer, 7 years old, asked permission to decline a trust fund of $5,000 left him in the will of Morris Stettheimer, in order that the bequest may be given to Mount Sinai Hospital, which would receive the fund under the will if the boy dies before reaching 25 years of age. The boy's father, Herbert D. Oppenheimer, member of the New York Stock Exchange, wants to establish a similar fund out of his own resources for his boy in order that the bequest may go at once to the hospital.

Maurice Marks, attorney for the estate, said that he can find no precedent for such action and believes the beneficiary is too young to assent to his father's plan. The attorney thinks that when the boy reaches the age of 25 he would be justified in holding the executors responsible for the fund if it is not forthcoming. Surrogate Foley reserved decision, but said he was inclined to agree with Mr. Marks.

SUES HER GRANDDAUGHTER

Former Clergyman's Mother Seeks to Recover Property.

Mrs. Petronilla Prout of 250 East Seventy-second Street yesterday filed papers in a suit before Supreme Court Justice Newburger to get possession of realty, yielding $6,000 a month rent, which, she alleged, she had unwittingly transferred to her granddaughter, Miss Rose Cervenka, and to a lawyer, Guy Marchand. Mrs. Prout attached checks purporting to show that she had purchased the properties at 137 Grand Street, 42 West Twenty-seventh Street and 47 West Third Street.

The papers review the removal of John T. Prout from the pastorship of St. John the Martyr Church, 252 East Seventy-second Street, five years ago by Cardinal Farley. The former clergyman, Miss Cervenka, his niece, and Marchand, his secretary, lived with his mother, who began yesterday's suit, in the church rectory. It is alleged in the papers that the ex-priest put the properties in the name of Miss Cervenka because he did not want his name to appear as owner, and it is further alleged that the niece transferred them to Marchand, the mother signing the transfer.

The former priest accused the niece and Marchand of a conspiracy to deprive his mother of ownership of the property. Miss Cervenka replied that the property was an outright gift to her.

SCHIFF—A Prince of the House of Israel has passed away. The record of his life stands before the world. It is rich in deeds of charity and benevolence, in philanthropic activity, and in world leadership.

No man of his time could point to a life of greater or more beneficent usefulness not alone to his own people but to the poor and oppressed of the whole universe.

In the business and financial world he was a born leader. Great enterprises were successfully promoted by him with strictest integrity, and he was a most important factor in the economic greatness of our beloved country.

A generous patron of art and culture, he gave munificently of his wealth to our great institutions of learning, supplemented by active personal interest and service in the cause of a higher life and higher ideals.

The Board of Trustees of the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society of the City of Newark, N. J., desiring to express their appreciation of the life of Jacob H. Schiff, has ordered that this memorial be spread upon the records of the society and that a copy thereof be sent to his bereaved family with the expression of their sincere sympathy.

Died.

SCHIFF—Jacob H. At a special meeting of the Executive Board of the Independent Order Free Sons of Israel, held Sept. 27, 1920, to take action on the death of Jacob H. Schiff, the following minute was unanimously adopted ,ordered published in The New York TIMES, and copy forwarded to his immediate family:

Written high upon the tablet of "Immortals" in the temple of everlasting fame will appear the name of Jacob H. Schiff, who practiced in his daily life the highest ideals of Americanism, Judaism and fraternalism.

The Independent Order Free Sons of Israel, a national patriotic and fraternal organization, having for seventy-one years employed its resources in fostering these selfsame principles, its Grand Master and officers realize how great is the loss sustained by all humanity in the demise of one of its most distinguished benefactors.

The vision of Abou Ben Adhem will be reflected in stern reality when the angels inscribe in the "Book of Gold" as one who loved his fellow-men the name of Jacob H. Schiff.

Unto the widow and the members of his family is extended this expression of sympathy, which bespeaks the sentiment of the entire membership of the Independent Order Free Sons of Israel.
Solon J. Liebeskind, Grand Master.
Henry J. Hyman,
Grand Recording Secretary.

SCHIFF—With the deepest sorrow the Board of Directors of the Bureau of Jewish Social Research have learned of the death of Jacob H. Schiff. Time alone can reveal the real force of this blow to Israel. Mr. Schiff's good works are legion—his name for the past quarter century has been uttered with veneration in Jewish households in every land—his benefactions, dispensed with the utmost generosity and wisdom, have established his supreme place in philanthropy.

He has indeed been a staunch and fearless supporter of justice and humanity, a pillar of strength to his oppressed and persecuted brethren, the leader and statesman of Jewry.

Vast as were his interests, he nevertheless found time to give attention to the hundreds of personal appeals incessantly made upon him. It has been the great privilege of this bureau on many occasions to report to him of such matters. His noble life will be an imperishable inspiration to the men and women of this and coming generations.

The Board of Directors express their profound sympathy to the bereaved family, and pray that they find consolation in the knowledge that Jewry throughout the world mourns their loss with them.
The Bureau of Jewish Social Research.
Adolph Lewisohn, President.
Morris D. Waldman, Secretary.

SCHIFF—Jacob H. From the busy marts of life and the scenes of a beneficent activity, Jacob H. Schiff was called to his last reward. Imbued with the true spirit of his religion, he practiced in daily life the lessons taught in the Holy Book, and by his example proved that the divine message, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," is not mere words, but a sacred mission. Gentle of manner, kindly of spirit, generous of disposition, forceful of character, he stood "four-square," one of the noble brotherhood of souls that seek the highest good for the world; a man true and unafraid. We deplore his loss. We will miss his counsel and guidance. We cherish his memory. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family. "The Lord hath given; the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

SCHIFF—Jacob H. In the death of Mr. Jacob H. Schiff the Educational Alliance has sustained a severe loss. A founder of the institution, a Trustee for many years, at all times he took a deep interest in its work, more particularly in its efforts to interpret America to the immigrant, to aid him to understand and appreciate the large of his refuge and adoption and to foster a loyal and intelligent citizenship. Mr. Schiff gave generously to the Educational Alliance, both in wise counsel and in pecuniary activity, as well as in bountiful donations. Under the shadow of the great loss the Trustees of the institution feel themselves unable to do justice to the memory of the devoted friend who has passed away, but have appointed a special committee to consider plans for an appropriate memorial. By order of the Board of Trustees.

Bernard Ernst, Secretary.

Schiff to be one of the outstanding figures of this age, for his big and universal interests, his lofty ideals and his fearless advocacy of justice and humanity led him to be regarded as a tower of strength by men of every creed and color the world over. The fine inspiration of his noble life will indeed be engraven on the minds of men and women for generations to come. We of the Bronx Y. M. H. A., oft times recipients of his great generosity, will always retain an imperishable memory of this great and good man, and in our mission of inculcating the finest virtues of the good Jew and good American will always point to Jacob H. A. L. IS STRONGER IN ITS BACKSTOPS

O'Neill and Schalk Rank as the Two Leading Catchers of Major League Baseball.

MILLER BRILLIANT AT TIMES

But Brooklyn Maskman Lacks the Steadiness of Either Rival—Krueger's Work Erratic.

This is the second of six articles in which comparisons will be made of the playing strength of the world's series contenders.

From the standpoint of pitching the coming world's series the advantage appears to rest heavily with the National League; but, on the other end of the battery, the edge is just as pronounced in favor of the American League entry, whether it be Cleveland or Chicago which hooks up with the Robins in the big battle for baseball honors.

Everything now points to the Cleveland Indians as the opponents of the Robins and in none of the nine positions on the Cleveland club is there a more competent performer than Steve O'Neill behind the bat. This statement is made without forgetting that Speaker himself will patrol centre field, and Tris is generally regarded as the greatest outfielder of his day. Behind the bat O'Neill performs just as capably as does the more spectacular Speaker in the outfield, and there will be nothing for Clevelanders to worry about in this one part of the Indian machine.

For years Ray Schalk was the best of American League catchers and today he ranks second to O'Neill alone. For several years, the Cleveland backstop went about his work in his quiet way and little attention was attracted to him. That frequently is the case when a player isn't hitting, since stickwork always seems to be a necessary preliminary to a ball player's entrance into the realms of the great. O'Neill, the weak hitter, was generally denied a place in stardom by the critics.

Improves at Bat.

Then Steve began to hit. As his stickwork improved, his all-around work improved also. More attention was attracted to him and now he looms up as the best maskman in baseball. He can do anything that any other catcher can do and can do most things better than the average receiver. As a batsman he overtops any other catcher in baseball and many of the victories which have carried the Indians to first place in the American League pennant race may be traced to the timely stickwork of this veteran catcher, who has an off day only when it rains or when the Cleveland club is traveling. He carries on the grueling work behind the bat day after day, apparently immune to injury. Illness in his family, which called him to his home in Pennsylvania during July, was responsible for his missing the few games this year in which he was not in the lineup. He has been out of only five games since the season opened.

O'Neill has batted .300 in his 144 games this year, while Krueger of the Robins has batted about .290, Otto Miller is listed at .283 and Ray Schalk at .260. Schalk shapes up with O'Neill behind the bat, but his value to the club is not so great, as he does not clash with O'Neill in hitting. This little Chicago maskman is a bundle of energy, perhaps a bit more spectacular than the Cleveland plugger, but is no better as a thrower and no keener in handling his pitchers or working on the weakness of opposing batsmen.

Brooklyn probably will have Otto Miller behind the bat in most of the games and it is not to the disparagement of the Brooklyn maskman that he is placed in a class below that of either O'Neill or Schalk. Miller is a better catcher than is generally believed. He has a slow and methodical style, which creates an impression of laziness, but he is not lazy. Uncle Wilbert Robinson, in his day as a great receiver, in fact, one of the best the game has ever produced, would not have called upon Miller to perform so frequently behind the bat this season if the catcher did not rate higher in his opinion than in that of the fans. Robinson knew his man and the success of Brooklyn pitchers while working with Miller was uncanny. At one stage of the race Miller went three weeks without getting into a losing game.

Miller's Work Uneven.

At times Miller has risen to heights that no other catcher could surpass and then came the lapses into mediocrity which have made their impressions on the critics. Perhaps the best distinction to draw in a comparison involving O'Neill, Schalk and Miller is that the American Leaguers seem able to perform at the same high standard day after day, while Miller is streaky in his work, brilliant for a time and then lapsing into inferior work.

In a comparison of catchers, Krueger of the Brooklyn club must be considered, as he probably will work in some of the games. It is a certainty that O'Neill will start every game if Cleveland gets into the big series, and that Schalk will be behind the bat every day if Chicago represents the American League. In Brooklyn the gap between the first string maskman and his first substitute is not so pronounced as it is on the American League teams, and Miller is not a certainty for every game, as are O'Neill and Schalk.

Krueger lacks the steadiness of Miller behind the bat, and his throwing does not carry the accuracy of his brother maskman. He seems to work better with some pitchers than Miller does, and that improves his chances of getting into the series. Krueger's remarkable driving power with the stick is another advantage in his favor. He has not hit this year up to past standards in long-distance drives, but on occasions he delivers smashes that carry further than those of any other player in the game, barring, of course, Babe Ruth.

The Substitute Backstops.

Comparisons of the catchers need not carry much beyond the four already mentioned, who should be rated in this order: O'Neill, Schalk, Miller, Krueger. For substitute work behind the bat Tris Speaker has two veterans who played with him in Boston—Leslie Nunamaker and Chet Thomas. Either is capable of going behind the bat and doing good work in an emergency and Nunamaker is a dangerous hitter. But the fact that O'Neill has taken part in 144 games this year is proof enough of the difference between O'Neill and his substitutes. Nunamaker will get first call if another catcher is needed, or if a game is at the stage of easy victory or hopeless defeat. Thomas has been used as a pinch hitter in a few games.

Chicago has Byrd Lynn as extra maskman, but he has had few opportunities to catch this year, as Schalk has been in more games than O'Neill. Brooklyn has Elliott, but he will get into the world's series limelight just as Chet Thomas is likely to get into it—on the coaching lines. Both Thomas and Elliott shine as coachers.

Minor Leagues Name Chairman.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—President Tearney of the Western and Three Eye Leagues today was chosen Chairman of the commission which will have charge of the minor league championship series between the St. Paul club of the American Association and Baltimore, pennant winner in the International League. The series will open at Baltimore next Tuesday.

Cardinals Buy Outfielder.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—Darsey Carroll, outfielder, has been purchased from the Memphis club of the Southern Association by the St. Louis Cardinals. It was announced here today. Carroll, the announcement added, will join the local team next season. He formerly was with the Boston Nationals.

White Sox Can Still Place A Good Team in the Field

The Cleveland Indians moved closer to the American League pennant yesterday by defeating the Browns, and four victories in their remaining five games will put the pennant beyond the reach of the rearranged Chicago club. With two regular outfielders and two regular infielders suspended for the remainder of the season, the chances of Chicago's winning the three remaining games with the Browns are none too bright. If, however, Chicago should take three games at St. Louis, Cleveland would have to win four of the five games. The Indians have one more game with the Browns and four with the Tigers. If the White Sox take all three remaining games and the Indians win four of their five, the standing would be:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Chicago	98	56	.636

In justice to the White Sox players not mixed up in the baseball scandal, the Chicago chances for a pennant cannot be tossed out until the team is really eliminated. For the three games in St. Louis Manager Gleason has at his disposal a fairly strong team. Kerr, Faber, Wilkinson and Hodge are available for pitching duty; Schalk will catch and a good infield can be made up of Ted Jourdan at first base, Eddie Collins at second, John Collins at third and McClellan at short. For the outfield, Strunk, Leibold and Eddie Murphy are available. All are veterans who have been with the club all season and none has been mixed up in the world's series scandal. For the faults of teammates these players should not be deprived of the chance to play out the schedule and try to win the pennant.

MISS WAGNER WINS AT NET.

Only one match was run off yesterday afternoon in the replay of the tournament for the New York State women's tennis championship on the courts of the New York Tennis Club. The heavy rain of the early afternoon made play impossible, but Miss Marie Wagner and Mrs. B. F. Stenz managed to finish their match before the rain started. Miss Wagner won easily in straight sets by scores of 6—3, 6—1.

There were many interesting rallies in the two sets, but Miss Wagner's superior steadiness and skill in volleying gave her the upper hand throughout. She played the net even more than is her custom, and her opponent gave her numerous setups, of which she was quick to take advantage. Her overhead shots seldom missed.

SERIES WILL START AT BROOKLYN OCT. 5

National Commission Shifts the Schedule—Ebbets Will Allow Sewell to Play.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The National Commission today reversed its decision of yesterday and decided to open the world's series at Brooklyn on Oct. 5, playing three games there. The change was made at the request of Jim Dunn, President of the Cleveland Club, who asked more time to prepare the Cleveland grounds in the event that his team should win the American League pennant.

The teams will travel on Oct. 8 and open in Cleveland on Oct. 9 for a four-game series. Brooklyn has the eighth game, on Oct. 14, and will also get the ninth game, if one is necessary, as the National League yesterday won the toss for the final game. If a ninth game is played, however, it will be on Oct. 15, instead of Oct. 16, as the day's intermission for traveling has been eliminated.

Permission for the Cleveland Americans to use Shortstop Sewell, successor of the late Ray Chapman, in the world's series, if the Indians win the American League pennant, was granted tonight by Charles H. Ebbets, President of the Brooklyn National League champions. Sewell joined the Cleveland team after Chapman's death and his contract was promulgated after the time limit of Aug. 30, making him ineligible for the interleague series.

Mr. Ebbets's announcement was made in a reply to a telegram from President Dunn of Cleveland, in which he made a request to use Sewell. The Brooklyn President said he hoped Cleveland would be successful in the American race in view of the indictment of the Chicago American players.

The National Commission ruled that the following members of the Brooklyn club were eligible to compete in the world's series:

Leon Cadore, Harold B. Elliott, Burleigh H. Grimes, Thomas H. Griffith, James H. Johnston, Peter J. Kilduff, Edward J. Konetchy, Ernest G. Krueger, William G. Lamare, William F. McCabe, Albert L. President John Heydler named Henry O'Day and William Klem as umpires, and President Ban Johnson of the American League named Thomas Connolly and William Dineen.

The National Commission selected William Harridge, representing the America League, and Charles Evans, as representative of the National League, to arrange for the series.

Official Scorers.

J. E. Taylor Spink of St. Louis and Joseph M. McCready, secretary of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, of Philadelphia, were chosen as two of the official scorers. The local chapters of the Baseball Writers' Association in the cities where the games are played will select the two other official scorers. In case of a dispute over plays, the majority will rule.

Umpires selected to officiate at the series will not be announced until later, but the commision granted the umpires' plea for more pay for the series' work.

The National Commission decided that the contending clubs in the world's series should appoint a committee from each club to decide how the prize money should be distributed among the players. After this has been agreed upon, the first money will be given the commission and Secretary Bruce will mail individual checks to the players, according to the list as submitted by the respective committees.

These provisions wound up the preliminary plans for the big series, and the commission adjourned. President Heydler of the National League announced that he would depart for the East tonight.

INDUSTRIAL NINES TO PLAY.

Mount Hope Will Meet Johnson Team at Ebbets Field.

The Mount Hope baseball team of North Dighton, Mass., through its victory last week over the Fiske Red Tops, won the title for New England in the American Industrial Athletic Association and is to meet the Endicott-Johnson team of Johnson City, N. Y., for the right to represent the East in the finals to be held at Akron, Ohio. The arrangements have been perfected for the playing of this final baseball game of the A. A. A. tournament for the championship of the Eastern section at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, next Saturday at 3 P. M., in case of rain, on the following Monday.

The Mount Hope Finishing Company team is a good example of what can be accomplished in industrial baseball aided by daylight saving. It is made up entirely of employes of the company, and no outside player is ever used. The men have been coached this year by Thomas Hall, Brown '10, outfielder of last season's Varsity, and are the winners of the pennant in the Industrial League of Taunton, which has just completed its second successful season of twilight ball, winning eighteen of the twenty games played.

A modern up-to-date playing field has been provided by the company, including a scoreboard, grandstand and covered players' benches. In connection with the field is a large new club house equipped with shower baths and lockers.

MAY PLAY CITY SERIES.

Reports were current yesterday that a challenge had been issued by members of the New York Yankees for a city series with the Giants, the same to be subject to the approval of the club owners, but it was impossible to locate any one who had received such a challenge. The Giants were having an off day here, and the Yankees were in Philadelphia, where they close their season today with a double-header against the Mackmen.

At the offices of the local baseball clubs nobody knew of any plans for a series. It was said at the Yankees that no plans were being made there for such games. Manager Huggins was in Philadelphia with the Yankees, while John McGraw was in Chicago to testify in the baseball inquiry there.

According to the statement of one member of the National League team, the Giants were looking for a challenge from the Yankees, but would not challenge the American Leaguers. Players of both teams are equally keen to have a series. As the Giants already have been eliminated from the pennant race, while the Yanks have a mathematical chance to tie both the Indians and White Sox, it seemed strange that the challenge should come from the Yankees at this time.

Penn State Wrestlers Called.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 28.—More than 200 men have answered the call of Doc Lewis for wrestling candidates, the majority of them being from the two lower classes. While the regular work will not begin until after the close of the football season, Coach Lewis hopes to be able to get a line on the newcomers during the preliminary work this Fall.

EMES ASKS REINSTATEMENT

Jumper Declares He Has Removed Reasons for A. A. U. Ineligibility.

Edward L. Emes, former Bronx Church House high jumper, who has been on the Amateur Athletic Union's ineligible list for the past several years, yesterday made a formal application for reinstatement to the local Registration Committee. The Bronx athlete's plea for a return to good standing will receive consideration at the next meeting of the Registration Committee, probably on Oct. 7.

Emes was declared ineligible for A. A. U. competition several years ago because of his connections with a sporting goods concern. He was not definitely deprived of his amateur standing, as would have been the case had he been declared a professional. Under the rules of the A. A. U., an athlete who associates himself with a sporting goods concern is ineligible for further competition until he disassociates himself from the prohibited connection. Emes in his letter received yesterday states that he no longer is associated with the sporting goods establishment. Under the circumstances, it is likely the former B. C. H. jumper will be restored to good standing.

Emes declared yesterday that he was in good physical condition and expected, with the return of his amateur standing, to engage in a busy campaign during the coming indoor season.

DEVELOPING AERIAL ATTACK

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Entering upon the fourth week of practice and the week that will end with Colgate's first struggle of the season, the Colgate football squad this afternoon continued the intensive forward passing drills given to the men by the coaching staff for the first time yesterday, and outside of a little light scrimmage and tackling practice did nothing else.

The major portion of the afternoon was given over to a drill in which the backfield men were on the throwing end and the linemen on the receiving end in long and short forward passes. Practically the entire squad took part in this work, which is an evidence that the coaches deem a thorough acquaintance with this department of the game necessary, even to the substitutes.

With the line lighter than it has been in years, the minds of the coaches have centred on the development of the aerial route to field gains, and they are planning this year, more than ever before, to rely on the forward pass in the first games of the season, at least. Practically every member of the tentative Varsity backfield has demonstrated exceptional ability in the aerial game.

INDIANS WIN GAME; RECORD FOR SISLER

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—Cleveland advanced a step nearer the American League pennant this afternoon, defeating St. Louis by a score of 9 to 5 and increasing its lead over Chicago to a full game.

It was the third consecutive defeat administered to St. Louis by the Indians, who launched their attack against Bayne in the second inning and drove him from the box in the seventh.

Bagby put his club in front in the second inning with a double to right, after two were out, driving in two runs, and Cleveland maintained its lead. Evans, Speaker, Gardner and Bagby led the assault, the Cleveland leader scoring three runs and driving in two.

It was the thirtieth victory Bagby has turned in this year, and although hit freely, he managed to keep the blows scattered, with the exception of two innings.

Local fans presented George Sisler with a silver service as a mark of appreciation for his work, and the popular Brown responded in the sixth inning with a home run to the pavilion in right field for his 249th hit of the season, establishing a new American League record to supplant the record of Ty Cobb, who made 248 safeties in 1911. In the eighth inning Sisler made it 250 with a long triple.

N. Y. U. PRACTICES IN GYM.

Football Candidates Are Given Long Blackboard Lecture.

New York University's football squad was confined to the gymnasium yesterday afternoon by the heavy rain, which made Ohio Field a sea of mud. Coach Gargan took this opportunity to give the men a long blackboard lecture and had them walk through the formations on the gym floor.

The enforced confinement did more good than harm to the Violet warriors. For the last two weeks and a half they have been steadily grilled in the fundamentals of the game and are in the best of condition. Little time, however, has been spent on the formations to be used and the perfection of the signals. Yesterday's session, therefore, gave them an opportunity to become proficient in these departments.

Another valuable addition was made to the squad when Eucles, who has just been released from the army, reported to Gargan as a candidate for one of the backfield places. He has a world of speed and is a punter of ability. He is a negro who starred on the Virginia Union team several years ago. His presence helps the Violet mentor in the finding of suitable material for backfield substitutes.

Gargan as yet has not announced who will constitute the Varsity line-up in the first game. He has tried several combinations of linemen and backs, and will decide definitely today or tomorrow. The eleven to which he has been giving most of his attention consists of Adams and Lewis, ends; Caddell and Robinson, tackles; Edgar and Gulney, guards; Brin, centre; Weinheimer and Bates, half backs; Ryan, full back, and Berganon, quarter back.

HELPS FORDHAM'S CHANCES

There was another addition to the Fordham football squad yesterday afternoon when Jack Noonan, an elder brother of Jerry Noonan, one of the Maroon aggregation's leading backfield candidates, reported to Head Coach Joe Dumoe at Fordham Field. If the newcomer shows up as well as his younger brother he should prove a valuable acquisition. He is over six feet tall and weighs 215 pounds.

Despite the rain, which made it difficult for the players to keep their feet on the muddy field or to handle the slippery ball, the Maroon team was put through the regular workout yesterday afternoon. Most of the session was spent in signal practice. Dumoe held a short blackboard drill last night, in which he outlined some of the plays which the Fordham eleven expected to spring on its rivals later in the season.

Halloran, who should be the outstanding star of the Bronx team this year, was selected to act as captain of the Maroon team until after the opening game with the New York Aggies next Saturday. He probably will be elected to the post permanently after the initial contest.

LEHIGH GETS BIG GAME.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 28.—Because of inadequate seating facilities on March Field at Lafayette College, and also because of the fact that it would cost more than $10,000 to erect bleachers to seat 7,000 additional persons, the annual Lehigh-Lafayette football game will be played in Taylor Stadium at Lehigh this year.

The Lehigh Athletic Committee today accepted the invitation of the Lafayette authorities to play the game here, where Lehigh can seat about 17,000.

COSTLY GREY LAG IS BEATEN AGAIN

FAILS AS A MUD RUNNER

As if to show that there was nothing in the nature of a fluke about his victory over Grey Lag last week, the Quincy Stable's Knobbie scored another decisive victory over that latest high-priced acquisition of Sam C. Hildreth at Aqueduct yesterday. These youngsters met in the Babylon Handicap at six furlongs and Knobbie won by six lengths, while Grey Lag had to be content with third place among the four starters, the Xalapa Farm's Mulciber saying the place by three lengths.

Grey Lag was purchased by Mr. Hildreth for more than $40,000. He has now been defeated in both his starts for his new owner. Since his first defeat the official handicapper added ten pounds to the weight for Knobbie, which appeared to be sufficient to bring the colts back to even terms. It sufficed to make Grey Lag the favorite again, but Knobbie won with greater ease than on the previous occasion.

The race was run in a driving rainstorm, which made the track sloppy, and the only excuse that can be offered for Grey Lag is that he may not have liked the going. Knobbie fairly reveled in it. Knobbie was in front all the way and was in hand at the end, but Grey Lag, though he is a Star Shoot colt and therefore supposed to be bred to run on a muddy or sloppy track, would not extend himself in the stretch drive and was never in a position to threaten the winner.

Grey Lag Favored.

The rain, which turned the track into a series of small ponds and drove the crowd to shelter, came just before the running of the Babylon, the feature of the day. Up to that time the track had been in good condition. As there were but four starters and the weight conditions appeared to favor Grey Lag, the latter was made an odds-on choice, being backed 7 to 10. Knobbie was quoted at 11 to 5, while Mulciber and Quecreek were generally neglected.

Buddy Ensor, who had the mount on the Hildreth colt, galloped around to the starting post at a good clip, and was afterward blamed for having used up his horse. This probably had nothing to do with the defeat of the colt, for Grey Lag showed quite plainly that he could not run on the wet track.

Knobbie broke in front and rushed into a lead of two lengths before turning out of the back stretch. He was followed by Mulciber, which was soon charged on the Grey Lag. The latter moved up on the outside rounding the turn, and attempted to get close to the leader, but could not even dispose of Mulciber.

Once straightened out in the stretch, Knobbie began to increase his lead until at the sixteenth pole he was six lengths in front, the margin by which he won. Ensor went to the whip on the Hildreth colt, and, though Grey Lag responded and tried hard in the last eighth, he could not get up. He appeared to sprawl, and the last sixteenth he practically gave it up. Mulciber ran a surprisingly good race and finished with a rush, but Quecreek was outrun all the way and was stopping at the end.

The Hildreth colors were more successful in the second race, the Harmonicon Highweight Handicap, at six furlongs, in which Krewer was an easy winner. He led home Sea Mint by three lengths, and War Note was third among eight starters.

Ensor got Krewer away from the post with a rush, and, gaining a lead of more than a length at the turn, saved ground all the way and was never threatened. War Note chased the leader for half a mile, but began to tire in the stretch. At the same time Sea Mint, which had been knocked back right after the start, moved up with a rush and took the place by half a length. This was a race for all ages, but the only two-year-old to accept the issue was the Oneck Stable's Frigate. He was a contender to the head of the stretch, where he ran out very badly and lost whatever chance he might have had.

The third race went to W. R. Coe's Natural Bridge, which outclassed his small field of four starters and won easily over the mile and a sixteenth route. He defeated Dorcas by nearly three lengths, with Assume third.

Man o' War and Sir Barton Shape Up Well in Training

Both Man o' War and Sir Barton are training satisfactorily for their match race to be run at Windsor, Ontario, Oct. 12. The three-year-old champion, back at Belmont Park, is breezing along encouragingly in his morning trials and appears to be as fresh as ever. A telephone message received from Havre de Grace yesterday indicated that Sir Barton was also getting into his best form. The indications are that both horses will be at their best for the race. Man o' War will be shipped to Windsor about four days before the race and Sir Barton will go there about the same time.

CHASSEUR A WINNER AT HAVRE DE GRACE

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 28.—The Plateau Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth was won here this afternoon by M. J. Murphy's Chasseur, which scored an easy victory over Bolster and Master Bill, among others. The track was slow and soft and just to the liking of the winner. Breaking in front, Chasseur set a lively pace and raced Master Bill into submission. Entering the stretch he drew away, to win by three lengths. Bolster, which was slow to get under way, moved up with a rush in the final furlong and took the place by half a length.

Bolster was in close quarters for a greater part of the trip, and was twice cut off when his rider attempted to get through. He finally came to the outside and finished strongly, once he was clear.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For two-year-olds, purse $1,242; five and a half furlongs: Lough Storm, 115 pounds (Butwell), $9, $3, $2.10, first; Dark Horse, 118 (Rodriguez), $2.20, $2.10, second; Roncoeas, 113 (Morris), $2.10, third. Time—1:08. Fallacy, Harp of the North and Runflor also ran.

AMATEURS BEATEN BY VARDON AND RAY

Special to The New York Times.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 28.—On the Brookline Country Club links today Harry Vardon and Edward Ray demonstrated their team superiority over Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford by beating the Massachusetts amateurs in a thirty-six-hole match by 4 up and 3 to play. The English professionals beat the same team by 4 and 2 at Belmont Springs, and today their play left no doubt as to which team is the stronger in competition.

Three thousand spectators witnessed the match, in which was shown some remarkable golf, particularly in the play on the eighteen holes in the afternoon round. In the morning Vardon, the six-times British champion and United States open champion in 1900, had a 79, which was matched by Guilford, while Ray had a 77 and Ouimet a 76. However, a number of the holes were approximated and medal scores hardly counted.

Vardon and Ray played beautifully as a team, one always being at his best if the other happened to be at all in trouble. Vardon was the big attraction in the afternoon round. He figured on every hole except the nineteenth, twenty-fourth, and thirty-first. He won the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth, halved the thirtieth with Guilford, scored a half with Ray at the thirty-second, and halved the thirty-third with the field. The three remaining bye-holes were played out, Vardon finishing with a 3, 4 and 5.

Ouimet and Guilford did not play with the steadiness and finish they have usually showed. Ouimet was erratic in driving in the morning, and was off in his putting in the afternoon. The match was won and lost on team work.

ORR BEST SHOT AT DOUBLES TARGETS

Ohio Marksman Leads Amateurs in Official Standing Just Announced.

Supplementing the official list of averages of all trapshooters who had shot at 1,500 or more registered single targets up to Sept. 1, the American Trapshooting Association has just issued a similar list of all trapshooters who had, up to the same date, shot at 100 or more double targets, or pairs—targets thrown two at a time. The list is a small one, containing the names of only 72 amateurs and 11 professionals.

Morrison B. Orr of Piqua, Ohio, leads the amateurs, having broken 179 targets out of 100 pairs, which gives him an average of .8950. Next to him and right on his heels is Elmer C. Wheeler, the Osage chieftain from Pawhuska, Okla., with an average of .8850 for the same number of targets shot at. In third place is Frank M. Troeh of Vancouver, Wash., the leader in this year's averages on single targets, not only heading the amateur list but topping even the best of the professionals. Mark Arie, of Champaign, Ill., winner of the Olympic Individual Trapshooting Championship at Antwerp, is in seventh place; Frank S. Wright of Buffalo, who, at Edgewater Park, Cleveland, on Aug. 24 won, for the second year in succession, the title of American Amateur Champion at single targets, stands tenth on the list. Ben S. Donnelley of New York City, a member of the United States Olympic Trapshooting Team, is number forty-three on the list.

Of the eleven professionals on the list, two are tied for first honors, and both are from the State of Illinois. They are Jay R. Graham of Ingleside and Guy A. Ward of East Alton, and both have broken 200 targets out of 150 pairs, just an even 88 per cent. average.

The list of both amateur and professionals is as follows:

CORNELL IN DOUBLE DRILL.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Realizing that the period of unrestricted time for practice is nearly over, Coach Gilmour Dobie, whom some Cornellians are already dubbing as a man of mystery and others as "that canny Scot," drove the Cornell football squad hard in two practices today under splendidly invigorating weather conditions. Dobie continues pessimistic, but every one else connected with the team seems hopefully expectant. No one will know until Saturday's opening game with Rochester how the team sizes up.

Four teams went through another sharp scrimmage this afternoon, Dobie placing emphasis on punt and forward pass formations. The back field that has been working out for several days, composed of Carey, Jewett, Mayer and Hasbrouck, played on what was considered the first team again. Of this group only Mayer has played 'Varsity football before. Carey was freshman quarter back last year, and Jewett is a former tackle, who played second string in the line last year. Dobie regards him as a half back possibility and likes him because he is heavy and strong. He weighs about 182 pounds.

Finn, of last year's 'Varsity, is apparently sure of an end position, while Wagner and Gouinlock, new men, and Munns of last year's freshman team, are the other favored wing men. Knauss and Dodge, of last year's freshman team, are playing one set of tackles, and Kay and Ebersole, crew men, another. Miner and Goetz, heavy but green guards, worked on one team, and Pendleton and Cohen, the former of last year's 'Varsity, on another. Horrell, last year's 'Varsity centre, is being hard pushed by Brayton, of last year's freshman team, for the pivot position.

TWO TOUCHDOWNS BY TIGER 'VARSITY

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 28.—For the third consecutive practice day the mid-Summer heat gave the Tiger gridiron squad no opportunity for the long session of scrimmage which Head Coach Roper had slated for this afternoon. However, the 'Varsity team braved the humidity and a severe thunder storm to celebrate the opening day of the Fall term with two touchdowns against the scrub eleven. Straight line plunging mixed now and then with close end runs accounted for all the 'Varsity scoring.

Today's play was very ragged throughout, owing in part to the wet ground and the heat, and Gilroy, who did most of the ground gaining for the first team, was able to find many holes in the line.

Don Lourie and Thomson, two of the most dependable backfield men on Princeton's roster, were missing this afternoon. Both men are suffering from weak ankles, and with the Swarthmore game due on Saturday Roper is taking no chances. Ed Stenson, a light but shifty player, was playing in Thomson's place, and Johnny Gorman ran the 'Varsity at quarter.

Gorman shared the honors of the afternoon with Gilroy, his last year's running mate on the freshman eleven. Gorman, one of the lightest men on the squad, was hardly conceded a chance even for the scrub a month ago, but has shown surprising form in the scrimmage thus far.

Fumbling was the greatest fault seen in today's play and the 'Varsity erred especially in this respect, dropping the soaked pigskin half a dozen times.

Roper, evicently intent on determining his choice of five men for Saturday, made frequent changes in the makeup of the forward defense. Kech Dickinson Rutan, Towers, Thomas McNamara-Speers, Halsey and Hooper were all given a chance today. The backfield, while uncertain, does not present such a problem, although Thomson and Garrity will probably be missing from the Swartmore fray.

ELI ELEVEN SCORES THREE TOUCHDOWNS

'Varsity Breaks Through Scrub Line Repeatedly in Long Scrimmage Drill.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 28.—Yale's football practice, which was checked by rain, was unusually long, in anticipation of a rugged bout with Carnegie, which opens the Eli's season here Saturday. Head Coach Tad Jones rested Aldrich and shifted the regular lineup constantly, but it drove over for three legitimate touchdowns covering the length of the field, and one in addition when the 'Varsity was given the ball at the 5-yard line to take it over. Jim Kernan, a halfback, who has come through rapidly, was tried out and, with Kempton, made touchdowns in ten minutes. Frank Kelly, the former Rutgers Captain, stormed across for the third.

Later in the practice scrubs ploughed through the 'Varsity from midfield to the five-yard line before they were held. Wakelee, scrub halfback, and Quarterback Jones fooling the 'Varsity line repeatedly. Later in the practice, Penrose, who was tried on the 'Varsity for the first time, registered a touchdown after being used for most of the ground gaining from midfield. Walker, 'Varsity tackle last year, was moved to end, where he was replaced by Dilworth. Johnny Calhoun, sub tackle last year, played the other end. A feature was the drop kicking by Thorne Murphy, closing the practice. He lifted several from the thirty-yard line. Ex-Captain Wyllys Terry of the '83 team has joined the coaching squad.

The 'Varsity line-up:

PENN STATE WORKS HARD.

Bezdek Gives First and Second Teams Arduous Scrimmage.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 28.—Despite the warm, muggy weather, the first and second teams went through a grueling scrimmage this afternoon, with Coaches Bezdek, Harlow and Martin following every play and noting the mistakes that must be corrected. Bezdek hopes that he can get through the Gettysburg game on Saturday without any injuries, for he will need his strongest lineup against Dartmouth the following week.

The advance sale of tickets to alumni for the Dartmouth game on Oct. 9 indicates that there will be a record-breaking crowd on hand and that even the enormous new stands will be taxed to their capacity. Football enthusiasts from all parts of the State are planning to come to State College for this game.

Young Classroom Wizard Swings a Wicked Cudgel

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 28.—Harvard College gained a genius at studies and a potential batsman for its baseball nine when Frederick Santee of Wapwallopen, Pa., 13 years of age, registered as a member of the freshman class today. The boy has mastered five languages, works problems in calculus with facility and has advanced far beyond his years in other branches of academic study. His keenest delight, however, he told his classmates today, is to get out and play ball, and those who knew him at Central High School, Philadelphia, said young Santee was a budding Babe Ruth, whose heavy hitting had won more than one game for his team.

COLUMBIA ELEVEN NEARLY SELECTED

With many regulars on the injured list and no scrimmages in which to test the mettle of the myriad of candidates, the prophets on Morningside Heights are having their troubles getting a line on the 'Varsity eleven that Coach Buck O'Neill will select for the Trinity curtain raiser on Saturday next. Some juries, seem to be well-nigh certainties. The quarter-back position, for instance, seems comfortably and capably filled by the brawny and talented Bunk Harris, who can run, throw and kick with equal adaptness. He is heavier than his predecessors at Columbia and has displayed a rare knack in tossing forward passes. His generalship is, of course, still to be tested, but he has run the team well in the signal drills and the solitary scrimmage.

The end positions seem temporarily clinched by Pulleyn, freshman half back last season, and Forsythe, a guard in 1919, but now converted into a wing man. The two backfield certainties for the initial tussle are Frank Canapary and Moszczenski, the latter of whom has flashed brightly in the practices so far and in the opinion of the coaches has the makings of a star. Canapary is probably the trickiest broken field runner on the squad and is as slippery as an eel in evading would-be tacklers. The fourth backfield post will be fought for by a number of good men. Charlie Applebaum, out with water on the knee, would normally take care of full back, but he will not be fit to start the opening contest. Burtt, Eccles and Thornton are waging a torrid battle for the vacancy. Thornton is valuable as a punter, Burtt is the most consistent offensive player of the three with the ball, and Eccles excels in throwing and receiving the forward pass.

The guards and tackles have been shifted around as much as any other positions, and there have also been a number of injuries among the forwards that has complicated the situation. Miller and Walder seem likely choices for the guards. Miller weighs 235 pounds and Walder boasts of 206 pounds. Miller has a dangerous rival in the person of Calloway, the negro guard from East Orange High School, who is big, fast and aggressive.

Modarelli and Scovil, the regular first-string tackles last year, seem to have the edge at present. Modarel

Graham Moffat, well and gratefully remembered here as the author of "Bunty Pulls the Strings," has arrived from Glasgow with another play of his, a piece called "Don't Tell," now on view at the Nora Bayes Theatre. This is described on the programs as "a new Scottish comedy," but it is not new in any sense of the word that means anything and it is Scottish only in the sense that its scene is arbitrarily laid in Glasgow and all its speeches are shouted with a fine Scotch bur. Shorn of its dialect, it might have been written in and about any country under the sun and indeed, with slight variations, has been written in and about most of them. But not recently.

For some reason we are all wont to attach undue importance to any play any one has been at sufficient pains to bring bag and baggage across the Atlantic. We go to it at once expectantly and critically, as if it were of quasi-ambassadorial status. We speak of London as "sending" us this play or that, for all the world as though the Prime Minister and the Lord Mayor sat in prayerful judgment on each migrating entertainment. As a matter of fact, these productions from overseas are ventures no less commercial than those which flourish (or do not flourish, as the case may be) all around us.

What really has come to us from Glasgow is no Minister of Merriment sent by Scotland for America's amusement, but just a Glasgow actor-manager, himself seeking overseas some of the rewards which seemed so easily earned here by a piece of his several seasons ago. It would be a fair exchange if we were to send to Glasgow an ordinary American comedy—say one of about the level of "Twin Beds"—it might be mounted, staged and acted by a small-town stock company.

"Don't Tell" deals with the household of Baillie John Cameron (erstwhile plumber), whose young son has a weakness for horse-racing and other forms of sinfulness. This lad (played, as it happens, by a conspicuously mature and forceful looking actor who strongly resembles George Creel) steals and pawns his mother's trinkets and extracts small sums from the other members of the family until the household affairs become extremely involved. Even the good old maiden cousin, Miss Tibbie Tocher, becomes suspect and is diagnosed for kleptomania.

This part is agreeably played by Mrs. Graham Moffat, who quite shines in the little company, though one or two of the smaller rôles are creditably played. But for the most part "Don't Tell" both as play and performance, would have had difficulty in getting into town had it come from no further away than Syracuse, N. Y., or Columbus, Ohio.

"PITTER PATTER" IS HEARD.

Wm. Kent Amusing in a Musical Comedy Made from Collier Farce.

The process of turning all the available old forces into musical comedies was continued last night at the Longacre, where "Caught in the Rain," which served William Collier as a vehicle a dozen or so years ago, reappeared, tricked out with tunes, girls and frocks under the title of "Pitter Patter." Strangely enough, considering the fact it had a Collier farce to go on, the new piece is weakest in humor. Much of the Collier matter seems to have disappeared in the process of conversion and in its place there have sprung up the jokes of Broadway.

It was an earnest and amusing young comedian named William Kent—young, but by no means a newcomer to these parts—who did the most last night to make the proceedings interesting. A hard-working if not completely decorative chorus took second rank in the hearts of the audience. But as a whole "Pitter Patter" can hardly be said to be more than fair-to-middling entertainment. It is as good as the run of musical comedy—nor better nor worse.

Will M. Hough has made a rather free-handed adaptation of the Collier farce, and William B. Friedlander, well known as a writer for vaudeville, has written the music and lyrics. Mr. Friedlander's tunes are melodious if conventional, and his lyrics are above the average—despite an occasional rhyming of "liable" and "unreliable," or something akin thereto.

A realistic rainstorm is provided for the finale of Act 1., when the bashful hero meets the far from bashful leading woman. Thereafter, as in the Collier farce, the hero descends into the depths of a copper mine, although in this case the young woman follows him there. Once more he thwarts the scheming villain, and a final act finds all hands in Havana, singing a pretty wedding chorus in an attractive setting. There is a touch of novelty at the final curtain—which came at an atrociously late hour last night, incidentally—when the lovers, arm in arm, disappear in the distance without the accompaniment of music.

Much of the tale is rather naive in these days, and not all of last night's laughter was sympathetic. Nor did the casting of several of the minor rôles heighten the illusion. In the comedy rôle, however, young Kent was highly amusing—and nearly always legitimately. The best singing of the evening was done by Jane Richardson. Helen Bolton was vivacious and attractive; Mildred Keats danced with spirit and the other members of the cast filled in the picture.

PIER WORKERS VOTE TO RENEW CONTRACT

Deep-sea longshoremen affiliated with the International Longshoremen's Association have voted to renew their contract, which expires tomorrow, with the shipping interests operating in North Atlantic ports. More than 60,000 longshore workers are affected by the vote. The union demands for a 25 per cent. wage increase are relinquished, preventing a threatened tieup of shipping in this port and in Boston, Baltimore and Hampton Roads.

T. V. O'Connor, President of the International Longshoremen's Association, said yesterday that, although the referendum vote on the question of renewing the contract with the steamship company had not been completely tabulated, 90 per cent. of the votes were in favor of such a course.

The wage demands of the longshoremen were $1 an hour instead of 80 cents, with time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays. The contract under which the men are now working, and which they have voted to renew, is based upon an award by the National Adjustment Commission in Novemebr last, by which the men received an advance of 21½ per cent. on a basic scale of 80 cents an hour for regular work and $1.20 for overtime. The agreement expires at midnight tomorrow.

The shipping interests, through their Standing Committee, of which Oakley Wood of the Barber Steamship Line is Chairman, agreed to the minor details of the new contract submitted by the unions, but held that their wage demands were excessive and that the arrangement which the men asked with regard to the number of men in gangs was economically unsound and would cause a waste in labor and a consequent loss in operations. The unions received several concessions from the ship owners with regard to working conditions.

Home Rulers) has passed a resolution recording its conviction that the reprisals "constitute an almost insuperable barrier to the success of the committee's efforts in the cause of peace!"

In the meantime reports from Ireland tell of numerous threats of further reprisals, circulated verbally or by posters. Warnings are alleged to have been given in several towns in West Clare that they would be burned unless Captain Lendrums, resident Magistrate of Kilrush, who has been missing since last Wednesday and who is believed to have been kidnapped, is not returned within forty-eight hours.

The town of St. Neyr suffered from a raid at an early hour on Monday. Shots were fired into houses, some of the inhabitants were roughly handled, but none was seriously hurt.

There is reason to believe that Dublin Castle is now seriously investigating the reprisals. Special officers have been sent to Trim and have reported on occurrences there. The Chief Secretary for Ireland is now conferring on the whole subject with the military and civil authorities in Dublin and elsewhere with a view to stopping the raids, and the Cabinet in London is also taking the matter in hand.

It is explained that there are two forces called "Black and Tan." One is composed of English recruits and the other largely consists of demobilized army officers who were engaged to arrange for the defense of threatened barracks in disturbed districts in Ireland. Both wear mixed uniforms of khaki and black, owing to a shortage in full uniforms. Dispatches do not disclose which element has been responsible for raids.

Reprisals in Ireland are neither connived at nor supported by the Government, it was declared today by Sir Hamar Greenwood, the Chief Secretary for Ireland. Sir Hamar made this statement in reply to the storm of criticism in the British press:

"There is no truth in the allegation that the Government connives at or supports reprisals," declared Sir Hamar in his statement, made public in a special communication to The Pall Mall Gazette. "The Government condemns reprisals, has issued orders condemning them, and has taken steps to prevent them.

"Nearly 100 policemen have been brutally murdered, five recently in Clare in one day by expanding bullets, resulting in horrible mutilation. In spite of the intolerable provocation the police forces maintain their discipline, are increasing in number and efficiency, and command the support of every law-abiding citizen. The number of alleged reprisals is few and the damage done exaggerated."

SAY NURSING SAVES CORK MEN.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Today is the 49th day of the hunger strike of eleven Sinn Fein prisoners in Cork jail, and the 47th of Lord Mayor MacSwiney.

The fact that out of the eleven men in Cork Prison not one has succumbed is considered much more remarkable than the Lord Mayor's case, for, whereas the Brixton prisoner is a physically strong man, at the apogee of maturity, one at least of the Cork prisoners is a youth of 18.

An interesting description of a visit to Cork Prison is telegraphed to The London Evening News by a correspondent, who writes:

"Water beds, air cushions, hot water bottles and special mattresses have been supplied for the men, and now that the nights have been cooler, an oil stove has been put in each room, to be used if required.

"The Government has given orders that the doctors shall spare no expense to meet the wishes of the men or their relatives, but they themselves ask for nothing except to be left alone.

"While I was standing in the hall of the hospital quarters I saw flitting from door to door of the cells in the galleries above the nuns, to whose unremitting care, unwearied, patience and incomparable nursing skill the doctors say the prolongation of the lives of the patients is due. As far as I can ascertain no nourishment of any kind has been received in any way by the hunger strikers.

"I am not allowed to see the men. This was by wish of the prisoners themselves and their relatives. No stranger is brought to see them, and not even the doctors have visited them since the men objected to their attention. The authorities have been careful not to cause them the slightest mental disturbance by doing anything against their expressed wishes.

"I was, however, permitted to see the hospital quarters in the prison where the men lie, and found that aside from actual medical attention everything possible was being done in the way of care for the sufferers. Each man had a separate cell, which is kept at a regular temperature. The windows have a southern exposure and the doors are kept open.

All they have received is boiled water and an occasional dose of medicine. The spirit of the men is shown by the fact that Hennessy, a lad of 18, refused on Sunday to take the medicine from a sister until he was assured that the others had had the same dose.

"To what cause may be attributed the continuance of life in these world's record cases of fasting the doctors cannot say.

They can only theorize, but they point out that so wonderful and skillful has been the nursing by the four nuns that not one of the patients, after all this time, has abed sore. Dr. Pearson told me that the cases seemed to prove that the human system, under certain conditions, could draw upon its reserved store of energy sufficiently to sustain life for an indefinite period when food is unobtainable."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — The tropical storm over the Gulf of Mexico was central early Tuesday afternoon near latitude 26 degrees, longitude 89 degrees, and it was forecast to move north-northeastward. The steamship Peekskill, in latitude 26 degrees 32 and longitude 87 degrees 31, at noon Tuesday reported by radio as follows: "Barometer 29.62, wind east 38 miles, with heavy rain squalls and heavy seas."

Tuesday afternoon hurricane warnings were ordered for the Gulf Coast from Burwood, La., to Cedar Keys, Fla., and southeast storm warnings were displayed on the southwest Florida coast. Forecasts were given at the same time to warn all interests.

Another feature of prominence on the weather chart of Tuesday night was a cool wave over the Northern States from the Great Lakes westward to the Rocky Mountains. An area of low pressure moving eastward along the northern border has been the occasion for the display of storm warnings on the Great Lakes. There have been showers within the last twenty-four hours in Florida, Northern Texas, the region of the Great Lakes and the Middle Atlantic and the New England States. Fair weather prevailed in other parts of the country.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday....8 per cent. for the best names.
Monday....8 per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Effect of Rent Laws.

A great deal is expected of the newly enacted rent laws by local retailers in adding stimulus to the demand for merchandise. While the possibility of increased rentals was something that practically every consumer had to face, more than the usual economies had to be practiced. Now that the rent burden is lifted and at the same time merchandise prices brought down, it is thought that the retail demand ought to show improvement. Dealers, however, have not grown so optimistic as to make any changes in their buying schedules, which call for purchases only as goods are needed.

Business in Tropical Worsteds.

Tropical worsteds made for the Summer clothing trade are about the most active fabrics in the present market for piece goods. The business, considered from the standpoint of individual orders, is not large but the aggregate of sample pieces sold is said to be satisfactory. Prices were revised a short time ago, reductions of about 25 per cent. being made. The general price is now between $2.25 and $3.50 a yard for 8½ and 9 ounce all worsted goods. Reduced prices did not stimulate buying to any large extent, it is said, but it decided some purchasers to take samples which they will include in their lines.

Further Shirt Reductions.

The fact that impressed some retailers about the reductions made in the line of Earl & Wilson was that the largest mark-downs were taken on high-priced goods. This is an indication, according to the dealers, that the manufacturers recognize the period of exorbitant shirt prices is about over. The trade is waiting expectantly for other price announcements to follow that of the concern referred to above. The action of one large house has usually been to see what competitors do and then cut under the market. It therefore would not prove surprising to see some further good-sized reductions made.

Gray Goods Prices Weaker.

Additional weakness in gray goods prices was seen here yesterday, when only a small volume of business was put through. Excepting for a limited quantity of 38½-inch 64-60s, which sold for November-December shipment at 13½ cents, the day's trading was done entirely on spot goods. Buyers paid 15 cents for spot 39-inch 68-72s, 14 cents for spot 38½-inch 64-60s and 11½ cents for spot 38½-inch 60-48s. Fine yarn cloths and specialties were featureless, and the sheetings were nearly so. About all of interest which was reported in that end of the trade were further sales of 5-yard sheetings at 12 cents and 5.50s at 11 cents.

Taxes Bring Bigger Reductions.

The present excess profits tax system is receiving some of the credit for inaugurating larger reductions in merchandise prices than might otherwise have occurred. It is explained that the customary way of operating was to make prices that would pay the usual profits and at the same time provide enough margin to cover the tax. While there was any hope of being able to make this system work, manufacturers and others were opposed to anything but slight price revisions. When it was seen that such a way would only be slightly profitable, a different policy was devised. The tendency is now said to be in the direction of balancing the former gains with losses that will wipe out all obligation to pay taxes, or heavy ones, to the Government.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Something new in the way of trade entertainments is promised by the United Waist League of America for the "gain festival" it will hold for its members on the Century Roof on Monday, Oct. 11. It is expected that more than 1,000 men and women representing the waist industry of the country will attend.

A second meeting of the china buyers of the Dry Goods Union, 432 Fourth Av., will be held today. A meeting by the same buyers was held at that address yesterday.

TRADE WITH CANADA GROWS

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—Canada's adverse trade balance with the United States is now $19,000,000, the Department of Trade and Commerce announced today in making public figures for August.

Imports from the United States, which totaled $85,864,000, showed an increase of $22,000,000 over August, 1919, while exports to the United States totaled $47,620,000, an increase of $3,000,000 over the same period last year.

Pulp paper exports during August amounted to approximately $14,000,000.

Advance Buying Dropping Off.

The recent publicity given to reductions of prices by leading manufacturers of various kinds of merchandise has had a marked effect on the buying of Spring dry goods here by the wholesale trade. Jobbers' representatives who came to this market with the intention of purchasing at least a fair-sized part of their needs for the coming season have been advised by their concerns to make haste slowly, for the time being, if at all. The reasons are that since the publication of the reports in question there has been a distinct slump in buying by retailers, and that the jobbers, facing a possible tieup of seasonable goods not yet sold, will be running too serious risks to buy now in an active way for Spring.

Uneven Prices Hurt Trade.

One of the most potent factors in holding back buying at the present time, particularly on the part of jobbers, is the diversity of prices in the primary market. Wholesalers have come to this city with a view to buying Spring merchandise, more particularly piece goods, and in shopping around have found such a varied range of prices on fabrics of practically the same quality that they have actually been afraid to buy. Prices quoted on silks, it was said here yesterday, are more irregular than those asked for any of the other textiles, to which is attributed the difficulty in getting Spring business started. With so many different prices quoted them from day to day, the jobbers hold, there is no guarantee that even the lowest figures, which are said to be attractive, will not be reduced further in the near future.

Retail Selling Policies.

Considerable propaganda is being launched to the effect that retailers cannot pass along reduced prices until they have sold their high-priced stocks. According to merchandising authorities, this policy is easier to talk about than to follow. If the stores acted as a unit in refusing to reduce prices until they sold all their stocks bought at higher prices, the policy might save losses to the stores. As it is, only a few stores are required, it is explained, to start the ball rolling, and competition will make it necessary for the others to fall in line. This is thought to be the more plausible theory than the one which argues the stores must be guaranteed against losses through price declines. And it is further stated that the stores which put the knife into prices first will be those more apt to avoid the heavier losses.

Time to Buy Branded Goods.

With the situation in the business world as it is today, in the opinion of a leading Southern jobber, canny buyers will tie to branded goods more than they ever have before. The reason for this, he says, is that the public, particularly women, will look on these goods with more confidence than on unbranded merchandise while the readjustment of prices is going on, and that as a result the branded stuff will be easier to sell over the counter. One reason for this, he asserts, is the pyschological effect of the widespread advertising of such goods on prospective buyers. The advertising has standardized them in the eyes of the public, and there will be considerably less tendency to look for a marked lowering of prices on them than on goods which the public know nothing about. The same argument, he asserts, holds in the case of buying by retailers.

Want Set Prices Back.

One of the outstanding features of the present situation in the knit goods field is the apparent determination of the jobbers to have Spring hosiery and underwear so priced by the mills that it will be possible for the retailers to dispose of the merchandise at the old set prices of 25 and 50 cents. In the case of balbriggan underwear, for instance, it is said that the goods must be so priced that they can be jobbed to the retailer at not more than $4.50 a dozen. To do this and give the jobber his rightful profit, it is asserted, the general run of goods cannot be priced by the mils at more than $3.75 a dozen. The same is true of women's mercerized hose, some lines of which are already quoted for Spring on bases which will permit retailing at 50 cents a pair. It is also true of men's cotton half hose, although in this case the retail price will be 25 cents a pair.

WOMEN FAINT AT OLIVE THOMAS RITE

HUNDREDS OF ACTORS THERE

Great Mass of Floral Tributes from Theatrical Friends and Associates.

Amid scenes of great sorrow and such a crush of mourners that women fainted and men's hats were smashed, funeral services were held yesterday for Olive Thomas, wife of Jack Pickford, who died in Paris of mercury poisoning. The world of the stage and the screen in which she had been a much loved figure sent hundreds of representatives, many of them bearers of well-known names. There were besides hundreds and hundreds of floral tributes, ranging all the way from a bunch of roses, orchids and lilies sent by Mary Pickford to a wreath from the stage hands of the Selznick studios and including an enormous floral "60" from the 60 Club and a wreath inscribed, "Our Pal Ollie."

The simple Episcopal funeral service was carried out at St. Thomas's, the Rev. Dr. Ernest Stires officiating with the assistance of Bishop Darlington of Pittsburgh, a male choir singing appropriate hymns. There was such a crush at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street by 10 o'clock in the morning, the hour set for the services and the interior of the church already was so jammed that it was found necessary to increase the number of policemen on duty from ten to twenty-five, while mounted men were called to force lanes through the throng that the mourners might enter.

A few minutes later, as the last notes of the choir's "I Need Thee Every Hour" died away and the organ pealed a funeral march, the casket, blanketed in purple orchids, topped by a spray of yellow and brown orchids from Jack Pickford was borne up the aisle. The pallbearers were Owen Moore, Gene Buck, Thomas Meighan, Harrison Fisher, Myron Selznick, Harry Carrington, William Kelton and Allen Crossland.

Among those who followed were Jack Pickford and his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford; Mrs. Van Kirk, mother of the dead screen star, and her husband, Harry Van Kirk; Lottie Pickford, Fred Almey, Jimmie and Willie Duffy, brothers of the late star; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Selznick and their sons, Myron and David; Katherine McCarthy, Mabel Normand, Marguerite Cassidy, Helen Maxwell, Dudley Field Malone, Mrs. Thomas Meighan, George Derr and William Semon.

As the coffin was being carried from the church at the conclusion of the services, hundreds of those in the side aisles and the balcony came crowding for a closer view. Irving Berlin, William Collier, Jr., John O'Meara and other ushers tried to check them, but in vain. Before policemen could be called from the street the crowd had surged in among the pallbearers and was swirling about the coffin. Several close-pressed women fainted, men who struggled either to free themselves or to check the inrush of others had their hats broken and for a moment there was great excitement. Then big policemen came shouldering their way into the press, order was restored, the women who had succumbed were carried into side aisles and the coffin was borne out.

Eight automobiles took the family and immediate friends to Woodlawn cemetery, where the body was placed temporarily in a vault.

the buildings would represent a lower value than the investment. As things stand now, when real estate men begin to take advantage of the slump in building material prices, which they will do at once, they will find ready money to back them."

Realty men and others pointed out that not sufficient emphasis had been placed on the law remitting local taxes for ten years as a factor to stimulate building. It was pointed out that the Legislature merely gave the city power to take such action and that the final judgment would have to rest with the Board of Estimate, but it was said that municipal officials as a body would stand behind the measure and bring it into effect at once.

5,000 Rent Cases Handled.

Congestion of the courts by rent cases has been transferred to the offices of the Mayor's Committee. The committee handled the cases of 5,000 tenants in the last two days. Most of the tenants who apply to the committee inquire concerning possible evictions and are informed that they may not be evicted on holdover proceedings unless the landlord proves he desires the apartment for himself or that he has sold the apartment on the co-operative plan or that the tenant is objectionable or that the house is to be demolished.

Justices in the Municipal Courts with monotonous regularity dismissed all holdover cases that came before them unless landlords alleged and were ready to prove that they wanted the apartments under one of the three provisions in the new laws. However, in rare instances a Justice signed an eviction order, but this was done because of unfamiliarity with the law. No certificated copies of the law have as yet been received in this city.

According to Chairman Hilly the rent laws have prevented "the greatest crisis that ever confronted the City of New York, due to the rent situation.

"These laws were intended for the purpose of strengthening the enactments of the Legislature of April last," he said. "The situation is merely a question of fair and reasonable rent. If a tenant does not pay rent which he has been paying the landlord may obtain a dispossess process and bring the tenant before the court. This can only be done where it is the same as was paid in the preceding month and where it has not been increased over the rental of one year before.

Burden Put Upon Landlord.

"If the tenant deems the rent excessive he can now plead in the dispossess proceedings the fact that the rent was excessive and the court proceeds to a determination of these facts. Where tenants have signed leases in which they deem the rent reserved, as unreasonable, they can contest the reasonableness of the rent by refusing to pay it, and it does not matter whether the increases had been 25 per cent. or under, the entire burden of proving the reasonablesness of the rent being placed upon the landlord. Where the landlord has refused to grant a lease and the tenant has been asked to move, he is not compelled to comply with the landlord's request. The remedy that the landlord has is to sue the tenant for the reasonable value for the use and occupation of the premises.

"These laws have helped beyond all measure. They relieve the tension and protect the health of the community, and as they go into operation their beneficent effects will become more and more appreciated."

Lawyers said the laws would involve landlords and tenants in much litigation. Alexander McNulty, counsel to the Real Estate Board, said his organization would make a determined fight to have the laws declared unconstitutional.

Ormsby McHarg Resists Ouster.

An interesting case involving one of the new laws came before Junius Pendleton Wilson, chief counsel to the Mayor's Committee, yesterday. Ormsby McHarg, a Republican politician, complained to the committee that Nassoit & Lanning, owners and agents of 380 Riverside Drive, where Mr. McHarg lives, have asked him to vacate at the expiration of his lease.

Mr. McHarg appeared at the committee's rooms at the time set for the hearing, but the case was delayed owing to the press of other business. When it was called he was not present. Thereupon the representative of the real estate concern asked Mr. Wilson to "kill" the case, as they would take it up at once to the Supreme Court. He said Mr. McHarg's apartment had been sold under the co-operative plan to H. S. Hull, Secretary of the Standard Textile Products Company of 320 Broadway, and that Mr. Hull wanted to move into the place.

Mr. Wilson told the realty representative that in view of the new laws Mr. McHarg could not be ousted. He asserted that to get the benefit of the dispossess proceedings under the co-operative plan clause all the apartments in the house would have to be sold on the co-operative plan. This, it was admitted, was not done.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—J. A. Greenburg, who owns a number of apartment buildings, today announced a 10 per cent. reduction in all rents, effective Oct. 1, and stated that a similar reduction would be made next May.

"We are following in the footsteps of the manufacturers in the country who have inaugurated a decline in prices," Mr. Greenburg said.

We Never Shut Down

Live stock keeps coming to market and we have to keep buying it and putting it through our plants whether conditions are good or poor.

Swift & Company has no control over the quantity of live stock shipped to market. Live-stock producers ship their animals to the big stock-yards markets, where they are sold through commission men who represent the shippers.

The result is that the live-stock supply fluctuates from week to week. We have to buy the animals, however many or few there are; and they have to be handled without delay.

We cannot hold dressed beef, lamb, mutton, veal, fresh pork, or any other fresh perishable meats, but have to sell them at the prevailing market prices within a few days. If we try to sell at half a cent under the prevailing prices, retailers would naturally buy from us as long as our supply lasted, and that supply would be used up very quickly. On the other hand, if we try to sell for half a cent higher than the market prices, the retailers, who shop around, would buy from our competitors and we would have our fresh meat left on our hands. We have to sell our products every day at prevailing market prices whatever those prices may be.

Half a cent up or down in the wholesale price means the difference between profit and loss to us.

DENIES CHARGES AGAINST TREASURY

FEW LIBERTY BONDS STOLEN

SOME ERRORS EXPLAINED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Secretary of the Treasury Houston today emphatically denied allegations made by John W. McCarter, former Assistant Register of the Treasury, to the effect that a large number of Liberty bonds belonging to the United States Government had been stolen, that the Government had been lax in cancelation of surrendered bonds, and that there had been other alleged irregularities in the Federal Treasury.

Secretary Houston today wrote to Mr. McCarter, now a resident of Ipswich, S. Dak., two letters, which were given out at the Treasury Department tonight, in which the allegations and charges made by the former Assistant Register are dealt with in detail.

One of Secretary Houston's letters was in reply to a letter written by McCarter to Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who was Mr. Houston's predecessor as Secretary of the Treasury. The other letter was in reply to a communication addressed to him direct and in substance it answers both communications.

In addition to making detailed reply to the charges made against the Treasury Department Secretary Houston reminds McCarter that very serious charges were brought against him in 1919 and his removal by President Wilson was approved, but that he was retained in office only by special action of Secretary Glass out of consideration for McCarter's family and after promises of good behavior for the future.

In connection with the making public of the letters written by Secretary Houston it was stated in the Treasury today that stationery of the "McCarter Corporation" of Ipswich, S. D., upon which McCarter had written to persons in the department, also bore the inscription: "We are supporting Warren G. Harding."

Houston Goes Into Details.

The letter written by Secretary Houston in answer to the communication sent to himself is dated Sept. 28, and reads:

"Sir—I received your letter of Sept. 3, 1920, making inquiry regarding the outstanding public debt of the United States with particular reference to the cancellation and destruction of retired securities received by the Register of the Treasury during your incumbency of office as Assistant Register. I notice that you promptly took the liberty of publishing your letter in the Ipswich, S. D., Tribune, and that you have since circulated it widely throughout the country, notwithstanding the fact that the insinuations in your letter, if they have any basis in fact, are primarily a reflection upon your own conduct as Assistant Register of the Treasury.

"In this connection I should like to remind you that serious charges were brought against you in 1919 and your removal was approved by the President, and that you were retained in office only by special action of Secretary Glass, out of consideration for your family and after you had given promises of good behavior for the future.

"The Treasury does not, of course recognize any right on the part of the so-called 'McCarter Corporation' or on your part as its President, to institute any inquiry into the administration of the Treasury, particularly in view of the fact that the inquiries which you make relate directly to the work under your charge as Assistant Register of the Treasury from before the beginning of the war until July 31, 1920 (when your resignation was accepted) and if any irregularity such as you suggest did exist, you would presumably have taken steps to correct them and report them to the Secretary of the Treasury during your term of office.

"The facts as to the matters which trouble you are, however, entirely clear, and I am glad to have this opportunity to correct the misapprehensions upon which your comments are obviously based. With this in view, I have caused careful inquiry to be made touching the allegations which you make, and, in order that the record may be clear, answer them categorically and at length, as follows:

Grave Assertion Denied.

"1. It is not true that billions of dollars' worth of payable-to-bearer surrendered certificates of indebtedness, bonds and coupons, known as unused; interchanges, exchanges and replacements, uncanceled and with no mark of 'paid or surrendered' on same, but in the original state of issue, ready for circulation, have 'passed through the hands of numerous unbonded officials and clerks' to final file.

"The Treasury Department's standing instructions require that all paid or surrendered bearer securities shall be canceled by the paying agency—e. g., the Federal Reserve Bank, the Treasurer of the United States or, in some cases, the Division of Loans and Currency, though it is unquestionably true that during the war period and subsequently, owing to the enormous volume of retired securities handled, some retired securities have reached the Register's office uncanceled.

"It is the duty of the Register's office, however, pursuant to long-standing instruction from the Secretary of the Treasury, to make careful examination of all retired securities which it receives and among other things to detect uncanceled securities and cancel them before filing. After examination and filing the canceled retired securities are required to be kept under proper surveillance in the Register's office, and are later destroyed under the supervision of the Destruction Committee of the department.

"If, as you allege, any securities were delivered during your incumbency of office to the vaults and files division of the Register's office for final file uncanceled, pending delivery to the Destruction Committee, the responsibility therefor rests primarily upon you, and you should have reported the facts to the Secretary of the Treasury for appropriate action.

"2. Investigation discloses that the certificates of indebtedness, numbering 474 pieces and aggregating $1,376,000, cited by you as being uncanceled when filed, were canceled in the Register's Office before filing. Cancellation had been purposely omitted by the Federal Reserve Bank, which returned these unused certificates in order that they might be used to supply other Federal Reserve banks, if necessary. The anticipated necessity did not arise, however, and the certificates were duly canceled before being placed in the vaults and files division.

"It also appears that the three lots of Liberty bonds which you named, Lots 2232, 1927 and 1942, were canceled before filing and reverified in each case after cancellation. The fact that cancellation had been omitted by the Federal Reserve banks was properly discovered by the Register's Office in these particular cases, which was one of the objects of the examination.

"Your statement that paid coupons are occasionally found canceled when examined by the coupon audit section in the Register's Office, is not news to the department. The object of the examination by the coupon audit section is to determine, among other things, if uncanceled coupons are present, and to see that all uncanceled coupons are canceled effectively before filing. Out of more than 100,000,000 coupons paid annually and sent in by Federal Reserve banks and other paying agencies, it is natural that a few should be found uncanceled, notwithstanding the strict instructions requiring cancellation before shipment to the department, and one of the reasons for maintaining the Register's Office is to insure a final check upon the cancellation of paid coupons.

As to Stolen Bonds.

"With reference to your statement as to the recovery of $30,000 bonds (not $31,000, as stated by you) stolen from the department in October, 1919, on thereabouts, the record shows that the colored taxicab driver whom you mention had every opportunity to locate and identify the 'white man' who, it was alleged, left the bonds in his vehicle, but failed to do so. The bonds in question were missing from a package of securities, delivered to the Register's Office on August 25, 1919, but not examined as to character and amount until about five weeks thereafter.

"During this interval the package was stored in the control of a division in the Register's Office, which was under your immediate supervision as Assistant Register of the Treasury. If these bonds were abstracted prior to delivery to your custody, that fact should have been established by an immediate count thereof upon receipt, and not, the presence of the uncanceled bonds, in the centre of this package,' should have been discovered and cancellation effected by your office. Your statement is noted 'that the bonds on both top and bottom of this package were canceled and this $31,000 in bonds were left in centre of package uncanceled and were from there taken.

"This statement appears to be made on the basis of special information in your hands, and it is the first time that this circumstance has been brought to the attention of the department, though if substantiated it might have an important bearing on the investigation of the case. Your letter in this respect, therefore, means simply that you have withheld from the department material facts within your knowledge during your term of office. There is no record in the department of a shortage of $34,000 bonds, which you state were stolen Oct. 25, 1919, and if you have any specific information as to such a theft I presume you will transmit it to the Treasury.

"5. It is true that the Secret Service Division assisted the local police in locating the thief who stole $3,000 in Government bonds, which were the personal property of an employe in the Register's office. These bonds were in a desk in the office, and the thief, another employe, was apprehended. Following his confession, the thief was dismissed from the service, after which the case was turned wholly over to the Police Department. It is obvious that the participation of the Secret Service in this case was not primarily to assist the employe who was robbed, but to detect the guilty person in the department, who otherwise might have stolen securities in the custody of the department belonging to the Government.

Duplicate Numbered Bonds.

"6. There is no evidence that 'millions of dollars' worth of duplicate numbered Liberty Loan bonds and coupons were issued and put in circulation,' as alleged by you. Nor is there any basis whatever for the statement that 'the Government lost the face value of each of the duplicate numbered bonds and coupons.' If you had taken the pains during your term as Assistant Register to acquaint yourself with the facts as to the numbering of bonds, you would know that such duplication in serial numbers as have occasionally appeared result simply from aberrations in the numbering machinery used by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and do not in any respect represent duplications or overissues of the public debt.

"Most of the duplications in serial numbers have been caught before issue, as the result of checks in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Division of Loans and Currency and the Office of the Register of the Treasury, but even the bonds which have been passed with duplicate numbers have been issued only after full payment therefore has been received by the Treasury, as required by law, in respect to both bonds issued with duplicate numbers. The face amount of bonds actually issued is correct and in agreement with the cash paid in by subscribers, notwithstanding the occasional errors in numbering.

"The total number of bonds with duplicate serial numbers which have been issued and returned to the Department up to this time is less than fifty pieces, with an aggregate face value of less than $10,000. The number of duplicate numbered interest coupons is slightly larger. Notwithstanding your statement to the contrary, a record is and has been maintained of all duplicate numbered bonds or coupons received in the Register's Office.

"7. With reference to bond Number 7,979,985 of the second Liberty Loan, denomination of $50, which you state reached the department through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, though the Treasury records showed the last number issued to be 7,869,000, it appears that this was an error in numbering and not an over-issue, as you would imply. You state that the employe who reported this high number on Feb. 2 was asked to resign on Feb. 5, 1920. You are aware, probably, that this employe was under charges of misconduct prejudicial to the good of the service for five or six days before this bond was reported, and that resignation was permitted in lieu of the recommendation for dismissal which had been decided upon.

"Ordinarily your letter would have received the brief attention and the short reply which by reason of its scurrilous character it deserved. Coming, however, from a man whose official position of trust and responsibility during the past few years should have acquainted him fully with the facts and with the stupendous tasks performed by the Treasury Department, it has been deemed proper to answer at length your artfully phrased questions, in order that their absurdity may be clearly apparent.

"A critical examination of your letter and a careful consideration of its inquiries impel me to the conclusion that the department's principal error, if any, in the administration of the Register's office was in heeding your earnest appeal and carrying you on the rolls after the charges of unfitness for office brought against you in 1919 had been substantiated and your removal from office officially approved."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Fourteen million dollars gross profit was made last year by Swift & Co., packers, before deduction of the excess profit tax and payment of interest, according to L. D. N. Weld, head of the commercial research department of the packing firm, who testified at the hearing today before Federal Judge Alschuler on the petition of workers in the stock yards for increases in wages.

Mr. Weld said that $10,000,000 of this sum was expended in paying dividends to the 36,000 stockholders in the company. The remainder was applied to the surplus fund.

The witness declared that the packing industries are the first to feel a decline in business conditions and that the situation in the business at the present time is critical. The margin of profit lately has been small, with a loss of about 70 cents a head in beef.

ETAMPES, France, Sept. 28.—America was out of luck in the Bennett Cup race, which was won today by the Frenchman, Sadi Lecointe, with another Frenchman, Captain de Romanet, second. Lecointe was the only competitor actually to complete the three circuits of the 100-kilometer course without mishap, de Romanet being forced to descend through engine trouble just before the end of the second lap. Neither American pilot completed one full circuit, greatly to the disappointment of the big crowd of Americans, who nearly outnumbered the spectators of all other nationalities combined.

At 7 A. M., the hour set for the opening flight, the weather was misty, with very poor visibility. It was evident that there would be little flying before midday. At about 10 the sun began to show through the clouds, and by 1:30, when the first competitor, the Frenchman Kirsch, took the air, it was a beautiful sunny day, with light, fleecy clouds here and there and a mild northeast wind to give the flyers a good start on their outward journey.

Kirsch was followed after a few minutes by his fellow countryman, de Romanet, and at 2:09 the American, Rinehart, crossed the line at a height of about 50 meters in a Dayton-Wright, which excited much interest among the experts present when it was seen that the landing carriage had been withdrawn into the body of the machine, which resembled a huge flying mackerel, with two fin-like wings, its metal fabric glittering like silver in the brilliant sunlight.

Half an hour later Major Schroeder made a similar plunge in an army Verville-Packard biplane amid the cheers of the American spectators, who were beginning to look at their watches anxiously for the return of Rinehart. Schroeder seemed to cross the line at greater speed than any previous plane, despite the greater size of his machine.

Schroeder's Engine Smokes at Start.

"She's smoking too much," said the French ace, Captain Thenault, who commanded the American Lafayette Squadron during its service with the French Army, as Schroeder swung up to gain altitude for this starting dive. "That means too much oil. I fear he'll have engine trouble before it's finished. Anyway, races at this speed are a terrible strain on the engine. The vibration is so great that it is very easy to shake something loose."

He was a truer prophet than he knew. Hardly were the words out of his mouth when the news came that Rinehart had broken control and had been forced to descend before completing the circuit. There were tears in the pilot's eyes as he stepped from his machine, but one of the French experts present said:

"Anway, even if the Dayton-Wright is beaten, they have shown us something new. This landing arrangement is a genuine advance in high-speed planes, and after examining it I am convinced that it is perfectly to be trusted. Just the same, a pilot must be a real ace to land at that speed with such a limited field of vision. Personally, I wish he had won."

In quick succession came the reports that Kirsch and de Romanet were down, although the latter afterward took advantage of the rule allowing him to finish the course after including the time lost in his stopping and overhauling of his machine.

Lecointe's Amazing Turns.

Meanwhile Lecointe was swinging around the course with clockwork regularity. Unlike his two fellow-countrymen, who made a wide curve at the turning pylon, Lecointe flung his machine over sideways and then seemed to pull it around abruptly, as one pulls a horse on his haunches. No doubt if he made more than fifty meters away in the whole turn at racing speed and an altitude of less than a hundred feet. The least sideslip at that height meant certain death, but by stop-watch reckoning he gained fifteen seconds at each of the five daring turns.

At 2:54 American hopes were dashed by the return and landing of Schroeder. Sure enough, his engine had become overheated.

"It's bad luck," he muttered. "Just before I found I must land the speedometer was jammed up on the 200 miles an hour limit, and I guess she was doing more."

At 3:14 Lecointe completed the full course, amid loud French cheers. He crossed the finish line like a comet at about thirty feet from the ground, then swooped up, turned and gently planed down.

His only possible rival was the Englishman Raynham, in a Martynside, who had postponed his departure until 4.30 to get the advantage of cooler air. At 4:36 Raynham finally started, but English hopes were quickly dashed by the news that he had been forced to descend before completing the first lap, leaving the French the holders of the cup.

Time Program of the Race.

The time program of the race was as follows:

At 1:36 P. M. the Frenchman Kirsch, in a Nieuport-Hispano biplane, first crossed the line.

At 1:45 the Frenchman de Romanet, in a Spad-Hispano, crossed.

At 2:08:52 the Frenchman, Sadi Lecointe, in a Nieuport-Hispano biplane, was the third to start.

He was followed at 2:11 by the American Rinehart in a Dayton-Wright monoplane, and at 2:37 by the American Major Schroeder in a Verville-Packard biplane.

Kirsch did the first 100-kilometers lap in 21 minutes and 29 seconds, one second more than the record for the distance.

De Romancef completed the lap in 22 minutes and 52 seconds.

Just after completing the second lap Kirsch landed, and de Romanet also fell out after the second lap, which he had completed in a total of 46 minutes and 7 seconds.

Le Cointe's first lap was completed in 21 minutes and 36 3-5 seconds.

A quarter of an hour after his start Rinehart came down. In the race at that time there were left only Lecointe and Schroeder. The American made the mistake of passing the post on the wrong side and came to the ground at 2:55. Lecointe was then the only pilot in the air, the Englishman, Raynham, having delayed his start. Lecointe's time for the 300-kilometer course was 1 hour, 6 minutes and 28 seconds.

A comparison of the average speed records attained in the contests since 1909 discloses the remarkable advance made in that direction. In 1909 Curtiss averaged a speed of less than fifty miles per hour; Grahame-White, in 1910, averaged less than sixty-three miles per hour; in 1911, Weymann averaged seventy-eight miles an hour; Vedrines, in 1912, averaged 105.5 miles per hour, and in 1913 Prévost topped all previous winners with a speed of 125 miles an hour.

Repudiates Collins Charge.

The Contest Committee of the Aero Club of America, in a statement issued yesterday, repudiated as "unauthorized and deplorable" charges that unfair attempts were made to eliminate the American aircraft in the Bennett Cup race at Etampes.

Heiress Secretly Weds a Mechanic; Miss Frances Phelps's War Romance

As a sequel to a wartime Red Cross romance members of the Phelps family, old and well-to-do settlers of Bergen County, New Jersey, will gather in council at the Phelps homestead, The Grange, in Teaneck, this morning, to determine the concerted and official bearing toward Mrs. Arthur A. Korth, heiress and Wellesley College graduate, who was Miss Frances Phelps until she was secretly married last Thursday to Korth, a Yonkers automobile mechanic, who saw service in France with the Tank Corps.

To the twenty-five-year-old bride and her husband of the same age, who met when she was a Lieutenant and he a mechanic in the Red Cross Motor Corps after he had returned from France, and who are believed to be somewhere in California on their honeymoon, the outcome of the family deliberations may have a vital bearing. One of the questions to be determined is whether there are any obstacles to be put in the way of the young woman coming into possession of about $333,333.33 now due her under the will of her grandmother, who was Mrs. Anna Shepherd Phelps, wife of the late William Walter Phelps, once American Ambassador to Germany.

The girl's mother, now Mrs. Theodore Peters, has admitted, according to members of her family, that the shock she received when she learned that her daughter had been married by the Rev. Francis Brown of Yonkers to Korth, who gave his address as 43 Ludlow Street, that city, and his occupation as "tractor mechanic," was distinctly one of displeasure. And among those who will attend the conference this morning, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Peters, are Captain John Phelps, the girl's uncle, and Thomas R. Whyte, executors under the grandmother's will. Captain Phelps, who admitted in Teaneck yesterday that the conference would be held, and that the family would formulate some policy for dealing with the situation would not hazard any prediction as to what could be done.

Mr. Peters, stepfather of the girl, said in Manhattan last night that he didn't believe they would go so far as to attempt to tie up the bride's inheritance, adding that he thought if she just would return to her family he had no doubt she would be welcomed with open arms.

The girl's grandmother left an estate of approximately $1,000,000, the residue of which, after payment of some $75,000 in bequests, was to be divided between Mrs. Peters and Mrs. Peters's two children, Frances Phelps and Phelps Phelps, who saw service in the British Royal Flying Corps, the division to be made when Frances Phelps reached the age of 25. She celebrated her twenty-fifth birthday last Summer. Mrs. Peters, while her father was Ambassador in Berlin, met and married Marion von Rottenburg, a German noble. Upon his death she resumed her maiden name, and her children assumed it too. The family lived in Berlin till the outbreak of the war, when they returned to this country.

FRENCH LABOR PARTY WARY OF LENINISM

SCHISM SEEMS PROBABLE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Whether the French Labor Party will join the Third International will be decided this week at Orleans, where the Labor Congress opens today. Some weeks ago, immediately after the return of the labor envoys, Cachin and Frossard, from Moscow, it appeared that there was some chance that the party would range itself with the Communists. A great change of feeling was caused, however, by publication of the nine conditions on which the Moscow leaders would admit the French. Two in particular stuck in the throats of the French workers—that they should call themselves the Communist Party and promise absolute obedience to Moscow.

Besides, the tone of the conditions made it so clear that Moscow expected its adherents to engage in genuine and violent revolutionary movements, opposed to gradual evolution toward the establishment of a labor government, that the more moderate section of the French party became alarmed.

It is now practically certain that the proposal for adhesion to the Moscow program will be rejected by a large majority. This will have the effect of producing the schism in the Labor Party for which Lenin has been striving and will no doubt result in the formation of a vigorous, if outlaw, Communist minority through which he hopes ultimately to leaven the whole lump of labor.

There has been a good deal of discussion in labor circles here as to why the French received only nine conditions, whereas the German Labor Party received twenty-one. The facts of the case are as follows:

On July 4 the two French delegates in Moscow received eighteen conditions for adhesion laid down by the Moscow Congress. After conversation with Cachin and Frossard these conditions were aggravated by the addition of two others, one referring to Jean Longuet's excommunication and the other the arbitrary assignment by the adhering party of two-thirds of the seats on their executive committees to Communists of long standing.

After much protest and discussion Cachin and Frossard finally received, on the eve of their departure at the end of July, a list of nine conditions, restating the original eighteen in somewhat milder form. Subsequently on Aug. 6 the Moscow Internationale held its third congress and then drew up a list of twenty-one conditions binding on all countries, which were published in the German Freiheit. These terms were considerably more rigorous than the nine given the French, but it would appear that they supersede the latter, and that if the French Labor Party wishes to adhere to the Moscow program it must swallow the revised version.

DEMAND TURKISH PENSIONS.

7,000 Soldiers Want Back Pay, but War Office Has No Funds.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27 (Associated Press).—Five hundred Turkish reserve officers went to the War Office late last week, demanding that two months' back pensions be paid 7,000 men whom they represented. They declared that they would resort to violence if their demands were not met within two days.

Hussein Husni Pasha, Minister of War, offered something on account within a week, saying he would resign if he failed to carry out his promise. His ability to do so, however, is doubted, as the Government is declared to have no money for any purpose.

Polish-Czech Negotiations Off.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 28.—A special dispatch from Warsaw says that financial and commercial negotiations at Crasow between Poland and Czechoslovakia have been suddenly broken off. The Polish delegates have returned home, it having proved impossible to reach an agreement over the price of petroleum and crude oils. The matter has been referred to the Ambassador's conference.

POLES SWEEP ON AFTER BEATEN REDS

GERMAN ARMS FOR WRANGEL

To Get 45,000 Rifles and 8,000,000 Cartridges Captured from Russians During World War.

WARSAW, Sept. 28 (Associated Press).—Polish cavalry operating in the rear of retreating Bolshivist forces in the region of Grodno have reached a point north of Lida, says an official statement issued here early today. During yesterday's fighting the Poles captured 1,300 prisoners, including a Bolshevist Commissar, and also took eight cannon.

Lithuanian artillery has shelled Polish positions in the Suwalki sector, the statement declares.

North of the Pripet the battle is continuing in favor of the Poles. The Russians are retreating along the entire front, but are offering stubborn resistance as they fall back. The Poles in their advance are approaching the Shohara River. Further to the north the Poles have crossed the Niemen.

South of the Pripet, adds the statement, the situation is unchanged.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—Forty-five thousand rifles and 8,000,000 cartridges which were captured by the Germans from the Russians during the World War are being shipped to General Baron Wrangel, head of the anti-Bolshevist government in South Russia.

SEBASTOPOL, Sept. 24.—The recent evacuation of Kharkov by the Russian Soviet political and military chiefs is believed to have been caused by the cutting of the railway by the troops of General Makhno, who is co-operating with General Baron Wrangle.

General Makhno's men menaced the city and cut off the Soviet armies in Pavlograd and elsewhere. The fact that General Wrangel since June has incorporated 60,000 Soviet soldiers in his army also was an important factor.

The peasants of Nikopol and Kherson are reported to have revolted behind the Fourteenth Soviet Army. Although General Wrangel's army is fighting a numerically superior enemy, he is losing only a few of his men in prisoners.

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 28.—The Ukrainian Mission here reported today that the Ukrainian Army is advancing continually against the Russian Soviet forces and is being supported by the peasants, who are mobilizing.

The Ukrainian troops, according to the Mission, in eight days took 8,000 prisoners and captured twenty-two guns, many machine guns, some automobiles and 500 railroad cars.

RIGA CONFERENCE SECRET.

Reds Produce Complete Preliminary Peace Terms.

RIGA, Sept. 28 (Associated Press).—Adolph Joffe, head of the Soviet peace delegation, in conference here with the Poles, today placed the complete preliminary peace terms of the Bolsheviki before a secret session of the chief commission of the conference.

The terms fixed the armistice boundaries definitely well east of the Curzon line as the Soviet Government repeatedly had promised to do. The boundary is virtually the same as that offered several times by M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, and seemingly confirms the Soviet Government's statement that boundaries would not be a stumbling block to peace.

According to an agreement reached Tuesday the conference hereafter is to be shrouded with the same secrecy as that which hovered over the Versailles Conference. The Bolsheviki are apologetic about the secret sessions. They say they dislike them, but that in dealing with old-fashioned diplomats they must conform to old-fashioned methods.

MEET LITHUANIANS TODAY.

Polish Delegates Go to Suwalki for Another Peace Parley.

WARSAW, Sept. 27.—The Lithuanian Government was notified Sunday night by Foreign Minister Sapieha that Polish delegates would be at Suwalki Wednesday night to await a conference with Lithuanian representatives there in an effort to reach a peaceful settlement of the boundary dispute between the two nations.

PRESIDENT SENDS PILGRIMS GREETINGS

The delegates of Great Britain, the Netherlands and Canada to the tercentenary celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims and the meeting of the first legislative assembly were guests last night at the Hotel Astor at a dinner given by the Sulgrave Institution and allied institutions, including eighty different societies and other organizations. General John J. Pershing, Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Speaker of the Senate of the Dominion of Canada, and Dr. W. H. De Beaufort, Charge d'Affaires of the Lecreedan, Vice Admiral Hilary P. Jones and John A. Stewart, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Sulgrave Institution, were the speakers.

Mr. Stewart read to the guests the greeting of President Wilson, conveyed in a telegram which said:

"Thank you for your letter of the 16th. I certainly hope that all your plans will be matured. I shall follow the progress of the celebration with the greatest interest and regret only that the condition of my health prevents my taking a personal part on as notable an occasion. I should be happy, if it were possible, to attempt to put into words the unique significance of the things we are commemorating.

The following telegram was received from Governor Cox at Omaha, Neb.:

"I have had keenest interest in the Tercentenary of the First American Legislative Assembly and Pilgrims Landing. It has been my pleasure to co-operate in fullest degree in the State of Ohio in the formation of committees and other necessary work. I regret exceedingly that I cannot be with you but bespeak a most successful, helpful and happy gathering. With all good wishes."

General Pershing, in a brief and informal speech, welcomed the delegates in the name of the army. "The army is not represented here," he said. "If I may speak for them I would like to extend to you in the name of the army of the United States, which has represented the hearts of the people in those trying times, their greetings."

General Pershing's remark that "the army is not represented" was taken up by George W. Burleigh, who presided. Mr. Burleigh reminded the General that his name appeared on the list of the Board of Governors of the Sulgrave Institution. When General Pershing was asked to explain the significance of his remark he said: "Nothing at all. Forget it." When asked if he referred to the fact that the navy was officially represented by a group of officers of Battleship Squadron Three of the Atlantic Fleet, and that the army was not represented by such a delegation, he said: "That is foolishness."

Lord Rathcreedan spoke on relations between the United States and Great Britain. "They say we are two separate peoples," he said. "But no nations in the world are so closely allied from every point of view as we are. And against us in this are two sentimental peoples, that we are not practical. Sentiment creates public opinion, with the aid of that great body, the press. Sentiment can make and unmake Governments. Sentiment wins in the long run."

Admiral Jones extended greetings for the navy. "I have heard many people say, 'You of the navy; it is your navy.' I resent that attitude. It is not our navy; it is your navy. We are your agents over the seven seas."

The Astor ballroom was decorated with the flags of nations represented and of the societies which participated in the celebration. Tableaux and a musical program, arranged by the Community Service, were given.

The guests included Gloster Armstrong, British Consul General; Colonel V. Dibrementz, Italian Military Attaché; Colonel du Boscle, Belgian Military Attaché; Rear Admiral E. W. Eberle, Gas-Colonel William Weigel, Major Gen. H. K. Bethell, British Military Attaché; Sir Arthur E. Shipley, Vice Chancellor of Cambridge University; Lady Rathcreedan, Samuel Gompers, Rear Admiral J. H. Glennon, Major Gen. Kazutsugu Inouye, Japanese Military Attaché; Rear Admiral E. W. Eberle; Gaston Libert, French Consul General; D. J. Steyn-Parva, Consul General for the Netherlands; George W. Wickersham, Alton B. Parker and Coningsby Dawson.

PILGRIMS ATTEND DINNER.

The delegates to the Mayflower Compact-Legislative Assembly celebration were the guests of the Sons of the American Revolution at a luncheon yesterday at the Army and Navy Club. Brig. Gen. Oliver C. Bridgman welcomed the delegates and introduced Colonel Louis A. Ames as toastmaster.

Colonel H. T. Edmonds, D. S. C., M. C. of the British delegation, said that the strongest bond between America and Great Britain today was the bond between the American and British soldiers who fought in the great war. "It is these people," he said, "who will see to it that the English-speaking people continue to maintain cordial relations."

Dissolution of Governments and their racial units as a reciprocal foreign policy among English-speaking nations is suggested by Rear Admiral William S. Sims in a message to the Sulgrave Institution on the occasion of the tercentenary celebration.

"As a matter of Christian policy," said Admiral Sims, "it is manifest that the foreign policy of the United States should be governed by a recognition of the similar habits of thought and mind that actuate all the English-speaking people of the world, and all the foreign policies of this Government should be conducted with that conception of unity firmly in mind. It is a solid basis for similar thought and action not possessed by any other group of nations in the world. It marks the English-speaking people as a group apart. Their comprehension of world problems is apt to be fundamentally the same, their reactions to world crises are certain to be the same.

"The present forces that are at work in the British Empire are a confirmation of this theory of Anglo-Saxon unity, and not a refutation of it, as might appear from a superficial judgment. The mere fact that all the dominions of the empire are seeking for a more individual expression of their national life proves that the Anglo-Saxon moves in paths that may almost be predetermined. The desire of Australia, of Canada, of Ireland for a greater measure of national individualism is nothing but the putting in motion of forces which caused the English-speaking people of the United States to break from the control of an unjust King, a movement with which the great bulk of English Liberals had hearty sympathy.

"English newspapers are predicting a new union, a Commonwealth of Free Nations. With such a result in view, and by all the signs of the times and never-ending forces that are at work in English-speaking peoples more than in any other race in the world, such a result will ultimately be attained—is not more than ever necessary that the foreign policy of the United States should be predicated upon a recognition of this essential racial sympathy? With such a tacit understanding of unity of purpose existing among the English-speaking peoples of the world what might they not accomplish for the advancement of civilization in these days when civilization is struggling in the throes of a new birth?"

Federal Troops to Leave West Virginia Coal Fields

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 28.—Federal troops on guard duty in the strike zones of the Mingo coal fields will be withdrawn as soon as Sheriff Blankenship makes appointments of 1,600 Deputy Sheriffs, which meet with the approval of Judge James Damron of the Mingo County Circuit Court, it was announced in a statement today by Governor Cornwell.

MEXICO TO SUPPRESS BOLSHEVISM THERE

REDS' ADVICE HAS NO EFFECT

People, Though Pinched by Poverty, Show No Signs of Social Revolt—I. W. W. Men Active.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—President De la Huerta informs THE TIMES correspondent that he will permit no more labor demonstrations such as that of Sunday, which developed into a Communist display, with Bolshevist orators haranguing the crowds about the National Palace in an effort to incite a Red revolt.

The President said he had warned labor leaders that the Government would stand for no more nonsense. The Government had thorough sympathy for the laborer, but would only help to better conditions for the workingmen through proper laws. If the laws did not give results the workingmen had the right to appeal to representatives in Congress and the Senate to enact new laws, but under no condition would the Government submit to changes that were not sanctioned by law. The President added that he did not care to make a complete comprehensive statement until he had read all reports on the subject, when he would issue a statement through the press.

He said that he had taken the oath of office to obey and enforce the Constitution, which he was determined to carry out.

It is understood that the Prosecuting Attorney General has started an investigation and Congress will be asked to deal with Congressmen implicated in the Red demonstration.

Obregon Against Bolshevism.

President-elect Obregon, when seen yesterday, was very indignant over the attempts of certain radical leaders to dominate the organizations. When he had taken the oath of office, he said, he would not permit the preaching of doctrines which were against the form of government now existing in Mexico, as the republic had an organic form of government which he would not allow to be upset by violent methods.

When Obregon's attention was called to the fact that one spellbinder of the Obregon campaign was one of those making Bolshevist speeches, the General said that when he was nominated he had the support of many parties, with many different ideas, but he had made no compromises with any party and he would enter on his term as President with a free hand.

He regarded the attempt of Congressmen Leon Cirilio and others to dominate the Labor Party as an effort to recover their lost prestige in Congress, where they are now in the minority and have no weight.

"You may be assured," said Obregon, "that all measures favoring the workingmen or others must be taken through legal means. A President of Mexico represents 14,000,000 people, and he cannot listen to only a few hundred here or there, but must consider the necessities of the greater number."

Fiery Speeches Fall Flatly.

The fiery counsels shouted by the Bolsheviki from the balcony of the National Palace on Sunday fell quite flatly among the crowds who listened to them, so far as the lack of any practical result since can demonstrate.

The authorities are greatly encouraged by this fact, and believe that the Mexican people cannot be stampeded into overt acts, though the pinch of the high cost of living, unemployment and poverty is felt here even more intensely than in many other countries.

Sunday's demonstration is said to have been organized chiefly by Congressman Felipe Carillo, Socialist member from Yucatan. A legitimate parade of moderate workmen's organizations had been arranged to accompany a delegation to the palace to present a protest to President de la Huerta against the high cost of living.

Unfortunately the President was sick at Chapultepec Castle, but the commission and paraders were admitted to the upper chambers of the palace, where they were received by the superintendent, who explained the absence of the President. Local politicians seized the opportunity to make addresses to the milling crowd from the palace balconies. Ex-Congressman Villareal, stepping onto the balcony, opened a bundle displaying red and black flags, and Labor Leader Morones harangued the crowd. After a few minutes Carrillo tried to start the crowd to attack private property.

Members of the parade who were not in sympathy with the radical leaders started the bells of the Cathedral ringing, effectively drowning the voices of the self-appointed leaders.

The crowd dissolved quietly and no disorder was reported.

Demonstrations are reported from several other cities of the republic protesting against the high cost of living and demanding action by Congress on the Workmen's bill now before it.

American I. W. W. Officials There.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A delegation of I. W. W. representatives is in Mexico City conferring with labor leaders preliminary to a national campaign of propaganda, according to advices received here today from the Mexican capital.

George H. Davis, who heads the delegation, is quoted as stating that he and his colleagues had come to Mexico for the sole purpose "of counteracting the propaganda work of the American Federation of Labor representatives during their recent stay in the capital."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Short Covering Lends Firm Tone to Stocks — Liberty Bonds Fall and Recover.

The selling movement which carried stocks down so swiftly on Monday spent much of its force before business had proceeded far into the first hour yesterday, and thereafter there was an irregular recovery of industrial shares. The upturn was not altogether convincing of a change in the speculative situation, and it was noted that as prices moved upward from a half point to more than 2 points, the latter in automobile, steel, oil and rubber shares, the demand slowed down. The character of business was fully in keeping with preceding events. The announcement of several new automobile price reductions, ordered by companies whose products have enjoyed a particularly wide demand, indicated that the movement instituted by Mr. Ford was sweeping onward and carried the implication that readjustments of quotations might be expected to continue in other fields. Sentiment aroused by thoughts along these lines was hardly conducive to new purchases of manufacturing company shares, but the urge to convert quickly accumulated profits was evident in speculative purchases and buying for this purpose was enough to strengthen the price tone. Railroad stocks were again firm, several which had been quiet for several weeks coming forward with sizable gains. There were indications of profit-taking in railroad bonds, although sales were put through without creating more than a wavering of the price front.

Strangely enough, the Liberty bond market appeared to feel the effect of speculative transactions of a sort usually limited mainly to stocks. The net advances of 2/32 to about 3 points which several of these issues had scored in the preceding ten days were unusual and afforded opportunities for profits infrequently seen in so staid a department of the bond market. There was heavy selling of two of the 4¼s, carrying the quotation down more than a point, but later offerings were well absorbed and moderate recoveries occurred in all the issues. The improvement of Government bonds has been reflective, as in other funded securities, of the easing of money rates and the fall of security prices. While there was evidence a-plenty yesterday that the downward swing of commodities was continuing, it was not so clear that money for use in financing purchases of stocks and bonds would maintain the current relaxed position, and this may have stimulated some selling of bonds. Belated borrowers of call funds on the Stock Exchange again paid as high as 9 per cent., although the prevailing rate during business hours was 7 per cent. The Federal Reserve Bank drew in for Treasury account some $12,830,000 of deposits, representing payments on the last two certificate offerings, and $9,500,000 more is to be taken up by the Treasury on Thursday. These shifts are not substantial, but were reported to have necessitated a moderate calling of loans yesterday and on Monday.

It is significant to trace the spread of automobile price reductions, especially because of comment attributed to the automobile trade after the Ford reduction that present costs would not permit general reductions. The movement can hardly be called epidemic, but there is no doubt that a cause common to all has promoted the cuts thus far announced. This is the fact that sales at old prices are satisfactory in comparatively few directions, and, besides, motor-car makers realize that they are not alone feeling the brunt of the public determination to hold off for lower quotations. The tendency to seek a new basis for doing business has reached out into many industries in the last few weeks, so that the producers of various finished goods feel safe in counting upon lower prices for raw materials in their operations of a few months hence or in the nearer future.

Cotton recovered with many erratic fluctuations, directed by short covering and reports of impaired crop condition during September. Wheat and corn declined for a time, but rallied on late buying to about their final prices of Monday.

SMELTERS EARNINGS SHOW MARKED RISE

Company Reports $4,030,840 Available for Dividends in First Six Months of 1920.

EQUAL TO $3.14 A SHARE

Chief Source of Increase Was from Operation of Mining Properties.

Evidence of the improvement which has taken place in the copper industry since last year is shown in the report for the first six months of 1920 as issued by the American Smelting and Refining Company. The net income available for dividends in this period was $4,030,840, an increase of $1,881,681 over the report for the corresponding period of 1919. The earnings were equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $3.14 a share on the common stock as compared with earnings of 4 cents a share in the first half of 1919.

The income account shows that the chief source of increased revenue was in the operation of mining properties, the net income from this source being $2,070,778, as compared with $428,080 in the first half of the preceding year. The total net earnings of operating properties were $8,749,185, an increase of $3,035,406. After the payment of all dividends for the first six months of 1920, there was a surplus of $595,463 to transfer to profit and loss account, bringing total surplus up to $26,670,035. The first half of 1919 saw a deficit of $1,195,463 after the payment of all dividends.

The balance sheet shows a decrease in the value of stocks of metal. Current assets are $28,904,227, as compared with current liabilities of $22,041,273. Working assets are placed at $7,701,808.

Simon Guggenheim, President of the company, in his remarks to stockholders says, in part:

"The increased earnings have been due to the better conditions of the Mexican operation, the increased volume of business in the United States, and to increased treatment charges on many ores, more nearly comparable with our present costs. There are still some old, long-time contracts which are unsatisfactory.

"Mexico is now experiencing the general increases in wages and other costs which have been so prevalent in the United States during the last few years. The company is, however, glad to note that the prospects of a stable Government in that country look brighter at the present time than at any period since the revolution of 1912. It is believed that at last a steady operation of Mexican properties is reasonably certain. Incidentally it may be remarked that the military activities attending the end of the Carranza Government commandeered most of the railroad equipment owned by the company, with consequent disruption of service and loss of earnings for a considerable period. The equipment has now been restored and railroad conditions are as good as can be expected."

WILSON PARDONS BANKER.

H. W. Showalter, Declared Innocent by Friends, Is Freed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Howard W. Showalter, a West Virginia banker, who was sentenced to five years in Federal prison in 1917 for misapplication of national bank funds, was pardoned today by President Wilson.

Showalter was the First Vice President and executive head of the First National Bank of Fairmont.

Washington friends who interceded in his behalf said that the President promptly granted a pardon when he came into possession of the facts, which showed, they said, that Showalter was "absolutely innocent." He had been out on bond since his conviction pending a decision as to appeal, and was to have been surrendered to the court to begin serving his sentence within a few days.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Erratic Money.

Call money again experienced a jump after the close of business yesterday, when a small amount was loaned at considerably above the rate which had been prevailing during Exchange hours. Nobody seems to know why this should be so, in view of the stories which are going around about the "plethora of call money," but such is the fact. One money broker tried to explain it yesterday as "one of those things." "You know how it is," he said; "some one needed a small amount late." But the mystery of the high late-afternoon rate continues to be as much a mystery as ever.

Government Withdrawals.

There were Government withdrawals yesterday and there will be more tomorrow, but this hardly could account for any alteration in call money rates as the withdrawals are very small in comparison with the amount the Government now has on deposit with local banks. Yesterday's withdrawals amounted to $12,800,000 and tomorrow's will be approximately $5,500,000, whereas in Saturday's Clearing House statement of actual condition the Government deposits were placed at $173,114,000, and the week before they were $180,390,000, as against an average of something like $30,000,000 for the ten preceding weeks. With $175,000,000 Government money in hand, the withdrawal of only slightly more than $20,000,000, spread over three days should not make much impression on the local situation.

Foreign Bonds.

The Norwegian $20,000,000 twenty-year 8 per cent. loan was as great a success, apparently, as any of the recent foreign offerings, for the subscription books, which opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, had to be closed at 1 o'clock, and unofficially it was said the offering was then several times oversubscribed. Beginning with the Swiss loan, and extending through the French and now the Norwegian, foreign financing has been tremendously successful, and in this respect some bankers are calling attention to the fact that these three offerings, probably the most eagerly taken of any foreign bonds ever offered in this country, were all of the old-fashioned kind, with attractive rate, long maturity and a drawing feature. None of them contained an exchange speculation, as did those which were coming out a year ago, and all were of the kind which the American investor can understand readily and easily. Incidentally, the recent successes have convinced bankers that the American public will purchase foreign issues if they are of the kind he knows and likes, and will take them in very great volume.

The Boston Banks.

Attention is being called by those close to the Reserve system that of all the banks in Boston which have experienced great or lesser embarrassment in the last few weeks, none were members of the Federal Reserve. Yesterday the Boston Reserve Bank sent out a telegram saying that the Boston banking situation was perfectly sound and that no member banks had experienced any difficulty.

Irregular Price Close.

The weight of selling which has pressed against stock market quotations ever since the most recent price-cutting movement in manufactured products got under way eased off a bit yesterday. It was natural under the conditions of the moment that the selling should be overdone and those who essayed the short side were the buyers of stocks yesterday. This support served to check the decline in the industrial group and before the close there were not a few issues which were able to parade under moderate gains. The selling pressure was lifted after a morning of renewed attack and the recovery came in the final trading hours. There had been predictions that a turn must come soon, but yesterday's display hardly lived up to what some traders expected. The rally was of dull rather than buoyant tone, there being no hurry to cover or take on long stock.

The Low-Priced Rails.

There was further evidence yesterday of the strong position which is being occupied by the low-priced rails. A wide speculation in these issues has been going on, but apparently the stocks have not been finding their way into so-called weak hands. The rail stocks are becoming widely distributed and many shares are being taken out of the Street. The possibility of mergers of some of the weaker roads with stronger systems has undoubtedly been a supporting influence. But more than this, there is a feeling that far better earnings than for a long time are in sight. As compared with their low of last year, some of the cheaper issues have made gains of more than 100 per cent.

Disappearing Values.

A man in a commission house got out a padanda pencil and started figuring the price-cutting situation. He put down $500,000,000 as written off new automobile production within the last few days—via the price cuts—something like $1,000,000,000 lost in the value of the cotton crop by reason of the decline from July 22, and various other items which totaled two or three billion more, and then he contended he had just begun to get into the situation. But he stopped there when he found nobody could tell him where all of this money had gone to. What he would like to know now is: Has all of this money been lost, and, if so, who lost it and who got it.

United States Rubber.

The position of United States Rubber was outlined yesterday by Colonel Samuel P. Colt, Chairman of the Board of the company, who stated that the business which is being done was well balanced between footwear, tires and mechanical goods. Footwear is said to constitute the largest proportion of its business, the production of tires being only about one-third of the total product. United States Rubber is taking advantage of all discounts in the payment of its bills and reports of new financing in contemplation are said to be untrue.

Railroad Financing.

There are indications—somewhat vague and hard to define—that the Interstate Commerce Commission will shortly approve quite a lot of railroad financing, application for approval of which, has been before the commission for some weeks. The so-called "deadlock," which bankers say has obtained ever since the commission became convinced that 7 per cent. was a proper maximum for railroads to pay for fifteen-year equipment money, is expected to be broken within a few days, and if this proves so there is a lot of business likely to come on the market. And the market is in position to take care of it. Dealers, almost without exception, are complaining that they can't get the securities their clients want and insist they could find purchasers for a great deal of new wstuff if the new stuff were only forthcoming.

Cities Service Employes.

The Cities Service Company recently offered its employes the opportunity to subscribe to 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock. Results of this offering show that 11,519 shares of the stock were taken by 2,775 employes, of whom 2,347 had not previously been owners of any securities of the company. At present about 5,000 employes are stockholders. The distribution of Cities Service bankers shares shows steady expansion. When the books closed for the last dividend payment there were 12,810 holders of the bankers shares, as compared with 12,221 holders of the stock in August. Since Jan. 1 the number of holders has increased 7,212.

RAILROAD FREIGHTS IMPROVE RAPIDLY

SEVERAL RECORDS MADE

Full Loading and Sunday Work Aid In Piling Up More Ton Mileage.

Encouraging announcement of country-wide improvement in the railroad freight situation since the transportation lines of the nation came back from Government control into private hands, is embodied in a statement issued yesterday by the Association of Railway Executives. The announcement is in effect a recapitulation of reports of better conditions from many of the principal systems in different regions, published in the current number of American Railroads, issued by the association.

The statement, covering twenty-seven of the principal lines, says:

"1. The roads are moving more freight more miles per day than ever before.

"2. They are reducing the number of cars in bad order.

"3. They are not only getting heavier loading per car, but are securing, through the co-operation of the shippers, quicker loading and unloading.

"These results mean that care can perform in larger measure their legitimate purpose—to move freight, or, stated in another way, the same cars are doing more work.

"The amount of freight handled by the railroads of the United States in August, 1918, was 7 per cent. greater than had ever been handled in that month. But in August, 1920, the railroads moved more than 4,000 carloads in excess of the 1918 record.

July, 1919, Record Beaten.

"In July, the last month on record, the average mileage per freight car increased to 25.7 miles per day, which is greater by 4.4 miles than the record for July, 1919.

"The means by which these results have been attained range all the way from Sunday work in the loading and unloading of cars to careful inspection on some roads of every coal car coming from the scales to ascertain if it has been loaded to utmost capacity.

"The reports to American Railroads speak in strong terms of the co-operation lent by shippers and consignees, as well as a spirit of enterprise and rivalry among railroad employes extending all the way from the highest executive officers to the humblest workers.

"What heavier loading means as a whole can be inferred, for example, from the fact that by increasing its average load per car 1.4 tons the Southern Pacific Company performed a feat which was equivalent to providing 13,000 additional cars.

"In the matter of greater mileage per freight car per day, the increases shown in recent reports range all the way from one to nine miles per car per day above the best movement on record. The significance of this is shown by the fact that an increase of only one mile in the average per day for all cars would be equivalent to enlarging the available car supply by 100,000.

Loading Methods Improved.

"A number of roads, both East and West, show that they are actually handling a heavy increase of traffic with fewer cars. This is accomplished by a quicker loading and unloading, heavier loading and more rapid movements. To 'make one car do the work that two cars did last year' is the way one road sums up the present effort of the carriers.

"The Pennsylvania Railroad reports that it has cut down the number of bad order cars in its lines by nearly two-thirds. Under direction of the Advisory Committee of the Association, all the roads are aiming to reduce bad order cars to 4 per cent. of the total cars available. Accomplishment of this will be aided by the gradual return of cars to owner roads. 'When private ownership was resumed each road had on the average only 22 per cent. of its cars on its own lines.

"President Markham of the Illinois Central and President Byram of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul are among the many executives who speak with especial emphasis in giving the public—particularly shippers—high credit for the most helpful co-operation. Patrons of the roads, these executives say, are giving a remarkable response to the nation-wide effort to increase freight car efficiency."

Eastern Roads Handicapped.

In explanation of the discrepancy in results apparent on the part of different railroads, some of which have come much nearer than others to the standard of thirty car miles a day set by the executives as their immediate goal, a railroad official said yesterday that long-haul Western roads, often moving solid trains for great distances, naturally were able to show better car mileage statistics than some Eastern roads. He cited for example the New York, New Haven & Hartford, with which he is not connected and whose entire system, he said, virtually was a huge switching yard, necessitating frequent handling of the same car over its tangled network of trackage.

In spite of such disadvantages the report of the New York Central, published in the journal referred to, shows betterments on Eastern roads. The report says in part:

"These lines moved during August 27,667 cars of ore, an increase of 15,227 over August, 1919, and by far the biggest movement of any month this year.

"Coal loaded at mines on these lines during August totaled 33,011 cars, an increase of 5,134 over the corresponding period of last year and the heaviest loading of any month of the present year.

"During August the New York Central lines moved from stations and connecting lines 927,329 loaded cars. This is an increase of 53,129 cars over the same month of 1919 and the greatest number of loaded cars moved in any month of this year.

The loaded car record shows that the New York Central lines during the first six months this year, despite the losses due to the April-May strikes, handled 4,693,148 loaded freight cars, as against 4,341,766 in the same period of 1919, an increase of 351,382 carloads, or 10.04 per cent.

Commenting upon the general betterment of conditions under resumed private operation, Robert S. Binkerd, assistant to the Chairman of the association, praising shippers for their co-operation, said:

"Every user of a freight car who loads it to full capacity loads it promptly, unloads it promptly, and sends it straight to destination, is not only helping the railroads but himself and all other business men and the public, too."

SHIPPING BOARD BRIBES UNKNOWN TO BENSON

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—When the attention of Admiral W. S. Benson, Chairman of the Shipping Board, was called to a story published in New York to the effect that a certain President of a steamship company had been detained under suspicion of bribing Shipping Board officials, the Chairman said:

"I know nothing of it. I understand such a story has been published, but we have no information on the subject from any of our representatives. I do not know anything about it."

The story, as reported in Washington, was that Secret Service men had obtained the contents of the steamship official's safe, which was said to contain cancelled checks which he had given to Shipping Board officials.

TRUCKING MEN ORGANIZE.

Seventy-five Form Bureau to Advance Local Transportation Business

About seventy-five men engaged in the trucking business and said to represent some of the largest firms in this city met yesterday in Cavanagh's Restaurant, 258 West Twenty-third Street, and organized the Merchant Truckmen's Bureau. The object of the new organization is to better trucking facilities, improve the trucking situation and to generally advance the interests of the concerns engaged in the transportation of goods in this city. The new organization, according to James J. Riordan, who was elected President, is expected in time to include every firm and individual transporting freight and general merchandise.

Mr. Riordan said the federation would enable the industry to deal with labor troubles and to take joint action in other matters pertaining to the movement of commerce.

WILLYS MOTOR CAR PRICES ARE LOWERED

MATERIALS CUT PREDICTED

Head of Company Says Business Must Return to Conditions Nearer Pre-War Basis.

John N. Willys, head of the Willys-Overland and other automobile corporations, announced an immediate reduction in price yesterday on the Willys-Overland and the Willys-Knight cars. The former is the small four-cylinder car brought out about a year ago. The reductions range from $100 to $200, according to the body types.

For the Overland, the new price for the roadster and touring car is $895, formerly $1,035, a reduction of $140; the new coupé price is $1,425, former price $1,525, and the sedan now is $1,475, former price $1,675, a reduction of $200. For the six-cylinder Willys-Knight cars the new prices are: Roadster and touring, $2,195; coupé, $2,845, and sedan, $2,945, representing a reduction of $105 on all three types. These are factory prices. For New York delivery, including the war tax and freight, an additional charge of $95 should be made for the small Overland cars and $125 to $140 for the Knight car models.

In making the announcement of price reductions from his office, at 52 Vanderbilt Avenue, Mr. Willys, who recently returned from Europe, said:

"We could not possibly have taken this action unless we felt thoroughly justified in anticipating reduced costs of materials, against which conditions our companies have made provision.

"It has been commented that the automobile business has been profiteering. The profit in proportion to the increase in prices has been much less in this industry than prior to the war.

"After two months of personal investigation of conditions abroad, I am firmly of the opinion that this country cannot hope to develop a healthy business and be able to compete with foreign markets unless we re-establish merchandise selling prices more nearly on a par with the conditions existing prior to the war."

HUDSON CARS REDUCED.

Price Cuts Also Announced on Essex Automobiles.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 28.—Reductions ranging from $200 to $450 on various models of the Hudson and Essex motor cars were announced here today by Roy D. Chapin, President of the Hudson Motor Company. Wages in the company's plant will not be affected.

The Studebaker Company of America already had announced a reduction of from $125 to $200 a car.

American Women Delegates Back.

Two American delegates at the meeting of the International Council of Women, held at Christiania, Norway, with a view to improving women's condition in the world, were among the 121 first-cabin passengers who arrived yesterday on the Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord. They were Professor Marian Whitney, head of the Department of German and Comparative Literature at Vassar College, and Mrs. Effie Danforth McAfee of Purchase, N. Y., a writer on Danish literature.

WOMAN HEAD OF OIL CO. INDICTED IN FRAUD CASE

Mrs. K. M. Stanton and Two Men Accused of Using Mails in Stock Swindle.

Katherine M. Stanton, head of the K. M. Stanton Company, Inc., and of the Stanton Oil Company, and Frank A. Dwyer and Albert J. Froehlich, officers of the two concerns, were indicted yesterday together with the companies, by the Federal Grand Jury on a charge of conspiring to use the mails to defraud investors. The indictment is another in the long series of attacks made by the Government upon corporations organized for the alleged purpose of selling oil stock and not at all for the purpose, it is alleged, of developing oil fields.

The indictment was obtained by Ben A. Matthews and Jerome Simmons on information gathered by Post Office Inspector H. B. Mayhew and O. B. Williamson. The Stanton companies were incorporated in 1917. Instead of having the stock of the Stanton Oil Company disposed of in the usual way by turning it over to various brokerage concerns, which bought it at one price and sold it for any price they pleased, all of the stock was marketed by the K. M. Stanton Company, Inc., thus yielding the promoters all of the profits. In all other respects the methods employed were of the usual type.

On June 14, 1917, circulars were sent through the mails to persons in all sections of the United States stating that the wells of the oil company were yielding $297,000 worth of oil annually, that a 3 per cent. monthly dividend was being paid and that the company was earning a surplus of $117,000 a year. It was said that the "settled production" of the company was 400 barrels of oil a day.

Subsequent circulars, advertisements in newspapers and magazines and in market reports increased the yield to 600 barrels a day, and there were glowing descriptions of the new "gushers" and new leases of phenomenal oil lands until statements appeared to the effect that dividends would shortly amount to 67 per cent., that there was a daily yield of oil of 1,164 barrels, and that in thirteen months $233,000 had been paid in dividends. It was also said that the balance sheet of the oil company showed a surplus of $308,357.55 on Dec. 31, 1918.

Later bills of literature issued by the company increased the daily yield to still larger dimensions, told of new discoveries of oil and of new wells which eclipsed the old, and advised everybody to hurry up and gather in the stock before it grew from one dollar a share to six times this amount.

Mr. Simmons said the company had only some small oil properties in West Virginia and Texas which did not at any time produce more than 200 barrels of oil a day. He also said the company had sold about 500,000 shares of its stock at from $1.50 to $2 a share. Mrs. Stanton, it was said, is the widow of a Western mining man who was wealthy and famous. The defendants are expected to plead today.

TO TEST SANITY OF HEIRESS.

Judge Norman S. Dike, in the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, appointed a committee to inquire into the sanity of Miss Helen Herriman of 9,715 Shore Road who, under the will of her sister, Mrs. Marie Belle Hazen, is the principal legatee to an estate of more than $1,000,000. The application for the committee was made by the Bank of America, one of the executors named by Mrs. Hazen, who died at her home, 143 Joralemon Street, on Aug. 25.

If Miss Herriman is found not competent to handle her own affairs, a committee of her person and estate will be appointed. The application for the committee stated that Miss Herriman is 65 years old and has been under the care of two nurses for more than a year.

Mrs. Hazen was the widow of Horace Clark Hazen and was a resident of Columbia Heights for many years.

PALMER REJECTS STOCK YARDS PLAN

MONOPOLY NOT PREVENTED

Government Objects to F. H. Prince & Co. as Purchasers on Account of Armour Relations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Objections to the plan proposed by the Chicago packers for disposing of their stockyard holdings were filed today by the Department of Justice in the District of Columbia Supreme Court. Attorney General Palmer maintains that turning over the stockyards to a holding company formed by F. H. Prince & Co. of Boston would be a violation of the Sherman and other anti-trust laws.

A short time ago the Federal Trade Commission, which had undertaken an investigation on its own responsibility, as authorized by law, reported that the holding company would constitute an even greater monopoly than now exists.

The Attorney General made the following statement:

"The Department of Justice has today upon behalf of the United States filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia objections to the plan filed by the packers for disposing of their interests in stockyards, stockyard market newspapers and stockyard terminal railways.

"There seems to have been some confusion as to the extent of this proposed plan. It has been suggested that the present plan includes the disposition by the packers of their interests in certain unrelated lines which are also covered by the decree entered in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Paragraph 10 of the decree requires the packers to file a plan indicating their proposed method of disposing of their stockyard market companies, stockyard terminal railways and market newspapers. The present plan relates only to these facilities and not to any other.

"On Aug. 18, 1920, the defendants submitted the plans which are now filed in court to the Department of Justice, desiring that if possible the approval of the Department of Justice should be procured to such plans before the same were filed in court. This was only one day before the time expired for the filing of such plan in court, as fixed by an order of the Supreme Court. In order to enable the department to carefully examine and study the plan so presented, before accepting or rejecting it, the court consented to an extension of time for filing the plans to Aug. 31. Before this last extension expired the Department of Justice notified the defendants that it would not approve the plan so presented and stated objections as a ground for its refusal. Under the order of court the packers filed their plan on Aug. 31, and the department was given until today to file whatever objection it may have to such plan. The objections filed are substantially the same as those stated to the defendants prior to their filing their plan in court on Aug. 31.

Monopoly Must be Prevented.

"It is highly desirable that these properties be disposed of as soon as possible and that the packer interests in them be forever abolished, and to accomplish this the Department of Justice is quite willing to do anything within its power so long as the public interest is not prejudiced. But a plan to receive the department's approval must safeguard competition, insure the divorcement of packer control and must with certainty set forth proper provisions to prevent the creation of a stockyard monopoly."

In a formal petition filed in the District Supreme Court, the Department of Justice, through John F. Laskey, United States Attorney for the District of Columbia, says:

"1. A proposed holding company to take over controlling interests in substantially all of the stock yards in the United States, together with the terminal railways which are in turn owned or controlled by said stock yards, would constitute in itself a combination in violation of the Sherman law and other anti-trust laws amendatory thereof or supplemental or additional thereto.

"If the court should sanction the formation of such a company with the purposes and organized in the fashion outlined in the so-called plan it would in effect be sanctioning a violation of the anti-trust laws.

"2. Aside from the question as to whether or not the management and conduct of stock yards constitute interstate commerce so as to fall within the condemnation of the anti-trust laws, the formation of a holding company as proposed would place in the hands of those controlling such company a means of restraint upon the buying and selling of live stock and dressed meats. It would enable them to so manipulate sales and traffic conditions and the improvements and facilities at the respective markets controlled by such holding company as to advance the prosperity of packing houses located at certain yards and by the same means retard the growth of and cripple packing houses located at other yards.

Finds Details Lacking.

"3. F. H. Prince & Co.'s request for an option and the offer to sell, made pursuant to that request, are obscure and indefinite in the following particulars:

"(a) The offer of F. H. Prince & Co. fails to state the nature of the securities which are to be given to companies. It does not state whether they are to be bonds or stocks, and, if stocks, whether preferred or common, or, if preferred, whether voting or non-voting.

"(b) The request for an option further states that a prior allotment of securities is to be offered to the livestock producers and dealers. It does not define the character, the quantity, nor the mode of disposition of the securities so to be offered.

"(c) The request for an option states that livestock producers and dealers are to be represented in the management of the proposed company. It does not state to what extent these livestock producers and dealers shall be permitted to participate in the management of the proposed company, nor in what fashion they shall be chosen. It does not state the tenure of their office nor the method to be adopted to perpetuate the representation of the livestock industry in the proposed holding company.

"(d) It is sought in the proposed plan to take advantage of the provision contained in Paragraph 10 of the decree, whereby the court may in its discretion permit the individual defendants, or some of them, to retain an interest by way of stock ownership or otherwise in the property to be disposed of. The proposed plan sets forth no device or method whereby the holding company may be safeguarded against the defendants acquiring holdings which in the aggregate may amount to a controlling interest in the company.

Prince & Co. Unsatisfactory.

"4. Until a necessity therefor be clearly shown, the Government is unwilling to permit the defendants to retain an interest amounting to 50 per cent., for the reason that such interest (if it be voting stock or stock which may be converted into voting stock) would enable the present defendants, combined with any slight or insubstantial interest, to exercise control over the proposed holding company.

"5. F. H. Prince & Co. as a proposed purchaser is not satisfactory. Said F. H. Prince & Co. now owns or controls or has a substantial interest in the Chicago stock yards. J. Ogden Armour & Co., defendants herein, likewise owns a substantial interest therein. The control of said yards lies with Prince and Armour. In 1911 said E. H. Prince & Co. effected the formation of the present Chicago Stock Yards Company of Maine, which company, through its control of subsidiaries, owns and controls the Union Stock Yards Company of Chicago. The method adopted in the formation of such company, the employment of devices such as the use of 'bearer warrants' and of dummy officers, directors and stockholders, is calculated to prevent, and has been the means of preventing, the Government from ascertaining the identity of the persons who owned the controlling interest in such Chicago stock yards. The relations of F. H. Prince & Co. and J. Ogden Armour & Co., in connection with the ownership and control of the Chicago stock yards, are such as to make the petitioner herein unwilling to permit said F. H. Prince & Co. to take over the defendants' interests in the stock yards or to have charge of the formation of any company or companies organized for that purpose. The bona fides of the whole plan is questionable in view of the activities of Prince & Co. in the manipulation of the Chicago stock yards.

"6. The so-called plan is not in such form as to insure to the court or the petitioner herein that if approved it would be carried into effect. The so-called plan, in substance, consists of a request by F. H. Prince & Co. for an option on certain terms and conditions of the stock yard interests and of offers by the defendants to sell their interests to F. H. Prince & Co. upon terms and conditions outlined in such offer. No acceptances of these offers are on file, and it may well be that after the court shall have approved of the so-called plan, said F. H. Prince & Co. may never avail themselves of the offers as approved. Furthermore, the options provide that the defendants themselves may withdraw the same at any time, and this even after the court shall have approved the same."

SUSPEND TELEPHONE RATES

All Outside New York City Held Up to Hear Complaints.

ALBANY, Sept. 28.—All telephone rates, outside the City of New York, against which complaints are pending, were suspended by order of the Public Service Commission, Second District, today. This action was taken, it was explained, under the authority of the Telephone Rate bill passed by the Legislature in extraordinary session last week and signed by Governor Smith yesterday.

If at the end of the suspension period, a statement from the commission said, any of the complaints are still undetermined, the commission will consider the propriety of making further extensions.

The new law provides that a suspension shall not go into effect if a telephone corporation shall, within ten days after the suspension notice is served, file with the commission a bond to insure reimbursement to subscribers in the event that the commission, after hearings, determines that the increased rate is not justified.

The commission's action does not affect New York City, as the new law does not apply to the greater city.

The New York Community Trust

Created for the Encouragement and Promotion of Gifts for Charitable Benevolent or Educational Uses

Its Plan and Its Purposes

INDIVIDUALS desiring to give during their lifetime or under their will, any sum, large or small, to be devoted to charitable, benevolent or educational objects, either definitely determined in their own mind or without any well defined object, may place it in trust with a Trust Company or Bank of their own choosing, providing only it is a member of The New York Community Trust.

THE TRUST COMPANY OR BANK accepts the gift as trustee and becomes responsible for its investment and safe keeping. The disbursement of the income is controlled by a Distribution Committee of eleven citizens and residents of the community, selected for their knowledge of the educational, charitable or benevolent needs of the inhabitants of the community, six of the members being chosen one each by the President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, the Mayor of the City of New York, the President of the New York Academy of Medicine, the President of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the President of the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and the senior Circuit Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and five members by the Trustees' Committee. Some of the members of the Distribution Committee pass out of office each year, so that the Committee is always representative of the current opinion of the times.

THE INCOME is distributed by the Trust Companies and Banks according to the directions of this Distribution Committee, either for the purposes designated by the respective donors, or if there be no designation, to such objects as the Committee may find to be most in harmony with the purposes of the Trust and the best interests of the Community.

THE PRINCIPAL ADVANTAGE in making charitable gifts through the Community Trust is that under the authority granted the Distribution Committee, the donors receive the assurance that if, by the lapse of years, the beneficiary charity has become obsolete, impracticable, or useless, the income from the gift will be devoted to some other object or purpose as nearly in line with their desires as possible, and this without unreasonable delay, expense or legal action.

THE NEW YORK COMMUNITY TRUST offers a new plan for the utilization of wealth and for its wise and efficient application to charitable, benevolent or educational purposes. A Booklet describing the Trust may be obtained from any of the Trustees or from the Acting Director.

NEW CAPITAL TO RUN CHALMERS MERGER

PLAN CALLS FOR $15,000,000

Bankers Ready to Provide the Money If Present Shareholders Do Not Respond.

J. R. Harbeck, in outlining the details of the Maxwell-Chalmers reorganization plan, yesterday pointed out that the equities in the company will go to those who supply the $15,000,000 new capital which the plan calls for. Providing this amount of money will give an 80 per cent. control of the company, and he said that it was necessary if the stockholders would preserve their interest that they subscribe the new capital which the bankers stand ready to put forth in the event that the stockholders do not exercise their rights. He emphasized the fact that liquidation of the company would not provide anything for the stockholders, but that by the present method of reorganization the opportunity was afforded of taking over the company on a real working and profitable basis.

The Chalmers unit is in a good position with an increasing proportion of orders. In the case of Maxwell it was said that there was a supply of machines on hand, but that they would be sold within a comparatively short time provided sales were at the present rate, in five to six weeks the supply of automobiles has been reduced from 21,000 to about 17,000. By a cutting down of fixed charges he estimated that the plants under reorganization could run under normal automobile trade conditions so that there would be earnings of between $7,060,000 and $8,000,000.

With the book value of A shares at $100 a share it was stated that the book value of the B shares would figure out between $80 and $90 a share and, with good will excluded, the book value would be between $30 and $40 a share. A tentative balance sheet under the reorganization with the $15,000,000 new capital added showed current assets of $56,682,955, as compared with current liabilities of $10,225,860. Deferred liabilities it was stated were being paid off at the rate of about $3,000,000 monthly.

WHEAT DECLINES FURTHER.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Declines which took place in the wheat market today appeared to be due chiefly to the downward swing of commodity values and to financial difficulties at Boston. The close was unsettled 1-4 to 1 cent net lower with December 223 to 223¾ and March 217. Sellers had the advantage in the wheat pit throughout the day and especially so during the forenoon. New cuts in the price of automobiles gave particular impetus to bearish sentiment and so, too, did word that liberal imports of wheat from Canada were probable. On the decline, however, there was persistent buying on the part of commission houses. The fact likewise that some of the purchase orders were ascribed to seaboard interests helped rally the market to a considerable extent in the late dealings. Besides, country offerings remained light.

LIKE certain professions, there are some kinds of business which create an atmosphere of dignity. Banking is one of them.

The Brooklyn Trust Company does not propose, however, to let dignity overplay its part in the real work of satisfying the banking requirements of clients. It will subordinate dignity to a spirit of intimate cooperation and by close contact will help its depositors work out their various banking problems presented by the changing conditions of the day.

COTTON PRICES RISE AFTER ERRATIC DAY

OCTOBER SCORES FULL 200

Storm Prediction and Private Crop Reports Are Factors—Liverpool Breaks Badly.

There was the wildest sort of trading in the cotton market yesterday, with prices fluctuating more erratically than at any previous time in some months. There was a very brisk upward turn in the first hour, during which some of the near months gained as much as 100 points, but this rise was quickly checked by Southern selling, which not only forced the market down to where it had left off on Monday, but even brought about some net declines of 10 to 25 points. Then there was another very rapid rise in the afternoon, during which October got up close to the 200-point limit. On the day's spread the full 200 points was scored. After this advance there was another reaction, but at the close the market was anywhere from 75 to 140 up on the day.

News was conflicting, speaking of the demoralization of Southern spot markets, and at the same time presenting reports of a wild desire on the part of speculators to cover their shorts. Also, Weather Bureau advices again mentioned the appearance of a tropical storm in the Gulf, and while the one last week never did materialize as a serious factor, the season is such that these storms may be looked for and the trade was apprehensive over the latest reports. This was a bullish influence, and so were the, several private crop condition reports which were put out during the course of the day. These latter came from such sources as the National Ginners' Association and the Southern Products Company, among others, and indicated a material deterioration during the month. The Government report will be out on Saturday and is expected to reflect the same condition.

The Liverpool market, as was to be expected, broke badly, but this was largely ignored here.

GENERAL ELECTRIC EXPANDS

Acquires Large Interest in the Locke Insulator Corporation.

The General Electric Company has acquired a substantial interest in the Locke Insulator Corporation. This arrangement, it is said, will result in full engineering and research co-operation between the two companies with respect to insulator problems and extend further the usefulness of the Locke Insulator Corporation in the electrical field.

The Locke company will now produce the well-known Hewlett high-tension transmission insulator taking advantage of the additional facilities supplied by the completion of its new plant at Baltimore, Md. Such engineering and research co-operation, it is said, is highly desirable, for, prior to this time, insulation improvements and developments have had great difficulty in keeping pace with the rapidly changing electrical art.

Indiana Increases Tax Levy 4 Cents.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 28.—The State Board of Tax Commissioners today increased the State tax levy from 18 cents to 22 cents on every $100 of taxables in Indiana. The increase, it was estimated, will add more than $2,000,000 to the State coffers.

THREATENS TO SEIZE MINES.

Oklahoma Governor Warns of Serious Coal Shortage.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27.—Governor J. B. A. Robertson today telegraphed to the Interstate Commerce Commission that the coal situation in Oklahoma was serious and that if necessary he would "not only take possession of the mines but also take sufficient cars and engines to distribute the necessary fuel."

NEUTRAL TO LABOR, LEGION DECLARES

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28.—The second annual convention of the American Legion in session here today underwent a barrage of resolutions and committee reports and when adjournment was taken this evening, after a nine-hour session, there were several committees to be heard, reports of which will be brought up tomorrow morning.

The stand of the Legion in regard to organized labor was not mentioned in the report of the Committee on Resolutions. However, a minority report was submitted, which recommended that "the American Legion reiterate its well-known position, that it has no participation in controversies between capital and labor. The American Legion is not opposed to organized labor when it conducts itself, as we believe it normally does, in conformity with law and order."

Heated discussions followed and the minority report was finally amended so that the last sentence was eliminated. Still the debate continued, some members taking the position that the American Legion need not make any statement on the subject, as the conduct of the organization had been such that there was no question where it stood. Others contended that people censured the Legion because they did not know the exact stand taken on this matter.

However, a substitute for the minority report was presented by California and accepted by the convention, stating that this convention indorse the statement recently issued by the National Commander Franklin D'Olier, and accepts that statement as the Legion's interpretation of its position in relation to organized labor." This "strict neutrality" is what all factions wanted, the bone of contention being as to whether it should be read into the records.

Politics Resolution Goes Over.

The stand of the Legion regarding politics was not brought up today. The Chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments reported that they had not reached a decision on this question but would bring it in tomorrow. Article 15 of the Legion constitution then was read, which provides that the report of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments must be read twenty-four hours before action is taken. The Chairman proceeded with the business finished by his committee, which included recommendations regarding redistricting of the United States, with a Vice Commander as an intermediate administrative unit in each district; that no National Commanders be eligible for re-election and that Past National Commanders be made life members, without voting power.

When the report of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments regarding political restrictions is brought up before the convention tomorrow, Article XV, probably will be the centre of a stormy attack. If, as Article XV provides, the report of the committee is read and then acted upon by the convention 24 hours later, that will put the convention in session on Thursday, while the convention is supposed to close tomorrow. On the other hand, the matter being brought up at that late hour may be declared illegal or out of order and die a natural death.

The first resolution submitted was a message to President Wilson, expressing "sincere sympathy for him in his present suffering affliction and reiterating to him our unalterable determination to support and uphold unswervingly the principles and Constitution of our country." It was unanimously passed by a rising vote.

Long Cheers for Fayolle.

By a happy coincident, just as the poppy had been recommended and adopted as the memorial flower of the American Legion, General Marie Emile Fayolle and his party entered the convention hall. Five minutes of cheering interrupted the meeting and the National Commander declared the regular order of business temporarily suspended.

Francis E. Drake, Commander, Paris Post No. 1, introduced General Fayolle. The General said in part:

"I am acquainted with the high aims of your association and with the great mission the American Legion has assumed. It intends to keep piously the glorious remembrance of the dead, to help through life all those who came out of the fights for liberty and to keep in all hearts the sacred love for your own country, which is the spring of all civic virtues."

After telling of the closeness of the two countries, America and France, the General said:

"As long as France and America remain united who indeed would dare henceforth to disturb the peace of the world?"

Admiral Sir W. S. Grant of the Royal Navy of Great Britain then addressed the convention. As he retired there came cries of "Wood, Wood," for General Leonard Wood, who was in the party. When the General appeared he was greeted as a "regular member" and not as an "honorary member." Referring to the previous statements of the representatives of the Governments of France and Great Britain regarding the good-will existing between those countries and America, General Wood said:

"As both of our distinguished visitors have said, the peace of the world and the happiness of mankind very largely depend upon keeping up that friendly spirit. Don't let any insidious distinctions creep in among us as to who won the war. We won it all together."

The report of the Committee on Finance and Dues was adopted as read.

Indorses House Bonus Bill.

The report of the Committee on Adjusted Compensation was called for and when read started an uproar. The report recommended that "the American Legion . . . give its unqualified approval of House Bill No. 14,157, which passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 289 to 82 May 29, 1920, and which is now pending before the Senate."

The report also approved the action of the National Executive Committee and the National Beneficial Legislative Committee in formulating and presenting this adjusted compensation legislation to Congress, and directed the National Executive Committee to take such action as it may deem necessary to insure prompt passage of the bill.

A motion for adoption was carried. Delegate Tiddings of Maryland then made a motion that the roll call by States be made in order that Congress might see how overwhelmingly the motion had carried. Benson of Pennsylvania supported the motion, stating that "we should know wherein the opposition to this measure lies." This brought several delegates to their feet, notably Johnson of South Carolina and Abbott of Ohio, who said they "resented very seriously the implication that their State was an enemy within the gates because she is opposed to the American Legion asking for a bonus." Tiddings's motion was lost and the report as originally read and adopted was ordered recorded.

The committee on the time and place of next convention was called and it recommended that Kansas City, Mo., receive the convention on Oct. 31, Nov. 1 and 2, 1921. Garrett of Missouri moved the adoption of the report and it was carried.

The report of the Committee on Military Affairs was expected to cause considerable discussion on the floor, but everything had been ironed out in the committee and the report was adopted with an amendment submitted by Virginia, which asked that adequate legislation be provided to continue the system of family allowances for married enlisted men of the army, navy and marine corps.

The report pledges the aid of the American Legion members in the formation, recruiting and maintenance of the National Guard to that standard of strength required by the adopted military policy of our Government.

Because the application of the 119th Article of War during the World War was "the cause of much bitterness among officers of the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Organized Reserve," the report recommended that this article be repealed.

The report recommended the "adoption by Congress of a system of compulsory universal training, which shall include physical and educational training and Americanization, as well as efficient military training to form a foundation for further extended military training in time of war," but the men receiving this training for military service, "are in no case to be used as soldiers in time of peace." The purpose of this training, as explained by a member of the committee, is not to develop soldiers, but to make true Americans—physically, mentally and patriotically. In this connection the report approved the "educational and vocational education in the army and earnestly recommended that no backward step be permitted."

That section of the report dealing with slackers urged that "the United States Government proceed immediately to bring to justice and publish the names of the slackers who evaded military service."

Other recommendations in the report were: Continuation of training camps for training and education of officers to serve in case of national requirement; creation of a new Cabinet department to deal exclusively with the air service; enactment of a graded retirement law, providing for the retirement of enlisted men of the army after sixteen, twenty and twenty-five years of honorable service.

The report of the committee on the ladies' auxiliary was adopted as read.

The national commander invited representatives of the ladies' relief corps of the G. A. R. and the ladies' auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans to address the convention. Isabelle Alexander of Cleveland, Past President-General of the Spanish War auxiliary, was escorted by twelve ladies carrying silk flags. She presented an enormous bouquet to the legion convention, "just as any woman will give gifts to those she loves."

HUMIDOR IS CAUSE OF A BOMB SCARE

Made of Two Shells, It Is Found in Municipal Ferry Terminal at the Battery.

A reflex of the nervous tension caused by the recent explosion of the bomb in the financial district was evinced yesterday by the excitement following the finding in the Municipal Ferry Terminal at the Battery of a cylindrical-shaped contrivance which later proved to be a humidor fashioned out of two French 75 mm. shells.

A guard of policemen was stationed about the "bomb" until the arrival of John J. Dixon, Chief of the Bureau of Combustibles. On cursory examination he found two 75 mm. shells had been screwed together and a rifle bullet protruded from the top. He carried the contrivance to his bomb-proof shelter on the East River front, and fifteen minutes later telephoned the ferry officials that the "bomb" was merely a humidor, evidently brought to this country from France by a soldier of the A. E. F.

While this excitement prevailed around the Battery, Government and local officials in Jersey City also were experiencing a bomb scare. Early in the day anonymous letters were received by officials of the Post Office there, as well as of the Hudson County Court House and several municipal buildings, threatening to blow up the buildings at noon.

Post Office officials notified the Secret Service, and a guard immediately was thrown about the building. Chief Easterday of the Jersey City police and John P. O'Neil, an official of the Department of Justice, also received letters containing similar threats, and uniformed policemen and agents of the Department of Justice stationed themselves about the Court House and municipal buildings.

It was learned last night that nothing in the form of a clue to the identity of the perpetrators of the Wall Street bomb outrage had been developed during the day in the investigation conducted by Chief Assistant District Attorney Talley before the Grand Jury. Mr. Talley said that Dr. William F. Doyle, head of the Bureau of Fire Prevention of the Fire Department, and Detective Frank Gilfallon of the Old Slip station were the most important witnesses. Other witnesses, he said, were Sergeant Thomas Hynes and Policemen Thomas F. S. Cunningham, John Thelis, Henry Vronn and Charles R. Marson of the Old Slip station.

FILE LEITER COMPLAINTS.

J. H. and A. H. Hoadley Suits for $669,817 Date Back to 1902.

Complaints were filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in suits by Joseph H. Hoadley and his brother, Alfred H. Hoadley, against Joseph Leiter, capitalist, of Chicago and Washington, D. C.

The cases date back to the unsuccessful International Power pool in 1902, at which time it was alleged that Mr. Leiter was a partner of Joseph H. Hoadley.

The Joseph H. Hoadley suit is for $607,504, of which $100,486 is alleged to be due on a four months note given by Mr. Leiter on Oct. 3, 1902, and payable in three months, and $507,128 on an accounting stated between the parties in 1903, representing moneys laid out for Mr. Leiter by Mr. Hoadley in the promotion of corporate enterprises. The suit by Alfred H. Hoadley is for $62,223, alleged to be the balance due on a note made April 29, 1903, for $76,023, and payable on demand. Nothing is disclosed in the papers to show why payment of the claims was not demanded in court for seventeen years.

LINER BRINGS SMALLPOX.

Case Is Discovered Among Immigrants on the Mobile.

The White Star liner Mobile, from Liverpool and Queenstown, with 530 cabin and 630 steerage passengers, after being delayed by fog outside the harbor, was held in Quarantine yesterday because of a case of smallpox in the immigrants' quarters. The steerage passengers were vaccinated by the Public Health officers and sent to Hoffman Island and the liner was permitted to proceed to her pier after being fumigated.

It was decided after she left Quarantine that there was not time to vaccinate the first and second cabin passengers on the way to the pier and the Mobile anchored off the Statue of Liberty for the night. She will go to her pier at 7:30 A. M. today. The smallpox patient was sent to the contagious diseases hospital on Swinburne Island.

290 Park Avenue

Now Under Construction

THIS 17-story, ultra-modern structure —Park to Vanderbilt Ave., 48th to 49th St.—is the only co-operative apartment house in Park-Avenue, South of 59th St., in which some of the choicest suites are still available to purchasers. These may be arranged to suit, provided the changes desired are made immediately.

Immediate Selection is Urged As Subscribers are Limited

More than $3,500,000 has been already subscribed by prominent New Yorkers, and the renting of apartments to tenants will begin soon. The income from the apartments let to tenants will defray all the costs of operation, including taxes. The building is being erected without the aid of any mortgage loan whatsoever. When completed, it will be turned over to the subscribers free and clear of any and all indebtedness.

The "Hourly Service" System of Domestic Employment is a feature of the management, purposed to solve the servant problem. A restaurant, of the very highest order, on the premises, completes the convenience of hotel service.

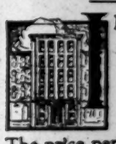
MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS IN YOUR OWN BUILDING

An Obvious Opportunity for Firms Whose Rents Have Been Increased



IN the 42nd Street section there are four and five story buildings that may be obtained on long term leases and remodelled to suit your requirements—present and future.

Net Rent	$13,000
Taxes	2,200
Interest on Investment	1,750
Operating Expenses	2,500
Amortization of alteration cost	1,700
Total Yearly Rent	21,150

Approximately $2.60 a Sq. Ft. for 8,000 Square Feet.

If this is more space than required, a part could be subleased to still further reduce your rent. We invite consultation.

The Travels of a Dr. A. Reed Shoe

I am spending this day with an elderly woman, and she is so happy and contented. She had formerly suffered from sore and tired feet, but today she walked right along without the least bit of concern about them.

At the end of the day she was still happy, and looked down at me with a look of appreciation.

I knew that my cushion sole had relieved her feet from that tired and sore feeling. And that I was giving back to her that cushion that nature had given her in her youth, but had been worn down, after years of strain.

I can give this same relief to other men and women.

STOCK EXCHANGE ANSWERS RYAN SUIT

Stutz Stock Not Free in Market When Dealing Was Suspended, Asserts W. H. Remick.

SAYS CORNER WAS ADMITTED

William H. Remick, as President of the New York Stock Exchange and one of the members of the Governing Committee against whom Allan A. Ryan filed a suit for $1,000,000 damages in connection with the barring of the stock of the Stutz Motor Car Company from the lists of the Exchange and his own subsequent expulsion from the body, yesterday filed an answer to the summons and complaint with the plaintiff's attorneys. Mr. Remick denies the allegation of Mr. Ryan that prior to March 31 of this year, when dealing in Stutz was suspended indefinitely by unanimous vote of the Board of Governors, the market on the Exchange of Stutz was free. He denies that prior to that date the market in Stutz was interfered with by either the Exchange or the Governing Committee.

Mr. Remick says that of the thirty-three members present of the Governing Committee who voted on the resolution suspending the stock, twenty-five were not under contract to deliver Stutz stock or to return stock that had been borrowed either directly or through firms for their own account or for customers. Of the other eight members present at the meeting, according to the answer, one, Robert R. Atterbury, was a member of a firm that was under contract to deliver for a customer stock which the firm had on hand and delivered the following day.

Four of the eight, mentioned also as defendants, Allen L. Lindley, Edward Roesler, Samuel F. Streit and H. F. Whitney, were under similar obligation to deliver Stutz stock, but in each case it was for the account of customers and none of them had any personal interest in the transaction, Mr. Remick sets forth. He says that the remaining three, Henry G. S. Noble, Herbert T. B. Jacquelin and J. F. Carlisle, belonged to firms which though under obligations to deliver or return stock had more than enough stock on hand to meet their demands.

Says Compacts were Not Affected.

"The action of the Governing Committee on March 31, 1920, suspending dealing in Stutz stock, did not affect the obligation of existing contracts for the delivery or return of Stutz stock," says the answer. "No member of the Governing Committee who participated in said action had any personal interest therein, nor was said action the adjudication of a case within the meaning of the constitution of the Exchange."

The following defendants, members of the committee, according to Mr. Remick's answer, were not present at the meeting of March 31: Edgar Boody, Bayard Dominick, Donald G. Geddes, Peter J. Maloney, Fuller Potter, Arthur J. Rosenthal, Edward H. Simmons, Arthur Turnbull, Willis D. Wood and Walter L. Johnson. Mr. Remick adds that at the trial and adjudication the following members were absent: J. F. Carlisle, Bayard Dominick, Edward Roesler, Allen L. Lindley, Henry G. S. Noble, William T. Floyd, W. W. Heaton, Arthur J. Rosenthal, Samuel F. Streit, Arthur Turnbull, Howard F. Whitney, Walter L. Johnson and H. T. B. Jacquelin.

Defending the committee's action, Mr. Remick's answer reviews the Stutz squabble, in which he says in part:

"The practice and policy of the New York Stock Exchange has always been, and still is, not to admit to the list of securities traded in upon the Exchange any securities unless the distribution thereof is, in the opinion of the Committee on Stock-List and of the Governing Committee, sufficient to afford a reasonable certainty that there will be a free and open market for the purchase and sale of such securities, and the policy and practice of the Exchange has been, and still is, to remove from the list of securities traded in upon the Exchange any securities the holdings of which have become so concentrated thta in the opinion of the Governing Committee there can no longer be a free and open market therein.

"The stock of the Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc., which in the complaint and herein is referred to as 'Stutz stock,' had prior to the 31st day of December, 1919, been admitted to the list of securities dealt in on the Exchange and continued to be listed until the 14th day of April, 1920, when it was stricken from the list as hereinafter stated.

Transactions Investigated.

"The plaintiff herein, Allan A. Ryan, became a member of the Exchange on June 15, 1905, and thereupon, in accordance with Article XIII, Section 5, of the Constitution of the Exchange, he signed said Constitution and thereby pledged himself to abide by the same and all subsequent amendments thereto. He continued to be a member of the Exchange until he was expelled therefrom on the 23d day of June, 1920, as hereinafter stated.

"The transactions in Stutz stock and the course of prices therein prior to and on the 25th day of March, 1920, attracted the attention of the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Business Conduct Committee of the Exchange, Winthrop Burr and Edward H. H. Simmons, who, in accordance with their duties as Chairman and Vice-Chairman, made inquiry with regard to such transactions and ascertained that a very great proportion thereof, including both purchases and sales, were for account of the plaintiff herein, Allan A. Ryan or his firm, Allan A. Ryan & Co. They thereupon asked said plaintiff, Allan A. Ryan, to come before the Committee on Business Conduct. He came before the said committee on the 25th day of March, 1920, and thereafter up to and including the 31st day of March, 1920, held conferences with members of said committee and of the Law Committee.

"At said meeting on the 25th day of March, 1920, he stated to the Business Conduct Committee that the stock of the Stutz Motor Company of America, Inc., was cornered and at said meeting and at the subsequent meetings and conferences made statements from which it appeared, as was the fact, that there was no longer a free and open market in said stock, but that he and his associates held substantially all of the stock of said company, and that he held in addition contracts for the delivery or return to him of many thousand shares of said stock which those who were obligated to deliver or return the same could not obtain from any source except from him or his associates. He was informed that he should take whatever steps might be necessary to restore a free and open market by the sale of Stutz stock or otherwise and was given an opportunity to do so.

Dealings Suspended.

"He did not, however, take effective steps to restore a free and open market in Stutz stock, but maintained the corner therein, and at the close of business on March 31, 1920, said corner continued. There was substantially no Stutz stock except that held by the plaintiff and his associates, and it was contrary to the policy of the Exchange and to the interest of the public to permit further dealings therein upon the Exchange. The Business Conduct Committee and the Law Committee after the close of business on March 31, 1920, reported the condition of the market in Stutz stock to the Governing Committee, and the Governing Committee thereupon in the exercise of the powers vested in it by Article XXXIII., Section 4, of the Constitution of the Exchange, in accordance with the policy of the Exchange and for the protection of the public, adopted the resolution suspending dealings in Stutz stock. The said resolution of the Governing Committee continued in effect until April 14, 1920. On or about April 14, 1920, the Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc., with the approval and concurrence of the plaintiff herein, formally requested that its stock should be stricken from the list, and on April 14 the Governing Committee adopted a resolution striking said stock from the list.

"The contracts for the delivery of Stutz stock, or for the return of Stutz stock that had been borrowed, which were open at the close of business on March 31 for the most part continued open and unsettled until the 24th day of April, 1920, when a settlement was made between the plaintiff, Allan A. Ryan, and all the members of the Exchange and Exchange firms who were then liable to deliver or return Stutz stock to said Allan A. Ryan or to his brokers for his account. Said Allan A. Ryan exacted from said Exchange members and firms as a condition of said settlement amounts arbitrarily fixed by him which were unreasonable and excessive."

Mr. Remick then takes up the charges preferred by the Governing Committee against Mr. Ryan and the latter's subsequent ouster from the Exchange. He points out that Mr. Ryan did not appear for trial, although notified by the committee. He asserts that the charge that Mr. Ryan had created a corner in Stutz had been sustained by evidence, and that the committee acted in good faith in the discharge of its duties.

REPORTS 600 VANS AT WORK

Owners' Association Says Operations Are 50 Per Cent. of Normal.

The Van Owners' Association reported yesterday that the members of the association had 600 vans at work in the city or about one-half of the total number of vans operating normally. It was said that new men were being engaged to take the places of the strikers, who have been out for a month.

Union representatives declared that they would hold out in their demand for increases in wages or from $5 to $8 a week, and denied the reports that there were many defections from their ranks. The employers said that from 400 to 500 union men have returned to work.

A fire in the stable of the Schwartz Van and Delivery Company early yesterday morning destroyed three vans.

SIXTH BOSTON BANK CLOSED IN 60 DAYS

IS SOUND, SAY OFFICIALS

Offered to Pledge Personal Resources to Protect Bank—Coolidge Reassures the Public.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—The sixth Boston banking institution to be closed within two months, the Fidelity Trust Company, was taken over by the State Banking Commissioner today. The action brought quick announcement from the Boston Clearing House Committee that steps would be taken to prevent further trouble among Boston banks by guaranteeing to come to the assistance of all solvent institutions.

Notice was posted of the closing of the Fidelity this morning at the opening hour for business. The cause given was "heavy withdrawals of deposits and slow and doubtful loans." The Fidelity was one of the three trust companies, Fidelity, Tremont and Dorchester, which invoked yesterday the ninety-day law on withdrawal of savings deposits in order to check a run.

The Fidelity had a capital of $3,000,000 and a surplus of $700,000. Deposits totaled about $18,000,000, according to bank officials. James G. Ferguson, its President, is affiliated with several other financial and industrial institutions, as is Edwin T. McKnight, the Vice President, who also is President of the State Senate.

Declare Fidelity Is Sound.

Mr. McKnight and the other officers of the trust company were summoned to the State Bank Commissioner's office last night. They asserted that the institution was solvent, and offered to pledge their entire personal resources to protect the institution, if it could be allowed to remain open. State Bank Commissioner Allen, however, could see no other way than to close the trust company.

On the heels of the closing of the Fidelity came the report that Mr. McKnight had severed all connection with the Dorchester Trust Company, Charlestown Trust Company, Stoughton Trust Company and the Atlas Trust Company of Springfield. He still retains his connection with the Fidelity and the Medford Trust Company, it is said.

The City of Boston, as has been the case with all the closed companies, had no money in the Fidelity when it was closed this morning, although its deposit there last December totaled $500,000. The State, however, was not so fortunate, as it has nearly $50,000 tied up in the Fidelity, on top of the hundreds of thousands tied up in the closed Hanover Trust, Prudential and Cosmopolitan.

It should be said in behalf of State Treasurer Jackson, however, that none of this money was placed with the trust companies during his term of office, which term dates from this month only, but that, on the contrary, he had been gradually reducing the amount of the State's deposits. The money was largely placed there by his predecessor, Mr. Burrell, who resigned as the result of the storm of criticism aroused by his conducting an advertising business, largely with banks, while holding the office of State Treasurer.

Crank Threatens Allen.

As a result of the unrest in banking circles, special guards have been placed about the various banking institutions until the unrest disappears. A crank was arrested at the State House today, when after invading the Bank Commissioner's office and failing to see the Commissioner he declared:

"It's no use for him to try to hide from me. I'll get him if he does. I'll shoot him."

Special guards were then placed about the office to prevent a repetition of the scene. Mr. Allen will also be guarded on the street.

Governor Coolidge issued a reassuring statement today, saying:

"From all I can hear, the banking situation is quieting down. I understand the demands for deposits have practically stopped. The Bank Commissioner assures me everything he hears is reassuring.

"The second thought of the people is in favor of coming to the rescue of the situation. The disquieting rumors have ceased and the ordinary confidence has returned. All that is needed for an adequate remedy is a continuation of public confidence. This seems to exist this morning."

McHARG SUED FOR STOCK.

Corporation Alleges He Obtained It at Sale Without Competition.

An equity suit instituted in the Federal Court yesterday by the Commonwealth Finance Corporation, engaged in the sale of stocks on the installment plan, accuses Ormsby McHarg, a Director of the company and formerly its Secretary and general counsel, and several others of obtaining shares of stock on which the purchasers had defaulted at a sale where there was no competition. The other defendants are C. T. Stevens, McHarg's mother-in-law, A. M. Twomey, his secretary and stenographer; M. E. Benedict of this city and Charles Fuller of Port Washington.

The complaint alleges that McHarg sought to conceal from the corporation the fact that the only bid for the stock was one which he had procured, and that the corporation agent at Pierre, S. D., had falsely reported that the stock had been purchased by Benedict, Stevens and Fuller. The value of the stock involved is placed at $10,220 and the plaintiff asks the court to order its return to the corporation.

Machinists Won't Leave A. F. of L.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The International Association of Machinists today voted down a resolution to withdraw affiliation from the American Federation of Labor as being unprogressive, unable to bring harmony in the ranks of labor and having officials that have become reactionary. The convention pledged itself to work for the repeal of the Kansas industrial relations law.

Twenty-Six Millions of Dollars for New Telephone Plant This Year

THIS YEAR our engineers called for $26,000,000 for new telephone plant in New York City—the largest amount we have ever put into new plant in a single year. In 1914, a normal year, our capital expenditure for new telephone facilities for the Greater City was $6,975,000.

During the war commercial telephony was not considered an "essential industry." The necessary development and expansion of the city's telephone system stood still. Our reserve plant was exhausted in meeting the requirements of the United States Government and essential industries. Now we must do the new work postponed during the war years and the current new work required by the unprecedented demand for new service.

New capital must be raised to do this work. Revenue must pay the interest on it. Revenue must bear the cost of operating and maintaining the new equipment provided by that capital. Revenue must pay the depreciation charges upon the new facilities.

At the present time our revenue does not even meet the bare expense of operating the existing plant.

WITHOUT INCREASED RATES we cannot pay the interest on this new capital. In the face of such a situation how can we induce investors to put additional money into the business?

But we must secure large sums of new capital each year. We must go on. New York City demands the increased service which new investment alone makes possible. We must put as much or more new money into New York's telephone system during each of the next few years.

There is no stopping the growth of this city. And one of the first things greater city development demands is greater telephone facilities.

We are doing our part to bring back to New York the kind of service it once enjoyed—the best in the world. It is your part to pay rates that will meet the reasonable requirements of the business.
